Custom House Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that, owing to the difficulty of dealing with dutiable goods at Koila Ghat, boat-notes will not be issued for this wharf after the 1st July next

Importers are accordingly warned to be prepared to pass the goods hitherto passed over Koila Ghat through the new Jetty extension shed from the date mentioned, unless they prefer to pass them through any of the other wharves appointed for the landing of dutiable cargo under the Sea Customs Act.

L. F. MORSHEAD,
Collector of Customs.

Custom House, Calcutta, the 15th May 1907.

Custom House Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given to importers that, with effect from the 15th August next, such descriptions as "Fast Colour", "Warranted Fast Colour", "Pucca Rung" or the like applied to dyed cotton goods in English or in the Vernacular will be dealt with as "false trade descriptions" of the material of which the goods are composed, unless the goods stand the test described below:—

Test.

A swatch of the cloth to be boiled for 10 minutes in a solution containing 4 grammes of a good neutral curd soap to a litre of water. Strands of the dyed cloth to be also twisted with strands of white cloth, and boiled in the above solution for the same period.

If under the above treatment the dyed cloth should change or lose any appreciable portion of its colour other than surface colour, or the colour should run materially from any one portion of the cloth to any other, or into the white fabric soaped along with it, or the solution into which the dyed cloth is boiled become coloured to a material extent, the cloth under test will not be deemed to be of "Fast Colour".

L. F. MORSHEAD,
Collector of Customs.

Custom House, Calcutta, the 14th May 1907.

Custom House Notice.

IT is hereby notified for the information of importers that, with effect from the 1st of June, an all-round rate of ¼ per cent. will be added in the case of goods not assessed upon a market value or tariff valuation to the value upon which duty has been hitherto assessed. The addition is intended to cover the cost of landing, which cost should be included in the real value upon which duty is leviable under section 30 of the Sea Customs Act.

L F. MORSHEAD,
Collector of Customs.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt: and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Calcutta, or

the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad.

(iii) in clause (b) of sub-section (4), the word "and" shall be omitted, and

(iv) to the said sub-section (4) the following shall be added, namely:—

"and (d), improvements effected by the landlord or by the occupancy-raiyat in respect of the raiyat's holding, and to the rules laid down in section 33 regarding enhancement of rent on the ground of a landlord's improvement."

New section 40A.

12. After section 40 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"40A. (1) Where the rent of a holding has been commuted under section 40, it shall not, except on the ground of a landlord's improvement or of a subsequent alteration of the area of the holding, be enhanced for fifteen years; nor shall it be reduced for fifteen years, save on the ground of alteration in the area of the holding, or on the ground specified in clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 38.

Period for which commuted rents are to remain unaltered.

(2) The said period of fifteen years shall be counted from the date on which the order takes effect under sub-section (5) of section 40."

Addition to section 52.

13 To section 52 of the said Act, the following shall be added, namely:—

"(6) When in a suit under this section the landlord or tenant proves that, at the time the measurement on which the claim is based was made, there existed in respect of the estate or permanent tenure or part thereof in which the tenure or holding is situate, a practice of settlement being made after measurement of the land assessed with rent, it may be presumed that the area of the tenure or holding specified in any patta or kabuliyat, or (where there is an entry of area in a counterfoil receipt corresponding to the entry in the rent-roll) in any rent-roll relating to it, has been entered in such patta, kabuliyat or rent-roll after measurement."

Amendment of section 58.

14 For sub-section (3) of section 58 of the said Act, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"(3) If a landlord or his agent without reasonable cause fails to deliver to the tenant a receipt or statement, or to prepare and retain a counterfoil or copy of a receipt or statement, as required by either of the said sections, such landlord or agent, as the case may be, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, to be imposed, after summary inquiry, by the Collector.

(4) The Collector may hold a summary inquiry under sub-section (3) either on information received from a Revenue-officer within one year, or upon complaint of the party aggrieved made within three months, from the date of failure, or upon the report of a Civil Court.

(5) Where, in any case instituted under sub-section (3), the Collector discharges any landlord or agent, and is satisfied that the complaint of the tenant on which the proceedings were instituted is false or vexatious, the Collector may, in his discretion, by his order of discharge, direct the tenant to pay to such landlord or agent such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Collector thinks fit.

(6) An appeal shall lie to the Commissioner of the Division against any order of the Collector imposing a fine under sub-section (3) or awarding compensation under sub-section (5); and the orders passed by the Commissioner on such appeal shall, subject to any order which may be passed on revision by the Board of Revenue, be final.

(7) Any fine imposed or compensation awarded under this section may be recovered in the manner provided by any law for the time being in force for the recovery of a public demand.

(8) For the purpose of an inquiry under this section, the Collector shall have power to summon, and enforce the attendance of, witnesses, and compel the production of documents in the same manner as is provided in the case of a Court under the Code of Civil Procedure." XIV of 1882.

Amendment of section 67.

15. In section 67 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885— VIII of 1885

(a) after the word "twelve" the words "and-a-half" shall be inserted, and

(b) for the words "to the institution of the suit" the words "to the date of payment or of the institution of the suit, whichever date is earlier." shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 69.

16. (1) To sub-section (3) of section 69 of the said Act, the following shall be added, namely:—

"but an order made by the Collector under this sub-section shall not prevent the execution of any order passed by the Court for the distraint of the tenant's crops."

(2) To the said section the following shall be added, namely :—

"(4) Every officer appointed by the Collector under sub-section (1) to appraise or divide the produce shall, for the purposes of the Indian Penal Code, be deemed to be a public servant." XLV of 1860.

Amendment of section 75.

17. In section 75 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, after the word "rent" the words "or interest" shall be inserted. VIII of 1885.

Amendment of section 88.

18. (1) In section 88 of the said Act, for the words "with his consent in writing" the words "with his express consent in writing, or with that of his agent duly authorized in that behalf" shall be substituted.

(2) To the same section the following proviso shall be added, namely :—

"Provided that, if there is proved to have been made in any landlord's rent-roll any entry showing that any tenure or holding has been divided, or that the rent payable in respect thereof has been distributed, such landlord may be presumed to have given his express consent in writing to such division or distribution."

Amendment of sub-section (2) of section 101.

19. In sub-section (2) of section 101 of the said Act,—

(1) for clause (a) the following clause shall be substituted, namely :—

"(a) where—

(i) the landlord or tenants, or

(ii) a proportion of not less than one-half of the total number of landlords, or

(iii) a landlord, or a proportion of the landlords, whose interest, or the aggregate of whose interests, respectively, in the lands of the local area, estate or tenure or part thereof is not less than one-half of the total shares of all the landlords therein, or

(iv) a proportion of not less than one-fourth of the total number of tenants, applies, or apply, for such an order, depositing, or giving security for, such amount for the payment of expenses as the Local Government directs;" and

(2) to clause (c) the following shall be added, namely :—

"or a Manager appointed by the District Judge under section 95;"

Amendment of section 102.

20. In section 102 of the said Act—

(1) after clause (d) the following clause shall be inserted, namely :—

"(dd) the name of each proprietor in the local area or estate;"

(2) after clause (g) the following clause shall be inserted, and shall be deemed to have been so inserted from the commencement of the Bengal Tenancy (Amendment) Act, 1898, namely :— Ben. Act III of 1898.

"(gg) the rights and obligations of each tenant and landlord in respect of—

(i) the use by tenants of water for agricultural purposes, whether obtained from a river, jhil, tank or well or any other source of supply, and

(ii) the repair and maintenance of appliances for securing a supply of water for the cultivation of the land held by each tenant, whether or not such appliances be situated within the boundaries of such land;".

(3) After clause (h) the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"(i) any right of way or other easement attaching to the land for which a record-of-rights is being prepared;"

and the existing clause (i) shall be re-lettered clause (j).

New section 102A.

21. After section 102 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, so amended the following shall be inserted, namely:— VIII of 1885.

"102A. The Local Government may, for the purpose of settling or averting disputes existing or likely to arise between landlords, tenants, proprietors, or persons belonging to any of these classes regarding the use or passage of water, Power to order survey and preparation of record-of-rights as to water.

make an order directing that a survey be made, and a record-of-rights be prepared, by a Revenue-officer, in order to ascertain and record the rights and obligations of each tenant and landlord in any local area, estate or tenure or part thereof, in respect of—

(a) the use by tenants of water for agricultural purposes, whether obtained from a river, jhil, tank or well or any other source of supply; and

(b) the repair and maintenance of appliances for securing a supply of water for the cultivation of the land held by each tenant, whether or not such appliances be situated within the boundaries of such land."

Amendment of section 103B.

22. For section 103B of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"103B. (1) In any suit or other proceeding in which a record-of-rights prepared and published under this Chapter, or a duly certified copy thereof or extract therefrom, is produced, such record-of-rights shall be presumed to have been finally published, unless such publication is expressly denied; and a certificate signed by the Revenue-officer, or by the Collector of any district in which the local area, estate or tenure or part thereof to which the record-of-rights relates, is wholly or partly situate, stating that a record-of-rights has been finally published under this Chapter, shall be conclusive evidence of such publication.

Presumption as to final publication and correctness of record-of-rights.

(2) The Local Government may, by notification, declare, with regard to any specified area, that a record-of-rights has been finally published for every village included in such area, and such notification shall be conclusive evidence of such publication.

(3) Every entry in a record-of-rights so published shall be evidence of the matter referred to in such entry, and shall be presumed to be correct until it is proved by evidence to be incorrect."

Amendment of heading to Part II of Chapter X.

23. In the heading to Part II of Chapter X of the said Act, for the words "decision of disputes" the words "disposal of objections" shall be substituted.

Amendment of sections 104 and 105.

24. (1) In clause (b) of section 104, and in sub-section (2) of section 105 of the said Act, for the word, letter and brackets "clause (i)" the word, letter and brackets "clause (j)" shall be substituted.

(2) To the said section 104, the following proviso shall be added, namely :—

"Provided that the Revenue-officer shall not settle the rents of tenants of every class in an estate or tenure belonging to the Government, if it does not appear to the Local Government to be expedient that he should do so."

Amendment of sub-section (3), clause (g), of section 104H.

25. In clause (g) of sub-section (3) of section 104H of the said Act, for the words "have not been recorded or have" the words "or any right of way or other easement attaching to the land which is the subject of the tenancy have not, or has not, been recorded or have, or has," shall be substituted.

New section 105A.

26. After section 105 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely :—

Decision of questions arising during the course of settlement of rents under this Part.

"105A. Where, in any proceedings for the settlement of rents under this Part, any of the following issues arise :—

(a) whether the land is, or is not, liable to the payment of rent ;

(b) whether the land, although entered in the record-of-rights as being held rent-free, is liable to the payment of rent ;

(c) whether the relation of landlord and tenant exists ;

(d) whether the land has been wrongly recorded as part of a particular estate or tenancy, or wrongly omitted from the lands of an estate or tenancy ;

(e) whether the tenant belongs to a class different from that to which he is shown in the record-of-rights as belonging ;

(f) whether the special conditions and incidents of the tenancy or any right-of-way or other easement attaching to the land have not, or has not, been recorded or have, or has, been wrongly recorded, the Revenue-officer shall try and decide such issue and settle the rent under section 105 accordingly :

Provided that the Revenue-officer shall not try any issue under this section, which has been, or is already, directly and substantially in issue between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, and has been tried and decided, or is already being tried, by a Revenue-officer in a suit instituted before him under section 106."

Addition of proviso to section 106.

27. To section 106 of the said Act the following proviso shall be added, namely :—

"Provided also that in any suit under this section the Revenue-officer shall not try any issue which has been, or is already, directly and substantially in issue between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, in proceedings for the settlement of rents under this Part, where such issue has been tried and decided, or is already being tried, by a Revenue-officer under section 105A."

Amendment of section 107.

28. In section 107 of the said Act—

(a) in sub-section (1) for the words and figures "In all proceedings for the settlement of rents under this Part, and in all proceedings under section 106" the words, figures and letter "In all proceedings under section 105, section 105A and section 106" shall be substituted, and

(b) for sub-section (2) the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"(2) A note of all rents settled under section 105 and of all decisions of issues or disputes under section 105A or section 106, and of all rents commuted under section 40 by a Revenue officer appointed by the designation of Settlement Officer or Assistant Settlement Officer, shall be made in the record-of-rights finally published under sub-section (2) of section 103A, and such note shall be considered as part of the record."

Amendment of section 108.

29. In section 108 of the said Act, after the words and figures "section 105" the word, figures and letter "section 105A" shall be inserted.

New section 108A.

30. After section 108 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely : —

"108A. Any Revenue-officer specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may, on application or of his own motion, within twelve months from the date of the certificate of the final publication of the record-of-rights under sub-section (2) of section 103A, correct any entry in such record-of-rights which he is satisfied has been made owing to a bond-fide mistake :

Correction by Revenue-officer of mistakes in record-of rights.

Provided that no such correction shall be made if an appeal affecting such entry is pending under section 109A, or until reasonable notice has been given to the parties concerned to appear and be heard in the matter."

Amendment of section 109.

31. In section 109 of the said Act, for the words and figures "or suit instituted under section 105, section 106, section 107 or section 108", the words, figures and brackets "suit instituted or proceedings taken under sections 105 to 108 (both inclusive)" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 109A.

32. In sub-section (2) of section 109A of the said Act, after the figures "108" the letter "A" shall be inserted.

New sections 109B, 109C and 109D

33. In Part IV of Chapter X of the said Act so amended, immediately before section 110, the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"109B. (1) In framing a record-of-rights, and in deciding disputes, under this Chapter, the Revenue-officer shall give effect to any lawful agreement or compromise made or entered into by any landlord and his tenant, but he shall not give effect to any agreement or compromise the terms of which, if they were embodied in a contract, could not be enforced under this Act.

Power of Revenue-officer to give effect to agreement or compromise.

(2) Where any agreement or compromise has been made for the purpose of settling a dispute as to the rent payable, the Revenue-officer shall, in order to ascertain whether the effect of such agreement or compromise would be to enhance the rent in a manner, or to an extent, not allowed by section 29 in the case of a contract, record evidence as to the rent which was legally payable immediately before the period in respect of which the dispute arose.

(3) Where the terms of any agreement or compromise are such as might unfairly or inequitably affect the rights of third parties, the Revenue-officer shall not give effect to such agreement or compromise, unless and until he is satisfied by evidence that the statements made by the parties thereto are correct.

Illustration.—A, a proprietor, agrees that B, his tenant, shall be recorded as an occupancy-raiyat ; this affects the rights of the tenants of B. The Revenue-officer must, under sub section (3), inquire whether B is a tenure holder or a raiyat, as defined in section 5 If he finds on the evidence that B is a raiyat, he may give effect to the agreement, but shall not do so if he finds that B is a tenure-holder.

"109C (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 109B, if, in any case, while the record is being prepared, the landlord and tenant agree as to the rent which shall be recorded as payable for the tenure or holding, a Revenue-officer specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government may, if he is satisfied that the rent agreed upon is fair and equitable, but not otherwise, settle such rent as a fair and equitable rent, although the terms of the agreement are such that, if they were embodied in a contract, they could not be enforced under this Act; and the provisions of section 113 shall apply to a rent so settled.

Power of Revenue-officer to settle rents on agreement.

(2) A landlord or tenant may appeal to the Special Judge appointed under section 109A on the ground that the rent settled by the Revenue-officer, under sub-section (1), as a fair and equitable rent, was not agreed to by such landlord or tenant, and on no other ground.

(3) The Board of Revenue may, on application made, or of its own motion in proceedings undertaken, within one year from the date of the order, under sub-section (1), settling a rent as a fair and equitable rent, direct the revision of the rent so settled:

Provided that no such direction shall be made until reasonable notice has been given to the parties concerned to appear and be heard in the matter.

"109D. A note of all rents settled and of all decisions of disputes, on revision or appeal under section 108, section 109A, or sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) of section 109C, shall be made in the record-of-rights finally published under sub-section (2) of section 103A, and such note shall be considered as part of the record."

Note of decisions on record.

Amendment of section 111

34. In section 111 of the said Act, after the word "entertain" the words and figures "any application made under section 158, or" shall be inserted.

New section 111B.

35. After section 111A of the said Act, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"111B. (1) Where a record-of-rights has been prepared and finally published in respect of the land in an area in which a settlement of land-revenue is not being made, or is not about to be made, no application or suit affecting such land or any tenant thereof shall, within three months from the date of the certificate of final publication of such record-of-rights, be made or instituted in any Civil Court for the decision of any of the following issues, namely:—

Stay of suits in which certain issues arise.

(a) whether the land is or is not liable to the payment of rent;

(b) whether the relation of landlord and tenant exists;

(c) whether the land is part of a particular estate or tenancy; or

(d) whether there is any special condition or incident of the tenancy, or whether any right-of-way or other easement attaches to the land.

(2) If, before the final publication of the record-of-rights in such area, a suit involving the decision of any of the issues mentioned in sub-section (1) has been instituted in a Civil Court, the Revenue-officer shall not entertain any suit under section 106 involving the decision of the same issue.

(3) Where, in the course of settling fair rents under section 105, the Revenue-officer finds that, by reason of a suit involving the decision of any of the issues mentioned in sub-section (1) having been instituted in a Civil Court before the final publication of the record-of-rights, or before a Revenue-officer under section 106, he is unable to settle a fair rent until such issue is decided, the Revenue-officer shall stay the proceedings, for the settlement of a fair rent, pending a final decision on the issue.

And, after the issue has been finally decided, he shall settle a fair rent, as if the record-of-rights had been framed in accordance with such decision.

(4) Where the making of an application or institution of a suit has been delayed owing to the operation of sub-section (1), the period of three months therein mentioned shall be excluded in computing the period of limitation prescribed for such suit or application.

Amendment of section 112.

36. (1) In sub-section (1) of section 112 of the said Act for the words "invest a Revenue-officer acting under this Chapter" the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"or that any landlord is demanding rents which have been illegally enhanced above those entered as payable in a record-of-rights prepared under this Chapter, invest a Revenue-officer".

(2) After sub-section (2) of the said section the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"(2a) A settlement of rents under this section shall be made in the manner provided by sections 104 to 104J (both inclusive)."

(3) To sub-section (3) of the said section the following shall be added, namely:—

"and the revision, by direction of the Board of Revenue under sub-section (2) of section 104G, of a record-of-rights, or any portion of a record-of-rights, prepared under this section, shall be subject to a like confirmation by the Governor General in Council."

Amendment of section 114.

37. In section 114 of the said Act—

(1) in sub-section (1)—

(a) the words "by the Government" are hereby repealed, and

(b) for the words "from time to time in the maintenance," the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"at any time, whether before or after the preparation of the record-of-rights, in the maintenance, repair or restoration";

(c) after the word "proportions" the words and brackets "and in such instalments (if any)," shall be inserted;

(2) after sub-section (1), the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"(2) The estimated amount of the expenses likely to be incurred for the maintenance, repair or restoration of boundary-marks for a period not exceeding fifteen years, or such part of such amount as the Local Government may direct, may be recovered in advance in the same manner as if such expenses had been already incurred";

(3) the present sub-section (2) shall be re-numbered sub-section (3), and

(4) after sub-section (3), so re-numbered, and before the Explanation the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"(4) The cost of preparing copies of survey maps and records-of-rights under this Chapter for distribution to landlords and tenants shall be deemed to be part of the expenses incurred in carrying out the provisions of this Chapter."

New section 115A.

38. After section 115 of the said Act, the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"115A. In the demarcation of village boundaries for the purpose of making a survey and preparing a record-of-rights under this Chapter, a Revenue-officer shall, so far as is possible, and subject to the provisions of the Bengal Survey Act, 1875, preserve, as the unit of survey and record, the area contained within the exterior boundaries of the village maps of the revenue survey, if any ;

Demarcation of village boundaries.

Ben. Act V of 1875.

and, where village maps prepared at a previous revenue survey exist, he shall not, without the sanction of the Board of Revenue, adopt any other area as such unit."

Addition to heading to Chapter XI.

39. To the heading to Chapter XI of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, the following words shall be prefixed, namely :—

VIII of 1885.

"NON-ACCRUAL OF OCCUPANCY AND NON-OCCUPANCY RIGHTS, AND ".

Amendment of section 116.

40. In section 116 of the said Act, after the words "shall apply to" the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"lands acquired under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, for the Government or for any Local Authority or for a Railway Company, or lands belonging to the Government within a Cantonment, while such lands remain the property of the Government, or of any Local Authority or Railway Company, or to ".

I of 1894

Amendment of section 120.

41. After sub-section (2) of section 120 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, the following shall be inserted, namely :—

VIII of 1885

"(2a) Notwithstanding anything contained in any agreement or compromise, or in any decree which is proved to his satisfaction to have been obtained by collusion or fraud, a Revenue-officer shall not record any land as a proprietor's private land, unless it is proved to be such by satisfactory evidence of the nature described in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2)."

New sections 147A and 147B.

42. After section 147 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"147A. (1) The provisions of section 375 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall not apply to any suit between landlord and tenant as such.

XIV of 1882.

Compromise of suits between landlord and tenant.

(2) If any suit between landlord and tenant as such is adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise, or if the defendant satisfies the plaintiff in respect to the whole or any part of the matter of the suit, the Court shal pass a decree in accordance with such agreement, compromise or satisfaction, so far as it relates to the suit :

Provided that no decree shall be passed in accordance with any agreement or compromise the terms of which, if they were embodied in a contract, could not be enforced under this Act.

(3) Where any agreement or compromise has been made for the purpose of settling a dispute as to the rent payable, the Court shall, in order to ascertain whether the effect of such agreement or compromise would be to enhance the rent in a manner, or to an extent, not allowed by section 29 in the case of a contract, record evidence as to the rent which was legally payable immediately before the period in respect of which the dispute arose.

(4) Where the terms of any agreement or compromise are such as might unfairly or inequitably affect the rights of third parties, the Court shall not pass a decree in accordance with such agreement or compromise, unless and until it is satisfied by evidence that the statements made by the parties thereto are correct.

Illustration.—A, a proprietor, agrees that B, his tenant, shall be recorded as an occupancy-raiyat; this affects the rights of the tenants of B. The Court must, under sub-section (4), inquire whether B is a tenure-holder or a raiyat as defined in section 5. If the Court finds on the evidence that B is a raiyat, it may pass a decree in accordance with the agreement, but shall not do so if it finds that B is a tenure holder.

(5) A decree passed in accordance with any lawful agreement, compromise or satisfaction shall be final so far as it relates to so much of the subject-matter of the suit as is dealt with by such agreement, compromise or satisfaction.

"147B. In all areas for which a record-of-rights has been prepared and finally published under sub-section (2) of section 103A, a Civil Court shall, in all suits between landlord and tenant as such, have regard to the entries in such record-of-rights relating to the subject-matter in dispute which may be produced before it, unless such entries have been proved by evidence to be incorrect; and when a Civil Court passes a decree at variance with such entries, it shall record its reasons for so doing."

Regard to be had by Civil Courts to entries in record-of-rights.

Amendment of section 148.

43. (1) After clause (b) of section 148 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, the following shall be inserted, namely:— VIII of 1885.

"(b1) where the suit is for the rent of land situated within an area for which a record-of-rights has been prepared and finally published, the plaint shall further contain a list of the survey plots comprised in the tenancy and a statement of the rental of the tenancy according to the record-of-rights, unless the Court is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded in writing, that the plaintiff was prevented by any sufficient cause from furnishing such list or statement:

Provided that, in all cases in which the Court admits a plaint which does not contain such statement, the Court shall, and in any other case in which it sees fit the Court may, require the Collector to supply, without payment of fee, a verified or certified copy of, or extract from, the record-of-rights relating to the tenancy;

"(b2) where an alteration has been made in the area of the tenancy, since the record-of-rights was prepared and finally published, the plaint shall further contain a statement of the rental of the original tenancy according to the record-of-rights, together with a statement showing how the amount of rent claimed in the suit has been computed."

(2) After clause (f) of the same section, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"(ff) when any account-books, rent-rolls, collection-papers, measurement-papers or maps have been produced by the landlord before any Court, and have been admitted in evidence in a suit pending therein, copies of, or extracts from, such documents, certified by a duly authorized officer of such Court to be true copies or extracts, may, with the permission of the Court, be substituted on the record for the originals, which may then be returned to the landlord; and thereafter copies and extracts, so certified, may be admitted in evidence in any other suit instituted in the same or any other Court, unless the Court before which they are produced sees fit to require the production of the originals".

New section 148A.

44. After section 148 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"148A. Where a co-sharer landlord who has instituted a suit to recover the rent due to all the co-sharer landlords in respect of an entire tenure or holding, and has made all the remaining co-sharers parties defendant to the suit, is unable to ascertain what rent is due for the whole tenure or holding, or whether the rent due to the other co-sharer landlords has been paid or not, owing to the refusal or neglect of the tenant, or of the co-sharer landlords defendant to the suit, to furnish him with correct information on these points, or on either of them, such plaintiff co-sharer landlord shall be entitled to proceed with the suit for his share only of the rent, and a decree obtained by him in a suit so framed shall, as regards the remedies for enforcing the same, be as effectual as a decree obtained by a sole landlord or an entire body of landlords in a suit brought for the rent due to all the co-sharers."

Suits for arrears of rent by co-sharer landlords.

Amendment of sections 149 and 150.

45. The words "except for special reasons to be recorded in writing", in sections 149 and 150 of the said Act, are hereby repealed.

Addition of Explanation to section 153.

46. To section 153 of the said Act the following Explanation shall be added, namely :—

"Explanation.—A question as to the regularity of the proceedings in publishing or conducting a sale in execution of a decree for arrears of rent is not a question relating to title to land or to some interest in land as between parties having conflicting claims thereto."

New section 153A.

47. After section 153 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"153A. Every application for an order under section 108 of the Code of Civil Procedure to set aside a decree passed ex-parte, or for a review of judgment, under section 623 of the said Code, in a suit between a landlord and tenant as such, shall contain a statement of the injury sustained by the applicant by reason of the decree or judgment; XIV of 1882.

Deposit on application to set aside ex-parte decree.

and no such application shall be admitted—

(a) unless the applicant has, at or before the time when the application is admitted, deposited in the Court to which the application is presented the amount, if any, which he admits to be due from him to the decree-holder, or such amount as the Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, direct; or

(b) unless the Court, after considering the statement of injury, is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, that no such deposit is necessary."

Amendment of sub-section (1) of section 158.

48. In sub-section (1) of section 158 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, before the words "The Court having jurisdiction" the words and figures "Subject to the provisions of section 111" shall be inserted. VIII of 1885.

New Chapter XIIIA and new section 158A.

49. After section 158 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"CHAPTER XIIIA.

"SUMMARY PROCEDURE FOR THE RECOVERY OF RENTS UNDER THE PUBLIC DEMANDS RECOVERY ACT, 1895. Ben. Act of 1895.

"158A. (1) Any landlord whose land is situate in an area for which a record-of-rights has been prepared and finally published, and in which such record is maintained, may apply to the Local Government, through the Collector of the district in which his land is situate, for the application of the procedure prescribed by the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1895, to the recovery of the arrears of rent which he alleges are, or may accrue, due to him for lands in such area. Ben. Act I of 1895.

Recovery of arrears by the certificate procedure in certain areas.

(2) The Local Government may reject any such application, or may allow it subject to such terms and conditions as it may see fit to impose, and may at any time add to or vary any terms or conditions so imposed, or withdraw its allowance of the application, without, in any of these cases, assigning any reason for its action.

(3) When any such application has been allowed, the landlord may make a requisition in writing, in the Form prescribed, to such Revenue-officer as the Local Government may appoint, for the purpose of this section, to perform the functions of a Certificate Officer under the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1895, for the recovery of any arrears of rent which he alleges are due to him from any tenant. Ben. Act I of 1895.

(4) Every such requisition shall be signed and verified by the landlord making it, in accordance with the provisions of sections 51 and 52 of the Code of Civil Procedure as to the verification of plaints; and there shall be payable in respect of every such requisition a Court-fee of the same amount as is payable under the Court-fees Act for the time being in force in respect of a plaint for the recovery of a sum of money equal to that stated in such requisition. XIV of 1882. VII of 1870.

(5) On receipt of such requisition the Revenue-officer may, in accordance with such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, issue certificates in the Form prescribed therefor for the recovery of the arrears alleged to be due, and any such certificate shall, as regards the remedies for enforcing the same and so far only, have the force and effect of a decree of a Civil Court passed in a suit for the recovery of rent, and the provisions of Chapter XIV shall, so far as may be practicable, be applicable to all proceedings for the execution of such certificate:

Provided that—

(a) no certificate shall be issued for the recovery of arrears of rent of a tenancy regarding which a suit has been instituted in a Civil Court for the alteration of the rent payable by the tenant or the determination of his status as a tenant, in respect of the period during which it is alleged in the requisition made under sub-section (3) the arrears of rent sought to be recovered have accrued; and,

(b) if after the issue of a certificate it is found that such a suit has been instituted in a Civil Court before the issue of the certificate, such certificate shall be cancelled.

(6) The following provisions of the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1895, shall, so far as they are applicable, apply to the proceedings for the execution of all certificates for the recovery of arrears of rent issued under sub-section (5), namely:— Ben. Act I of 1895.

'the proviso to sub-section (1) of section 7, and sections 10 to 17 (both inclusive), and 22 to 33 (both inclusive).'

(7) No landlord shall, during the pendency of any proceedings under this section, institute a suit in a Civil Court for the recovery of any arrears of rent in respect of which he has made a requisition under sub-section (3); and, subject to the provisions of section 15 of the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1895, no tenant shall, after the issue of any certificate against him under sub-section (3), institute a suit in, or apply to, a Civil Court for the alteration of the rent payable by him, or the determination of his status as a tenant, in respect of the period during which the arrears of rent for which such certificate was issued have accrued. Ben. Act I of 1895.

(8) The word 'landlord' in this section includes an entire body of landlords, and also one or more co-sharer landlords who collects or collect his or their share or shares of the rent separately, and, where the Revenue-officer issues a certificate on the requisition of one or more such co-sharer landlords, he shall at the same time issue to each of the remaining co-sharer landlords a copy of such certificate."

New section 158B.

50. In Chapter XIV of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, immediately before section 159, the following shall be inserted, namely: — VIII of 1885.

"158B. (1) Where a tenure or holding is sold in execution of a decree for arrears of rent due in respect thereof, or of a decree for damages under section 186A, the tenure or holding shall, subject to the provisions of section 22, pass to the purchaser, provided that the decree in execution of which it has been sold has been obtained by—

Passing of tenure or holding sold in execution of decree.

(b) the entire body of landlords; or

(c) one or more co-sharer landlords, who has, or have, sued for the rent due to all the co-sharers in respect of the entire tenure or holding and made all the remaining co-sharers parties defendant to the suit.

(2) When one or more co-sharer landlords, having obtained a decree in a suit framed under sub-section (1) or under section 148A applies, or apply, for the execution of the decree by the sale of the tenure or holding, the Court shall, before proceeding to sell the tenure or holding, give notice of the application for execution to the other co-sharers."

Addition of clause (c) to section 161.

51. To section 161 of the said Act the following shall be added, namely:—

"(c) the terms 'arrears' and 'arrear of rent' shall be deemed to include interest decreed under section 67 or damages awarded in lieu of interest under sub-section (1) of section 68."

Amendment of section 168.

52. In sub-section (1) of section 168 of the said Act, for the words "decrees for rent" the words "a decree for an arrear of rent" shall be substituted.

Amendment of sub-section (1) of section 169 and addition of proviso.

53. (1) In clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 169 of the said Act, after the words "the date of" the words "the confirmation of" shall be inserted.

(2) To the said sub-section the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

"Provided that, where a tenure or holding has been sold in execution of a decree obtained by one or more co-sharer landlords in a suit framed under section 148A or sub-section (1) of section 158B,—

(i) payment of the amount due under such decree shall notwithstanding anything contained in clause (b), be made to the decree-holder and to the other co-sharer landlords in proportion to the amount found to be due to each, and,

(ii) if there remains a balance, payment of any rent which may have fallen due in respect of the tenure or holding between the institution of the suit and the date of the confirmation of the sale shall, notwithstanding anything contained in clause (c), but subject to the determination, in the manner and with the effect mentioned in sub-section (2), of any dispute as to their respective rights to receive such rent, be made to the said decree-holder and the other co-sharer landlords in proportion to their respective shares in the tenure or holding".

Amendment of section 170.

54. In section 170 of the said Act, after the words and brackets "(both inclusive)," the word, figures and letter "and 310A" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 174.

55. To the proviso to sub-section (2) of section 174 of the said Act, the following shall be added, namely :—

"and if he applies under this section, he shall not be entitled to make an application under section 311 of the Code of Civil Procedure." XIV of 1882.

Amendment of sub-section (3) of section 178.

56. (1) In proviso (iii) to section 178 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, after the words "cultivation of" the words "horticultural or" shall be inserted. VIII of 1885.

(2) To the same proviso the following Explanation shall be added, namely :—

"Explanation.—The expression 'horticultural land,' as used in proviso (iii), means garden land in the occupation of a proprietor or permanent tenure-holder, which is used bonâ fide for the cultivation of flowers or vegetables, or both, grown for the personal use of such proprietor or permanent tenure-holder and his family, and not for profit or sale."

New heading and new section 186A

57. After section 186 of the said Act, the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"Damages for denial of landlord's title.

Damages for denial of landlord's title

"186A. (1) When, in any suit between a landlord and tenant as such, the tenant renounces his character as tenant of the landlord by setting up without reasonable or probable cause title in a third person or himself, the Court may pass a decree in favour of the landlord for such amount of damages, not exceeding ten times the amount of the annual rent payable by the tenant, as it may consider to be just.

(2) The amount of damages decreed under sub-section (1), together with any interest accruing due thereon, shall, subject to the landlord's charge for rent, be a first charge on the tenure or holding of the tenant; and the landlord may execute such decree for damages and interest, either as a decree for a sum of money, or, subject to the provisions of section 158B, in any of the modes in which a decree for rent may be executed."

New section 188A.

58. After section 188 of the said Act, the following shall be inserted, namely :—

Procedure in suits by joint landlords

"188A. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, every suit between landlord and tenant as such instituted by—

(a) a sole landlord,

(b) the entire body of landlords, or,

(c) one or more co-sharer landlords, shall be subject to the provisions of sections 143 to 153 (both inclusive); and to every decree passed in a suit framed under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 158B, the provisions of Chapter XIV shall, so far as may be practicable, be applicable."

New clauses (2), (3) and (4) in section 189.

59. For sub-section (2) of section 189 of the said Act, the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"(2) to prescribe the forms to be used, and the mode of service of notices issued, under this Act, where no form or mode is prescribed by this or any other Act;

(3) to prescribe the manner in which landlord's fees shall be transmitted to the landlord; and

(4) to prescribe the authority by whom the fees deposited under sections 12, 13, 15, 17 and 18, clause (a), may be declared to be forfeited, and the mode in which such fees, when so forfeited, shall be dealt with."

Amendment of section 129.

60. In section 192 of the said Act, before the words "fix a fair and equitable rent" the words "or of his own motion shall" be inserted.

Amendment of Schedule III.

61. In Schedule III to the said Act,—

(1) after Article 1 the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"1 (a) To eject a non-occupancy raiyat on the ground of the expiration of the term of his lease.	Six months ...	The expiration of the term."

RESOLUTION ON THE HOWRAH BRIDGE BUDGET ESTIMATE FOR THE YEAR 1907-1908.

No. 1339 Marine.

Government of Bengal.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 15th May 1907.

RESOLUTION.

Howrah Bridge Budget Estimate for the year 1907-08.

READ—

Letter No. 13515, dated the 28th March 1907, from the Vice-Chairman of the Commissioners of the Port of Calcutta, submitting the Budget Estimate of the Howrah Bridge for the year 1907-08.

RECEIPTS.

THE receipts for the year 1907-08 have been estimated at Rs. 2,22,000, against Rs. 2,03,594 of the previous year. The increase of Rs. 18,406 in the income is based on the expected improvement in the receipts from Railway Traffic

EXPENDITURE.

2. The expenditure has been estimated at Rs. 2,10,600, against Rs. 1,92,772 of the preceding year. The increase in expenditure, viz., Rs. 17,828 is chiefly on account of the extra cost to be incurred on Establishment, Police, Electric Lighting, &c., required for the night openings of the bridge.

3. As a net result there is an estimated surplus of Rs. 11,400, against Rs. 10,822 in the last year.

4. The Lieutenant Governor sanctions the estimate under section 21 of Act IX (B.C.) of 1871.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

W. A. INGLIS,

Secretary.

REPORT ON THE STATE OF THE SALT MARKET FOR THE FOURTH QUARTER OF 1906-1907.

No. 2704B., dated Calcutta, the 8th May 1907.

From—Pandit Rama Ballabha Misra, M A., Offg. Secretary to the Board of Revenue, L. P.,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Financial Department.

I am directed to submit the following report on the state of the salt market for the fourth quarter of the year 1906-1907, comprising the months of January, February and March 1907.

Member in charge :
The Hon'ble Mr. W. C. Macpherson, C.S.I.

2. The quantity of salt of every description cleared during the quarter amounted to 28,00,087 maunds, as compared with 28,33,025 maunds in the previous quarter, and 23,76,672 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. The net amount of duty levied thereon was Rs. 35,47,980, as against Rs. 38,33,752 in the previous quarter, and Rs. 32,87,095 in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

3. The subjoined Table I shows in detail the importations into the port of Calcutta and the total clearances of sea-imported salt during the quarter, as compared with the figures of the corresponding quarters of the two previous years :—

The stocks remaining in the golas at the close of the quarter were less than in any of the previous four quarters.

5. The figures showing the despatches of salt from Calcutta by different routes during the quarter under report will be published as usual in the Calcutta Gazette by the Director-General of Commercial Intelligence when they are available.

6. The quantity of salt despatched during the quarter by the East Indian Railway to stations beyond Buxar amounted to 405 maunds, being the same quantity as in the previous quarter and as against nil in the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

7. The quantity of saltpetre salt excised in the refineries of Bengal during the quarter amounted to 8,961 maunds, as compared with 2,144 maunds in the previous quarter and 6,679 maunds in the corresponding period of the previous year.

8. The shipments of Liverpool salt during the quarter for the port of Calcutta, according to the published market reports, amounted to 42,340 tons. It is reported that the vessels noted in the margin* are on the sea bound for Calcutta with cargoes of salt from Hamburg. The quantity given against each ship is approximate only.

REGULATIONS FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF PROBATIONERS TO THE INDIAN FOREST SERVICE, 1907.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 45 T.R.—The 4th May 1907.—The following is published for general information.

E. A. GAIT,
Offg. Chief Secy to the Govt. of Bengal.

Circular No. $\frac{11\text{-F}}{131\text{-}2}$.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMEMT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

FORESTS.

Simla, the $\frac{20th}{26th}$ April 1907.

Regulations for the appointment of Probationers to the Indian Forest Service, 1907.

☞ Note.—The Regulations for 1908 will be the subject of separate consideration by the Secretary of State in Council. An announcement will be made concerning them in due course.

1. Appointments.—The Secretary of State for India in Council will, in the summer of 1907, make not less than eighteen appointments of Probationers for the Indian Forest Service, provided that so many candidates are considered to be in all respects qualified.

In making these appointments, he will act with the advice of a Selection Committee.

2. Applications for Appointment.—Applications for appointment must be made on a printed form to be obtained from the Secretary, Judicial and Public Department, India Office, Whitehall, London, S. W., and to be returned to him not later than Monday, the 1st July 1907.

3. Age Limits.—Candidates must have attained the age of 18 years on the 1st July 1907, and not have attained the age of 22 years on the 1st January 1907.

4. Nationality, &c.—Every candidate must be a natural-born British subject. He must be unmarried, and if he marries before reaching India he will forfeit his appointment.

5. General Qualifications.—Candidates must bring evidence, for considera tion by the Selection Committee, to show that they have received a good general education.

Note.—This should be understood to include, at the least, a fair knowledg of English Composition, Mathematics—up to and including Plane Trigono metry,—Latin, and either German or French. A knowledge of Greek is not necessary, but is left to the option of the candidates.

The production of School Certificates granted by the examining authorities of Universities, or of certificates that a candidate has passed the Matriculation Examination of a University, in the subjects named, or of other certificates held by the Secretary of State in Council to be equivalent, will be taken to show that a candidate satisfies the requirements of this clause.

6. Special Qualifications desirable.—It is also desirable that candidates should possess a knowledge of Chemistry, and also of Mechanics and Physics, as indicated in the appended Syllabus.

If any candidate be selected for appointment who does not possess a knowledge of Inorganic Chemistry, he will be required to pass in it within six months after his selection.

7. Medical Examination.—Those candidates who are selected as Probationers will be required to undergo a strict examination by a Medical Board at the India Office, at which particular stress will be laid on good vision and hearing.

On passing this medical examination candidates will be deemed to be Probationers for the Indian Forest Service.

8. Period of Probation.—The period of probation will ordinarily extend over about three years. For the first two years the Probationers will be required to undergo a special course of study at Oxford and to become members of the University if not so already. During the third year of their probation they will receive practical instruction, visiting under suitable supervision such Continental forests as may be selected for the purpose. Excursions may also be made for purposes of study during the first two years, both in term-time and in the vacations.

9. Shortened Probation in certain cases.—In the case of any Probationer who has passed with Honours in a public examination in Natural Science held by a University in Great Britain or Ireland, the Secretary of State in Council reserves power, should he think fit, to sanction the reduction or the period of probation to two years instead of three, under such conditions as may be determined.

10. Charges.—The Probationers will be required to defray all expenses for lodging, board, tuition and excursions within the limits of the United Kingdom which they may incur during the period of their probation at Oxford. To meet the cost of practical instruction on the Continent, each Probationer will be required to pay the sum of 180*l.*, in such instalments as may be determined from time to time.

Note.—Ordinarily a sum of 20*l.* will be due on the 15th June of the first year, and the balance in three instalments during the third year. In the case of Probationers whose term of study has been reduced (see paragraph 9), the payments must be made during the two years, as may be required.

11. Course of Study.—The prescribed course of study for the Probationers comprises the following subjects:—

I.—Subjects auxiliary to Forestry.

(1) Chemistry of soils and Elementary Organic Chemistry.
(2) Geology.
(3) Elements of Zoology and Forest Entomology.
(4) Botany.
(5) Geometrical Drawing, and Elementary Engineering.
(6) Surveying.
(7) Book-keeping, in reference to Indian Forest Accounts.
(8) German or French, as required.

II.—Forestry, Theoretical and Practical, in all its Branches.

Conduct and Medical requirements.—Every Probationer will be required to conduct himself during the period of probation in a manner satisfactory to the Secretary of State, and to give evidence of satisfactory progress in his studies in such manner as may be required, failing which, or in the event of serious misconduct, he will be liable to have his name removed from the list of Probationers.

A Probationer may also, at the discretion of the Secretary of State, be required from time to time to appear before the Medical Board, and, should the result be unsatisfactory, he will be liable to have his name removed from the list of Probationers.

13. Diploma of Forestry, &c.—During the period of probation, the proficiency of the Probationers will be tested by periodical examinations.

The Probationers who satisfy the Examiners in all these examinations, and complete satisfactorily the practical course in Forestry on the Continent, will receive the Diploma of Forestry of the University of Oxford. It is desirable that they should, if possible, also obtain a degree in the Honour School of Natural Science at the University.

14. Appointment and Seniority.—Probationers who obtain the Diploma of Forestry, and are of sound constitution and free from physical defects which would render them unsuitable for employment in the Indian Forest Service, will be appointed Assistant Conservators in the Indian Forest Department. Their seniority will be determined by the results of the examinations held during their two years' residence as Probationers at Oxford and the manner in which they have completed the practical course on the Continent. Probationers whose term of study has been reduced (see paragraph 9) will rank immediately below the successful Probationers of the previous year.

They will be allowed at the end of the period of probation to state their preference in respect to the Provinces to which they desire to be allotted; but the distribution will be made to the several Provinces according to the needs of the public service, at the discretion of the Secretary of State for India. Officers are, however, at all times liable to be transferred from one Province to another at the pleasure of the Government of India.

15. Riding.—Every Probationer, before proceeding to India, will be required to satisfy the Secretary of State, in such manner as may be determined, of his ability to ride. It is desirable that this evidence should be forthcoming before the Probationer proceeds to the Continent for his final period of study.

16. Articles of Agreement, &c.—Within a month of his nomination as Assistant Conservator, each nominee must sign articles of agreement describing the terms and conditions of his appointment; he must embark for India when required to do so by the Secretary of State, and must engage his own passage. Failure to embark at the stated time will, in the absence of satisfactory explanation, lead to forfeiture of appointment.

17. Allowance.—An allowance will be granted to each Probationer on signature of his agreement, varying from 50*l.* to 100*l.*, according to the degree of proficiency and diligence shown by him during his practical course upon the Continent.

18. Salary.—An Assistant Conservator of Forests will draw pay at the rate of Rs. 300 a month (equivalent to 304*l.* a year, when the rupee is at 1*s.* 4*d.*) from the date of his reporting his arrival in India.

19. Promotion, Leave, Pension, and Provident Fund.—Promotion, leave, and pension will be governed by the Regulations laid down by the Government of India, and made applicable to Forest officers, such regulations being subject to any modifications or alterations which may be made in them from time to time by the Government of India, and their interpretation in case of any doubt arising being left to that Government. A copy of the existing Regulations can be seen on application at the India Office.

Certain information regarding appointments in the upper controlling staff of the Indian Forest Service, the pay of which has been recently improved, will be found in Appendix II; a summary of information regarding Leave is contained in Appendix III; regarding Pensions and Provident Fund in Appendix IV.

APPENDIX I.

(Referred to in paragraph 6.)

I.—CHEMISTRY.

The simpler chemical and physical properties of common substances, such as lime, salt, sugar, water, air.

The preparation (excluding details of technical processes) and properties of the following substances:—

The metals, tin, lead, iron, copper, zinc, magnesium, calcium, potassium, sodium; their simpler and more important compounds, especially such as occur naturally, and such compounds and alloys as are used in the Arts.

Hydrogen, oxygen, water, ozone, hydrogen peroxide.

Nitrogen, ammonia, ammonium salts, nitrous oxide, nitric oxide, nitrogen peroxide, nitrates.

Carbon, carbon dioxide, carbonates, carbon monoxide.

Chlorine, bromine, iodine, chlorides, bromides, iodides, chlorates, hypochlorites.

Sulphur, sulphuretted hydrogen, sulphides, sulphur dioxide, sulphur trioxide, sulphites, sulphates.

Phosphorus, phosphoretted hydrogen, phosphorus trioxide, phosphorus pentoxide, orthophosphates, phosphorus, trichloride, phosphorus pentachloride.

Silica.

The principles of chemical change; oxidation and reduction; combustion; flame. Allotropy. Methods of purifying bodies. Methods of determining the composition of air and of water. Laws of chemical combination. Diffusion of gases. The atomic and molecular hypotheses. The simpler methods of determining equivalents. General considerations used in determining molecular weights and atomic weights. Chemical notation.

Alcohol ethane, and the simpler ethylic compounds, considered in detail as typical bodies. Methylic alcohol and methane, and benzylic alcohol and toluene, considered briefly as analogues of alcohol and ethane. Characters of primary normal alcohols in general, and of their corresponding hydrocarbons.

Acetic acid, aldehyd and the simpler acetic compounds, considered in detail as typical bodies. Benzoic acid and benz-aldehyd, and formic acid and form-aldehyd, considered briefly as analogues of acetic acid and aldehyd. Characters of normal mon-acids in general and of their corresponding aldehyds.

Oxalic acid and the simpler oxalic compounds. Characters of normal di-acids in general.

Processes (i) for the detection of carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, sulphur in organic compounds; (ii) for the estimation of carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, inorganic compounds; (iii) for the production and analysis of the silver-salts of organic acids and the platinum-salts of organic bases; (iv) for the determination of vapour densities by the V. Meyer method.

The determination of the formula of an organic compound.

Practical Work.

The Practical Work should include:—

Simple experiments and preparations illustrating the properties of the inorganic substances named above.

Simple quantitative experiments, such as, the determination of the loss of weight on heating a body, the determination of the volume of gas evolved on the solution of zinc in acid. The volumetric estimation of acids and alkalies.

The qualitative analysis of simple salts containing not more than one of the following metals, and one of the following acid radicals:—Sodium, potassium, ammonium, calcium, magnesium, zinc, copper, iron, lead, tin, oxide, carbonate, chloride, sulphate, nitrate sulphide.

II.—MECHANICS AND PHYSICS.

Mechanics.

The principles of the lever, the inclined plane, the composition of forces, and virtual work, their experimental investigation and application to machines and other simple cases of equilibrium. Centre of gravity, couple, torque, velocity ratio, mechanical advantage, efficiency. Application to liquids and gases Density, Boyle's law. Pump, siphon, barometer, manometer. Body moving in a straight line so that its velocity changes proportionally with the time. Body moving uniformly in a circle. Motion of pendulum-bob. Momentum, force, impulse of a force, energy, conservation of energy.

Heat.

Simple thermometry. Simple methods of determining latent heats; specific heats; expansion of gases, liquids and solids; vapour pressures. Change of state. Simple experiments on conduction, convection and radiation. Mechanical equivalent of heat.

Sound.

Direct determination of the velocity of sound in air and in water; the effect of change of temperature on the velocity of sound in air; mode of propagation of sound in air. Simple methods of determining the pitch of a note. Characteristics of musical sounds.

Light

Laws of reflection and refraction. Simple methods of determining refractive indices, and the focal lengths of mirrors and lenses. The simplest form of the compound microscope and of the astronomical telescope. Dispersion, the spectroscope, spectra of different kinds. Simple photometry. Elementary notions of the determination of the velocity of light.

Electricity and Magnetism.

Properties of electrified bodies. Methods of electrification. Electric induction The gold leaf electroscope. Elementary quantitative notions of electrical quantity, capacity, potential and specific inductive capacity. Condensers. Properties of magnets. Methods of magnetization. Magnetic induction. Simple methods of determining the declination and dip at a place and of comparing magnetic fields and moments. The construction of the batteries of Volta, Daniell, and Leclanche, and their theory. The secondary battery. The physical and chemical action due to a current. Simple galvanometers, ammeters, and voltmeters. Measurement of current-strength, electromotive force and resistance. The production of currents by electro-magnetic induction. The broad principles of the induction-coil and dynamo.

Practical Work.

Simple experiments illustrating the principles stated above.

List of Appointments in the Upper Controlling Staff of the Indian Forest Service.

NOTE.—This list shows only the existing number of sanctioned appointments which is liable to alteration at any time. Forty three of the appointments shown below in the various grades of Deputy and Assistant Conservators are being gradually transferred to the Provincial Forest Services, which are recruited in India The rest of the appointments named are held by members of the Imperial Forest Service, which is recruited under these regulations.

Number according to existing sanctioned scale.	Appointment.	Salary
		Rs.
1	Inspector-General of Forests	2 650 a month.
2	Chief Conservators (Burma and Central Provinces)	2,150 „
19	Conservators, in three grades	1,900 „ / 1,700 „ / 1,500 „ respectively.
136	Deputy Conservators	380 a month, rising by annual increments of Rs. 40 a month to Rs. 700 a month; thereafter, by anual increments of Rs. 50 a month to Rs. 1,250 a month, in the twentieth year of service.
72	Assistant Conservators
9	Foreign Service appointments (four temporary) ...
1	Assistant Inspector-General
†5	Officers employedat the Forest Research Institute and College, Dehra Dun.

Leave.

1. The following is a summary of the principal regulations relating to the leave admissible to officers appointed to the Indian Forest Service by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom:—

Long Leave.

2. Furlough is admissible to an aggregate amount of six years during the service. The amount "earned" is one-fourth of an officer's active service, and the amount "due" is that amount less any enjoyed.

* These 227 appointments are assigned to the various provinces as follows.—Burma, 71, Madras, 39, Bombay, 31 Central Provinces, 25, Bengal, 18, United Provinces, 19, Punjab, 14, and Eastern Bengal and Assam, 10.

† These draw an allowance of Rs. 150 a month in addition to their salary.

3. Furlough without medical certificate can, if due, be generally taken after eight years' active service, and again after three years' continuous service It is limited to two years at a time.

4. Furlough on medical certificate may be granted (a) to an officer who has rendered three years' continuous service, for not more than two years, but capable of extension up to three years; and (b) to an officer who has not rendered three years' continuous service, up to one year in any case, and up to such longer period, if any (but not exceeding two years in all), as the officer may have furlough "due" to him.

5. The allowances admissible during furlough are :—

(1) During the first two years of furlough without medical certificate and during so much of furlough with medical certificate as may be "due,"—half average salary, subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

(2) After the expiration of the period for which the foregoing allowances are admissible,—one quarter of average salary, subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

Short Leave.

6. Privilege Leave is a holiday which may be granted to the extent of one-eleventh part of the time that an officer has been on duty without interruption; and it may be accumulated up to three months, earned by 33 months' service. During privilege leave, the officer retains a lien on his appointment, and receives the salary which he would have received if on duty. An interval of not less than six months must elapse between two periods of absence on privilege leave.

Privilege Leave may be prefixed to furlough special leave, or extraordinary leave without allowances The whole period of leave thus taken in combination is known as combined leave. Combined leave may not be granted for a period of less duration than six months, nor, except on medical certificate, may it be extended beyond two years.

7. Special Leave may be granted at any time for not more than six months, with intervals of six years' service; allowances, calculated as during furlough, are given during the first six months only, whether taken in one or more instalments. This leave is included in the aggregate of six years' furlough admissible.

8. Extraordinary Leave without allowances may be granted in case of necessity, and, except in certain specified cases, only when no other kind of leave is by rule admissible. It may be granted in continuation of other leave.

9. Subsidiary Leave in India for a minimum of 10 days, usually with half average salary, is granted to an officer proceeding on or returning from leave out of India, or on retirement, to enable him to reach the port of embarkation or to rejoin his appointment. It is admissible only at the end and not at the beginning of combined leave.

10. Short Leave is also granted to enable officers to appear at examinations, etc.

General Rules.

11. Leave of absence, whether on furlough or on privilege leave, can never be claimed as of right and is given or refused at the discretion of Government.

12. After five year's continuous absence from duty, an officer is considered to be out of the employment of Government.

13. When leave allowances are paid at the Home Treasury, or in a Colony where the standard of currency is gold, rupees are converted into sterling at the rate of exchange fixed for the time being for the adjustment of financial transactions between the Imperial and Indian Treasuries, unless any other rate has been exceptionally authorised. But for the present the rate of conversion is subject to a minimum of 1*s.* 6*d.* to the rupee.

APPENDIX IV.

Pensions and Provident Fund.

1. The following is a summary of the principal pension rules applicable to officers of the Indian Forest Service appointed by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom.

An officer of the Indian Forest Service is eligible for a pension on voluntary retirement after completing 20 years' qualifying service or attaining the age of 55 years. If at an earlier date he is compelled to retire from the service through ill-health not occasioned by irregular or intemperate habits, he becomes eligible for an invalid pension or a gratuity according to the length of his service.

The amount of pension or gratuity is regulated as follows:—

After a service of less than 10 years an invalid gratuity not exceeding one month's emoluments for each completed year of service.

After a service of not less than 10 years an invalid pension not exceeding the following amounts:—

Years of completed Service.	Maximum Limit of Pension.
	Rs.	Rs.
10	1,000 a year or	83⅓ a month.
11	1,400 „ „	116⅔ „
12	1,800 „ „	150 „
13	2,200 „ „	183⅓ „
14	2,690 „ „	216⅔ „
15, 16, 17, 18, 19	3,000 „ „	250 „

Years of Completed Service.	Scale of Pension. Sixtieths of average Emoluments.	Maximum Limit of Pension
		Rs.	Rs.
20 to 24	30	4,000 a year or	333⅓ a month.
25 and above		5,000 „ „	416⅔ „

Officers who have shown special energy and efficiency during an effective service of three years as Inspector-General of Forests or Conservator (First Grade) may, at the discretion of the Government of India, be allowed an additional pension of Rs. 1,000 a year.

Subject to certain prescribed conditions rupee pensions are now issued to pensioners residing in countries where the Indian rupee is not legal tender at the rate of exchange of 1*s.* 9*d.* the rupee.

2. A Provident Fund has also been established on the following basis:—

(a) The contribution is compulsory up to 5 per cent. on salaries, with voluntary contributions of a further 5 per cent.; while on leave, an officer may subscribe any sum he pleases, subject to a minimum of 5 per cent., on his leave allowances and a maximum of 10 per cent. on his salary.

(b) Compound interest on such payments is annually credited by Government to each officer subscribing, the rate being at present 4 per cent. per annum.

(c) Receipts and payments are made in rupees only.

(d) The sum which will thus accumulate to the credit of an officer to be his absolute property, to be handed over to him unconditionally on quitting the service; or, in the event of his death before retirement, to his legal representatives.

For Office use only.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE OILSSED CROPS OF BENGAL, 1906-1907.

THE following note is published for general information.

E. A. GAIT,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 17th May 1907.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE OILSEED CROPS OF BENGAL, 1906-07.

[On an average of the five years ending 1904-05, the areas under linseed, rape and mustard and til in the territory to which this forecast relates, have represented some 22·7, 13·4 and 5·9 per cent., respectively, of the total area under these crops in British India.]

Explanatory.—The present forecast deals with the final estimates of the area and outturn of different kinds of oilseeds, both bhadvi and rabi, grown in this Province, of which the chief are linseed, mustard, rape, sesamum (til), castor and niger oilseed (sirguja).

2. Character of the season.—As reported in the preliminary forecast, the rainfall in October was above the average in the Sonthal Parganas, Sambalpur, Cuttack, Puri, Ranchi, Manbhum and in all the districts of Lower Bengal, except Khulna. In the rest of the Province, it was deficient. In November, no rain fell in the districts of the Patna Division and in Purnea, but some light showers were received in the rest of the Province. In December, light showers fell only in Orissa and in parts of Chota Nagpur. There was little or no rain in January. In February the rainfall was fairly general throughout the Province, the fall being heavy in Bihar, Orissa and Chota Nagpur. In March, the rainfall was heavy. The crops suffered in Lower Bengal from excessive rain at the time of sowing, and from absence of rain in Bihar at the period of early growth. Rain accompanied with hail-storms also damaged the crops towards the harvesting time in some districts. Injury was done by insect pests in Monghyr and Cuttack. On the whole, the season was not very favourable.

3. Area sown.—The total normal area under different oilseeds, after revision by District Officers, is now estimated at 2,421,400 acres. The area actually sown this year is reported to have been 2,205,000 acres, against 2,203,500 acres sown last year

4. Character of the crop.—It will be seen from Appendix I attached that two districts, viz., the Sonthal Parganas and Sambalpur, estimate crops of 100 and 105 per cent. respectively; five districts report 90 to 99 per cent. of a normal outturn; nine districts, 80 to 89 per cent.; seven districts, 70 to 79 per cent.; five districts 60 to 69 per cent.; and the remaining five districts, 59 per cent. or under. From the district reports, it would appear that since the publication of the preliminary forecast, prospects have improved in ten districts, remained stationary in seven, and deteriorated in the remaining districts.

The outturn of the different kinds of oilseed crops for the Province as a whole amounts, according to the district officers' figures, to 75 per cent. of an average crop, against 78 per cent. estimated in the preliminary forecast. Looking to the insufficient reasons given for the low estimates made in several cases, and to the general tendency to understate the outturn as compared with the normal, I would increase the estimate to 80 per cent. if an average outturn.

5. Gross outturn.—Taking the latter figure, and accepting 6 maunds per acre to be the normal rate of outturn for linseed, rape, and mustard, and 4¼ maunds per acre for other oilseeds, the gross yield of all the oilseed crops for this Province during the year 1906-07 works out to 347,000 tons, against 305,400 tons in the preceding year.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE WHEAT CROP OF BENGAL, 1906-07.

THE following note is published for general information.

E. A. GAIT,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 17th May 1907.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

FINAL FORECAST OF THE WHEAT CROP OF BENGAL, 1906-1907.

[On an average of five years ending 1904-1905, the area under wheat in the territory to which this forecast relates has represented some 5·0 per cent. of the total area under wheat in India.

The ratio of irrigated wheat acreage to total wheat acreage (a) in British India and (b) in the territory now reported on, has, in the five years ending 1904-1905, averaged (a) 38·2 per cent. and (b) 2·4 per cent., respectively.]

Preliminary.—Wheat is grown chiefly in the Bihar districts and in Murshidabad, Nadia, Hazaribagh and Palamau.

2. Character of the season.—The reports received from District Officers show that the date of sowing was generally normal. There was, however, insufficient rain for the early growth of the crop in many districts, especially in Bihar. In February and March, on the other hand, when the crop was ripening and being harvested, cloudy weather, rain and hail did widespread damage. From Monghyr it is also reported that caterpillars injured the crop. The season on the whole was unfavourable.

3. Area sown.—The normal area under wheat, as reported by District Officers, is estimated at 1,247,300 acres, while the area sown this year is returned at 1,402,600 acres against 1,248,300 acres sown last year. This increase is partly due to the fact that wheat was sown in some districts on lands on which the rice crop has been destroyed by floods.

4. Character of the crop.—From Appendix I, in which the district returns have been tabulated, it will be seen that not a single district returns a normal crop; only two districts, viz., Bankura and Sambalpur, return crops between 90 and 95 per cent.; five districts report 80 to 89 per cent.; eleven districts, 70 to 79 per cent.; four districts, 60 to 69 per cent.; and five districts, 50 to 59 per cent. crops. In Nadia and Saran only 48 per cent. of an average crop is estimated. Since the publication of the preliminary forecast in February last, prospects have improved in five districts, remained unchanged in six, and deteriorated in the remaining districts. The provincial outturn, according to the final estimates of the District Officers, amounts to 64 per cent. of a normal crop, against 77 in the preliminary forecast. The decrease of 13 per cent. is chiefly due to a large reduction in the estimates in most of the Bihar districts, where undoubtedly conditions have been particularly unfavourable. In Nadia, Murshidabad, and Palamau, however, the estimates appear to be too low. It is evident that the conception of an average crop as the basis on which to estimate the percentage of the season's outturn is not always clearly present, and it is probable that the calculation is still often made in respect not of a really average crop, but of a crop that would be regarded as satisfactory.

5. Gross outturn.—According to the returns now received, the gross yield of wheat in the province works out to 388,700 tons, as compared with 396,600 tons last year.

6. Food-stocks and the prices of food-grains.—The harvests of the year are generally reported to be below the average; and the prices of food-grains have ruled much higher than usual. The estimated outturn of the three harvests, viz., bhadvi, winter rice, and rabi, was 71, 78 and 76 per cent. respectively. From most districts the stocks in hand are reported to be not plentiful. These reports are corroborated by the figures of imports into Calcutta and exports therefrom, which show a remarkable decrease.

Director of Agriculture, Bengal.

Gaya	3,015,680	2,207,500	167,000	152,300	166,800	75	80	514,562	1893 to 1898 and 1900 to 1902.	23,192	1st October	The weather was favourable in the beginning, but rainfall in February and March last caused some damage to the crop, and this accounts for the decrease in the outturn. The figure given generally is 75, but from what I have seen in the district, I think the damage done is exaggerated, and have, therefore, raised it to 80 per cent. The date of sowing was normal.
Shahabad ...	2,796,720	1,841,900	122,000	122,000	170,000	75	65	...	...	...	15th October	The decrease in the outturn is due to heavy rain in February and March. The date of sowing was normal.
Saran	1,711,296	1,357,200	77,500	77,500	72,800	90	48	1,633,435	1893 to 1901	77,522	10th October	Since the submission of the preliminary forecast the weather has been cloudy and unfavourable to the crop. Constant fall of rain at the time the crop was in flower has affected the proper ripening of the crop to a considerable extent, and in the middle of March hail in some places did damage. The date of sowing was normal.
Champaran ...	2,259,840	1,447,600	106,300	96,200	98,200	73	88	2,259,840	1892 to 1899	105,300	End of September and beginning of October.	The outturn is better than that estimated in the preliminary forecast owing to the rain that fell in February and in the beginning of March.
Muzaffarpur ...	1,942,467	1,627,000	69,700	75,900	69,700	83	70	1,942,400	1892-93 to 1898-99.	69,700	October	The general condition of the crop has not been quite good owing to want of timely rain. Slight damage has also been done by rain and hail in March at places. The estimated outturn of the district may be raised to 70 per cent.
Darbhanga ...	3,142,690	1,673,080	52,700	67,200	90,800	84	50	2,142,690	1896 to 1903	52,700	October	The increase in the area sown this year is due to floods in August which destroyed the paddy crop. Want of rain injured the crops to a great extent. The date of sowing was normal.
Monghyr ...	3,510,090	1,582,800	150,000	150,000	(a) 248,000	78	69	985,552	1900 to 1904	103,618	1st week of October ...	The low outturn is due partly to damage done by caterpillars to the early sown crops in North Monghyr and partly to the unseasonableness of the weather. There was no rain in December and January when it was wanted, and there was heavy rain in February and March which did considerable damage to the ripening crops. The large increase in area is partly due to the fact that wheat was put down in fields which lost their paddy crop in the floods of August and September 1906, but Column 4 is probably an underestimate, as the cadastral figures of North Monghyr prove.(a)

(a) This area is in excess of the area reported in the Preliminary forecast. Later information showed that a larger area was sown with wheat this year.

General Summary.—Rain was general in Bengal Proper and in Chota Nagpur, but scattered in Bihar and Orissa. The fall was light in most places. Moderate rain was received in Midnapore, Murshidabad, Jessore, Purnea, Darjeeling and Cooch Behar. The preparation of lands for the next season's crops still continues. Sowings of paddy and jute are in progress. More rain is wanted in parts of Burdwan, Bankura, Midnapore, Hooghly, the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Champaran and Muzaffarpur. In Darbhanga the number of persons on test-works is 2,198, on gratuitous relief 11,220, and on famine-relief works 25,390. Cattle-disease is reported from six districts. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. The price of common rice has risen in thirteen and fallen in four districts.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 80, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

General Letter No. 3.

To

THE DISTRICT JUDGE OF

Dated Calcutta, the 16th April 1907.

SIR,

I AM directed to invite your attention to the Court's Rule No. 3 of 1907 cancelling Rules 4 and 5 at page 131, Chapter V, Volume I of the Court's General Rules and Circular Orders (Civil). High Court, English Department (Civil).

2. The Government of India, to whom a reference was made, agree with this Court that the present procedure prescribed by Rule 5 requiring postage to be paid by the parties for the transmission and re-transmission of the documents referred to therein causes an amount of clerical labour out of all proportion to its importance or practical results. The same arguments also apply in regard to the postage of the documents mentioned in Rule 4 quoted above.

3. I am accordingly to request that you will be so good as to issue the necessary instructions to the Courts subordinate to you that the documents referred to in the rules above mentioned should, in future, be forwarded with service labels without levying any additional charge for postage from the persons at whose instance they are sent.

I have the honour to be,
SIR,
Your most obedient servant,
A. P. MUDDIMAN,
Registrar.

NOTIFICATION.

IT is hereby notified for general information that, with effect from the 1st June 1907, the following Rules, which are contained in the High Court's General Rules and Circular Orders, Civil, viz.—

(1) Rules for the arrangement, classification, preservation and destruction and custody of the records of Civil Proceedings, Volume I, Chapter III;
(2) Rules framed under clause (i) of section 20 of the Court-fees Act, 1870, declaring the fees chargeable for the service and execution of the Processes of Civil Courts, Volume I, Chapter V;

(3) The Rules relating to Registers, Periodical Returns and Statements, and Annual Reports, Volume I, Chapter X—will be extended to the district of Sambalpur, and that the forms relating to these Rules prescribed by the High Court (Volume II) will be brought into use and that all existing orders and forms relating to these matters are hereby superseded with effect from that date.

By order of the High Court,

A. P. MUDDIMAN,
Registrar.

HIGH COURT, ENGLISH DEPARTMENT, the 28th May 1907.

NOTIFICATION

IT is hereby notified for general information that, with effect from the 1st of June 1907, the following Rules, which are contained in the High Court's General Rules and Circular Orders, Criminal, viz.—

(1) Rules relating to the arrangement, preservation and destruction, to the order-sheet, and to the custody, and removal, of records of Criminal Proceedings, Volume I, Chapter III;

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

CLASS FOR THE TRAINING OF MOTOR DRIVER MECHANICS.

Provisional Rules.

[N.B.—The class will for the present be limited to 25 Persons who wish to join the cass cannot be provided with quarters at the College.]

1. The course of instruction shall include—

(a) Keeping the car in order, and carrying out ordinary running repairs.
(b) Driving.

2. Admissions to the class shall be made by the Principal of the Civil Engineering College, to whom all applications for admission must be addressed in writing on a form which may be had on application at the Principal's office. No candidate shall be admitted to the class who has not attained the age of 16, and who is not possessed of such educational qualifications as shall, in the opinion of the Principal, be deemed to be adequate. In selecting for the class, the Principal shall ordinarily give preference to an applicant who is being sent for training by the actual owner of a motor car. Such an applicant would submit with his application for admission, in addition to the documents required under rule 4 below, a letter from the owner of the motor car.

3. Every candidate for admission to the class shall present himself at the Civil Engineering College to undergo a medical examination by the Medical Officer of the College. Good eyesight is an essential condition of admission to the class.

4. Applications must be accompanied by the following documents :—

(a) An authentic statement of age.

(b) A statement showing the name of the father of the applicant; also the applicant's habitual place of residence and his native district.

(c) A statement of character signed by some responsible person who is well acquainted with the applicant.

(d) A statement of educational qualifications with the certificates of examinations, if any, which the applicant has passed.

5. Every applicant who is accepted for the class shall be required, before he joins, to deposit with the Principal a sum of Rs. 20. This sum will be held as security for good behaviour and to cover loss or damage.

6. Admissions to the class shall ordinarily be made in November, on the re-opening of the College after the long vacation. In the event of vacancies occurring at other times, they may be filled up at the discretion of the Principal, but admissions under these conditions shall be made during the first week of January or March only.

7. There shall be one annual vacation only. This vacation shall be of a month's duration, and shall be arranged so as to include the Puja holidays.

8. The full course of instruction shall extend over six to eight months and shall consist of—

(a) a preliminary course in the workshops extending over three to four months, and

(b) a course of actual work in connection with a motor car extending over a similar period.

Applicants who can show to the satisfaction of the Principal of the College that they have undergone an adequate course of workshop training may at his discretion be admitted direct to course (b). No one taking the full course of instruction shall be allowed to take up course (b) until he has worked at course (a) for about two months and satisfied the Principal that he has acquired the necessary proficiency in that course. It shall rest with the Principal to decide whether, in the event of failure to qualify in course (a), the pupil failing shall be required to leave the class altogether or whether he should be allowed another chance of passing. Similarly, if a pupil fails to qualify in course (b), it shall rest with the Principal to decide whether such a pupil shall be required to leave the class altogether or whether he should be allowed another chance of qualifying.

9. The fee for instruction shall be at the rate of Rs. 5 a month. The fee shall not be payable for the vacation prescribed in rule 7 above. The fee for each month shall be paid in advance. Any pupil who has not paid his fee for the current month before the 10th day of that month shall be regarded as a defaulter, and shall be liable to be called upon to cease attending the class altogether.

10. Pupils under training shall on every working day while the class is in session present themselves at the Civil Engineering College at 8 A.M. and remain on the College premises for such a number of hours as the Principal may from time to time prescribe as the working hours of the class. During these working hours no pupil shall leave the College premises without first obtaining permission to do so. Any pupil who is repeatedly absent from the work of the class shall be liable to be called upon to withdraw from the class altogether, whatever may have been the cause of his absence. Time spent on duty with a car away from the College shall count as attendance for the purpose of this rule.

11. A certificate shall be issued under the signature of the Principal to any pupil who qualifies to the satisfaction of that officer in courses (a) and (b), or in course (b) if admitted direct to that course. This certificate shall testify to the pupil's mechanical proficiency and knowledge of the particular make or makes of car upon which he has been trained. It shall contain the holder's age, physical measurements, identification marks, and thumb impression, together with a note as to his conduct during the period of training, whether satisfactory or otherwise. No certificate for partial training shall be issued. Pupils who are dismissed or who leave the class without completing the course to the satisfaction of the Principal shall receive no certificate whatever.

12. The Principal has full power to dismiss at any time, with or without notice, any pupil of the class who is guilty of misconduct or whose progress is unsatisfactory.

13. The possession of the certificate awarded under these rules shall not be considered as exempting the holder from undergoing any test or tests in driving which may be prescribed by any duly authorised body.

B HEATON,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

Special arrangements have been made to open the class at once. Admissions will be made on June 1st. All applications should be sent to the Principal's office, without delay.

B. HEATON,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

NOTES AND INSTRUCTIONS.

(1) Failure to forward a correct return to the Chief Inspector of Mines not later than the 1st February in each year will render the managing agent, owner, agent or manager liable on conviction to a penalty which may extend to Rs. 500.

(2) It will greatly facilitate the preparation of the statistics if the return is despatched as soon as possible at the close of the year.

(3) The output should be given—

(a) in troy ounces in the case of gold;

(b) in carats in the case of gem-stones;

(c) in cwts.,—or in cwts. and lbs. where the circumstances require greater particularisation in order to give an accurate estimate of small outputs,—in the case of alum, amber, asbestos, chromite, corundum (not being gem corundum), graphite, jadestone, mica, steatite and tin ore; and

(d) in tons, in the case of clays, coal, coke, iron-ore, limestone magnesite, manganese-ore, other unspecified metalliferous ores, salt and slate.

(4) The total amount of mineral raised during the year must be given, including in the case of coal-mines the colliery consumption and the coal made into coke.

(5) The value of the mineral given should be based on the actual or estimated wholesale price of the mineral at the pit's mouth. In the case of coal sold into wagons at the colliery, the cost of loading should be deducted from the selling price.

(6) In the case of mica mines a "plot" is to be regarded as a "pit" for the purposes of statements Nos. II and III, and the figures to be entered in columns 4 and 5 of statement No. III relate to the quantity and value of marketable mica consigned.

(7) The average number of persons employed daily should be obtained by dividing the aggregate number of daily attendances (permanent and temporary) by the number of working days.

(8) Every person of or above the age of twelve years should be entered as an adult.

No. 469 T.M.—The 25th May 1907.—In supersession of the like by-laws Nos. 6-15 (inclusive), which were made by the Municipal Commissioners of Calcutta under clause (k) of section 412 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1888 (Bengal Act II of 1888), and sanctioned by the Local Government in the notification dated the 4th October 1890, and in exercise of the powers conferred by section 566 of the Calcutta Municipal Act, 1899 (Bengal Act III of 1899), the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to accord his sanction to the revised by-laws for the regulation of Municipal squares in Calcutta, which have been made by the General Committee of the Calcutta Municipality under clause (52) of section 559 of the said Act, and confirmed by the Corporation in the modified form shown below.

H. J. McINTOSH,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

BY-LAWS UNDER SECTION 559 (52) FOR THE REGULATION OF THE USE OF SQUARES OR GARDENS VESTED IN THE CORPORATION.

1. Every square or garden vested in the Corporation shall remain open to the public unless otherwise notified on a board to be placed in some conspicuous part of the entrance of such square or garden. No person other than an officer or servant of the Corporation or the person in charge of such square or garden shall enter or remain in any such square or garden during the time thus notified.

2. On the occasion of any public entertainment, ceremony or exhibition taking place in any such square or garden after permission has been obtained from or given by the Chairman in that behalf, the said square or garden shall be kept open or closed for such period and upon such terms and conditions as may be expedient and notified in the manner mentioned in by-law 1, or by notification in some local newspapers.

3. In case of any emergency or unforeseen event happening which in the opinion of the Chairman is likely to cause damage to any property or danger to human life, or for the purpose of carrying out any improvement or making any substantial additions in any such square or garden, the same shall remain closed to the public for such period as may be prescribed and notified in the manner mentioned in by-law 1, or by notification in some local newspapers.

4. No person shall enter or quit such square or garden except by a gate or opening provided for the purpose.

5 No person shall deface or displace any board or tablet in such square or garden whereon any notice or by-law of the Corporation is exhibited.

6. No person shall bring into such square or garden any animal whatsoever, or suffer to remain therein any animal belonging to him or in his charge.

7 No person shall, except with the written permission of the Chairman, bring into such square or garden any vehicle unless adapted solely for the conveyance of infants or invalids

8. No person shall, except with the written permission of the Chairman, post or affix any bill, placard, or notice in any part of or upon any tree in such square or garden.

9. No person otherwise than in the discharge of his official duty as a servant of the Corporation shall remove or disturb any soil or turf or flower-bed or pluck any flower or leaf in any such square or garden.

10. No person shall destroy, injure, deface, soil, or defile any part of any wall, fence, barrier, or railing in or enclosing such square or garden or any part of any fixed or moveable seat, building, monument, work of art, ornament or decoration, or any other structure or erection, or any municipal property in such square or garden, nor throw or deposit any filth, rubbish or refuse, or cause any filth, rubbish or refuse to fall or to be thrown or deposited upon any part of such square or garden.

11. No person shall throw or discharge in such square or garden any stone or other missile.

12. No person shall climb any wall, fence, barrier, railing or post in or enclosing such square or garden or any tree in a such square or garden.

13. No person shall bathe in any tank, pond or other ornamental water in such square or garden or wash clothes or any article in or foul or pollute any such water; nor shall any person fish in any such water without the authority of the Chairman.

14 No game shall be played in any such square or garden except subject to such conditions as may from time to time be prescribed and notified in a similar manner to that mentioned in by-law 1.

15. No person shall drink in or bring into any such square or garden any intoxicating liquor except that any club using any such square or garden for the playing of any game in accordance with the conditions mentioned in by-law 14 may, with the written permission (which may be general or special to a particular occasion) of the Chairman provide such liquor for the refreshment of and allow the same to be consumed by its members and guests within such square or garden upon the conditions prescribed by such permission.

16. Except with the written permission of the Chairman, no person shall erect any post, rail, fence, pole, tent, booth, stand, building or other structure in such square or garden.

17. No person shall in any such square or garden beat or clean any carpet, drugget, rug, mat or any other fabric retaining dust or dirt or attempt so to do.

18. No person shall, except with the written permission of the Chairman, sell, or offer or expose for sale or let to hire, or offer or expose for letting to hire any commodity or article in such square or garden.

19. No person shall in any such square or garden hang, spread or deposit any linen or other fabric for the purpose of drying or bleaching the same.

20. No person shall in any such square or garden wilfully obstruct, disturb, interrupt or annoy any other person in the proper use or enjoyment of such square or garden or wilfully obstruct, disturb or interrupt any officer or servant of the Corporation or any person or servant of any person employed by the Corporation in the execution of his duty.

21. No person shall commit a nuisance in such square or garden.

22. No one shall create a disturbance or cause annoyance to the public in any such square or garden or use abusive, obsence or profane language.

23. No person who is suffering from any loathsome disease shall enter any such square or garden.

24. Every person who shall commit a breach of any of the foregoing by-laws shall be punishable with fine which may extend to Rs. 20, and in case of a continuing breach with fine which may extend to Rs. 10 for every day during which the breach continues after conviction for the first breach.

Custom House Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that, owing to the difficulty of dealing with dutiable goods at Koila Ghat, boat-notes will not be issued for this wharf after the 1st July next.

Importers are accordingly warned to be prepared to pass the goods hitherto passed over Koila Ghat through the new Jetty extension shed from the date mentioned, unless they prefer to pass them through any of the other wharves appointed for the landing of dutiable cargo under the Sea Customs Act.

L. F. MORSHEAD,
Collector of Customs.

Custom House, Calcutta, the 15th May 1907.

Custom House Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given to importers that, with effect from the 15th August next, such descriptions as "Fast Colour", "Warranted Fast Colour", "Pucca Rung" or the like applied to dyed cotton goods in English or in the Vernacular will be dealt with as "false trade descriptions" of the material of which the goods are composed, unless the goods stand the test described below:—

Test.

A swatch of the cloth to be boiled for 10 minutes in a solution containing 4 grammes of a good neutral curd soap to a litre of water. Strands of the dyed cloth to be also twisted with strands of white cloth, and boiled in the above solution for the same period.

If under the above treatment the dyed cloth should change or lose any appreciable portion of its colour other than surface colour, or the colour should run materially from any one portion of the cloth to any other, or into the white fabric soaped along with it, or the solution into which the dyed cloth is boiled become coloured to a material extent, the cloth under test will not be deemed to be of "Fast Colour".

L. F. MORSHEAD,
Collector of Customs.

Custom House, Calcutta, the 14th May 1907.

Custom House Notice.

IT is hereby notified for the information of importers that, with effect from the 1st of June, an all-round rate of ½ per cent. will be added in the case of goods not assessed upon a market value or tariff valuation to the value upon which duty has been hitherto assessed. The addition is intended to cover the cost of landing, which cost should be included in the real value upon which duty is leviable under section 30 of the Sea Customs Act.

L. F. MORSHEAD,
Collector of Customs.

Custom House, Calcutta, the 15th May 1907.

JAILS.

Dated Darjeeling, the 13th May 1907.

READ—

The Report on the Administration of the Jail Department for the year 1906.

Read also—

The Reports for the years 1904 and 1905 and the Resolutions of Government recorded thereon.

THE report under review has been submitted by Major W. J. Buchanan, who was in charge of the department throughout the year, except for the period between the 13th July to the 17th October, when he was on privilege leave and special duty in England. During this interval, Mr. E. W. Payne, Superintendent of the Alipore Central Jail, acted as Inspector-General.

2. The total population of the jails of Bengal, which was 14 872 at the beginning of the year, amounted to 15,695 at its close. The daily average population was 15,774 as against 14,934 in 1905.

3. The death-rate calculated on the daily average numbers of all classes of prisoners stood for all the jails at 23·7 per mille. It is satisfactory to note that this figure is below the decennial average (26·5), and, excluding the figures for the years 1903 and 1904, is the lowest reported since 1899. In 1905 four jails showed a death-rate of more than 40 per mille, viz., Burdwan, Purulia, Chaibasa and Midnapore. In the past year, the death-rate of Burdwan dropped to 24·6, while in Chaibassa also there was a slight improvement on the previous year's figures. On the other hand the still further increase in the mortality of the Purulia and Midnapore Jails is to be regretted, the figures having risen from 46·6 to 53·5 per mille in the former and from 45 to 55·2 per mille in the latter. The increase in Purulia is attributed to ill-health among prisoners when brought in and still under trial, and to an outbreak of pneumonia; but it was also partly due to overcrowding; and the new barrack must be constructed without delay. The Midnapore Jail has for many years had the reputation of being the most unhealthy jail in Bengal. The principal causes of mortality are dysentery and diarrhœa, which are common diseases in the district. Improvement may be expected from the radical improvements in the ventilation of the wards and workshops, which are now being carried out. The result of the special investigation into the nature of the fatal dysentery in this jail, which is now being carried on by Captain Forster, I.M.S., will be anxiously awaited. The high percentage of mortality in the Darjeeling and Naya Dumka jails is explained in the report.

4. During the year under report 271 prisoners suffering from tuberculosis were admitted to jail hospitals, and there were 64 deaths; whereas the figures for last year were 240 and 59 respectively. The prevalence of the disease in the province is becoming more generally recognized Prisoners bring it with them to jail. The efforts of the Inspector-General to treat patients on modern principles, and to separate them from the healthy, have the warm approval of the Lieutenant-Governor. Success cannot be obtained until the Central Lunatic Asylum is established. When this is done, the Asylum at Berhampore will be taken over for use as a central jail, and the present jail at Berhampore will be available for tuberculous patients.

5. The difficulty of inadequate accommodation had again to be contended with. In 19 jails there was an overcrowding of the convict population, and in the undertrial wards of 15 jails the capacity was found insufficient. His Honour is however pleased to notice that the experiment referred to in paragraph 50 of the Inspector-General's report for last year has been a success, and that the more rapid transfer of convicts to district jails has relieved the congestion in the subsidiary jails. The overcrowding in undertrial wards is serious, if it is at all frequent or long continued. It is especially bad to place undertrial prisoners with convicts, as was done in a few cases.

6. In the Resolution on the report for 1905 Government recognised that the demands for a better classification and separation of the various classes of prisoners had rendered the question of accommodation more intricate; but it is noteworthy that several projects for providing segregation wards have since been approved, and that a number of these wards is already under construction.

7. The manufactures on which the convicts have been employed during the year show satisfactory results, and the profit per head, after taking into consideration stock and liabilities at the beginning and close of the year, amounts to Rs. 41¾ as compared with Rs. 40½ in 1905. Against this the total cost of the jails, excluding public works charges, has increased from Rs. 12,81,908 to Rs. 14,15,540, and the cost per prisoner from Rs. 85-13-4 to Rs. 89-11-2. The increase occurred chiefly in dietary charges, being due to the prevailing high prices of grain.

8. The total number of offences committed by convicts was 25,268 as against 26,416 in 1905, while the punishments inflicted by Superintendents numbered 25,384 as against 26,606. Three thousand and sixty-five major penalties were imposed. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction the further decrease in corporal punishments. During the year under report there were only 113 such punishments as against 145 in 1905 and 182 in 1904. Eleven convicts escaped during the year, 3 from inside and 8 from outside the jails; but all except one are reported to have been recaptured.

9. The statistics of the past year show that out of a total of 25,237 jail offences, no less than 14,319 or 57 per cent. were committed by B class convicts, and 10,918 or 43 per cent. by A class or first offenders. The figures also show that a relatively greater proportion of the more serious offences was committed by the habituals. These facts emphasise more strongly the necessity already recognized of separating the two classes of offenders Much has already been done to make this separation possible, but much still remains to be done. The Inspector-General raises interesting questions in dealing with this matter. The Lieutenant-Governor is at present giving his careful consideration to it as well as to the cognate subject of the treatment of juvenile and adolescent convicts. Special instructions will shortly be issued to Magistrates with reference to the detention, trial and punishment of children: The segregation of juveniles and of youths between the ages of 16 and 23 has formed the subject of suggestions by the Inspector-General aiming at the establishment of separate juvenile depôts in the central jails and the reservation of a special prison for adolescent prisoners. These suggestions are receiving careful attention.

10 The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with the suggestion of the Inspector-General that it is desirable to offer more privileges to all classes of prisoners, to be earned only by regular industry and good behaviour; and that it is especially necessary to offer such privileges to the A class prisoners or first offenders, who are often employed in jails in the capacities of watchmen and gang overseers. The detailed report of the Inspector-General on this matter is awaited; but His Honour is inclined to think that so long as the two classes of prisoners are placed side by side in the jails little can be done to ameliorate the condition of the casual offender. The Lieutenant-Governor is therefore considering the advisability of setting aside one central jail for habitual and especially dangerous criminals. If the proposal to modify the regulations for the transportation of convicts to the Andamans is carried into effect, the necessity for providing a separate jail for B class offenders will become all the more pressing.

11. In his last report the Inspector-General remarked that discontent prevailed among the warders owing to the inadequacy of their pay and the illiberal nature of the sick leave rules. The large number of resignations by this class of officers during the past year demands a reconsideration of the question of their pay and privileges. Government will examine any proposal which the Inspector General may desire to make on the subject.

12. The average period of detention of undertrial prisoners was 15·21 days against 14·70 days in 1905. In six subsidiary jails the period exceeded 20 days, while at Gobindpur in the Manbhum district the average period of detention was 31·56 days. The variations in the statistics for the different districts are remarkable; and District Magistrates will be asked (where necessary) to take steps to prevent undue detentions in the future.

13. The Lieutenant-Governor hails with great satisfaction the establishment of a "Prisoners' Aid Society" in Calcutta. He trusts that success in the modest scheme now adopted may lead to the rapid development of its operations. He regards with warm approbation the deep interest in this subject taken by the Inspector-General, which has been greatly stimulated by what Major Buchanan saw in England of the work done by non-official agencies to assist prisoners after release.

14. The Lieutenant-Governor notices the commendations bestowed by the Inspector-General upon certain officers of the Department. He would suggest that the Inspector-General should call for full explanations from the few officers who have clearly omitted to perform prescribed duty. His Honour thanks Major Buchanan for his successful administration of the department during the past year and for an interesting and suggestive report.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Prisons for information and guidance.

Ordered also that a copy of this Resolution and a copy of the Report be submitted to the Government of India in the Home Department.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

RESOLUTION ON THE BUDGET ESTIMATE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE PORT OF CALCUTTA FOR THE YEAR 1907-1908.

No. 1433Marine.

Government of Bengal.

MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 28th May 1907.

RESOLUTION.

Resolution on the Budget Es imate of the Commissioners of the Port of Calcutta for the year 1907-1908.

READ—

Letter No. 13516, dated the 28th March 1907, from the Vice-Chairman of the Port Commissioners, Calcutta, submitting for sanction the Budget Estimates of the Commissioners for the year 1907-1908.

CAPITAL ACCOUNT.

THE Budget provides Rs. 58,00,000 for capital outlay during the year. Of this amount the sum of Rs. 25,00,000, is allowed for expenditure on the acquisition of land for the future extension of the Kidderpore Docks. The sum of Rs. 33,00,000, will be spent on new works and on those that are in progress.

2. The following statement shows the principal works which are now in progress :—

4. Want of funds has compelled the Commissioners to proceed more slowly with some works than they would otherwise desire, and to defer others the desirability of which is admitted.

5. Within the last seven years the expansion of trade has been so rapid that it has been found necessary largely to increase the accommodation. The subject has received careful consideration at the hands of the Commissioners, who have expended in the above period no less a sum than Rs. 260 lakhs, of which nearly 100 lakhs has been expended in the year 1906-07. Although large additions are being made to the Capital Debt, the financial position of the Trust is strong owing to the expansion of trade and to the remunerative character of the works constructed. This may be briefly illustrated by the fact that the income of the Trust, during the current year, will be largely increased, and has been estimated at Rs. 109 lakhs while the Capital Debt on the 31st March 1907 stood in round numbers at Rs. 7,00,00,000, the assets, exclusive of the Strand Bank lands, on which a high value may be set, being taken at Rs. 9,00,00,000.

Revenue Account.

6. A general summary of the estimates submitted by the Commissioners is given below :—

	Estimate for 1907-08.
	Rs.

	Provision against unforeseen expenditure and minor Works chargeable to Revenue	1,01,989
	Interest and sinking fund charges	36,33,980
	Total ...		1,07,15,281
	Estimated surplus ...		2,00,000

7. The reduction of rates charged to the trade and shipping which have been granted within the last five years would, if calculated on the present traffic excluding coal, amount to Rs. 10 lakhs per annum. The Commissioners consider that the estimated surplus of Rs 2,00,000 which is a small margin and is subject to fluctuations of trade should be allowed to stand. They therefore intend to defer the question of further reduction in rates.

8 Excluding the interest and sinking fund charges the expenditure is estimated at Rs. 70,81,301, against Rs. 59,21,403 in the previous year. An abstract comparing the estimates of the two years is given below :—

	1907-08. Rs.	1906-07. Rs.
Establishment	25,21,876	22,27,824
Stores	5,14,250	4,02,050
Maintenance	11,21,070	8,86,057
Labour	19,63,000	16,00,000
Miscellaneous charges	7,78,899	7,04,864
Police	80,217	68,608
Unforeseen expenditure	41,989	32,000
New minor works	60,000	.....
	70,81,301	59,21,403
Interest and sinking fund charges ...	36,33,980	30,30,530
Total ...	1,07,15,281	89,51,933

9. There is an increase of expenditure under all heads. This is due to the expansion of the operations of the Trust.

10. In exercise of the powers vested in him by section 71 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, the Lieutenant-Governor approves of the estimate of the income and expenditure of the Commissioners for the year 1907-08.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

W. A. INGLIS,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN, CALCUTTA, FOR THE YEAR 1906-07.

No. 295T.—Medl., dated Darjeeling, the 20th May 1907.

From—H. J. McIntosh, Esq., I.C.S., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Municipal Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Dept of Revenue and Agriculture.

I AM directed to submit, for the information of the Government of India, a copy of the Annual Report of the Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, for the year 1906-07.

2. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor have been conveyed to Captain A. T. Gage, I.M.S., and his subordinates for the good work done by them during the year.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ROYAL BOTANIC GARDEN, CALCUTTA, AND THE LLOYD BOTANIC GARDEN, DARJEELING, FOR THE YEAR 1906-1907.

IN the Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, the most important outdoor work has been the commencement during the latter part of the year and partial carrying out of a survey of the Garden on an adequate scale as a preliminary to the preparation of a proper catalogue and the institution of an accurate system of records of the plants cultivated in it. Beyond this no specially large work was carried out, but various minor improvements were accomplished or initiated. A considerable clearance was made in the north-west corner of the Garden, partly to allow the 'Gold-Mohur' trees, which were planted several years ago along the Roxburgh Avenue eastward of the Roxburgh Monument and were suffering from lack of space, to recover themselves, and partly to have a piece of ground available for a representative collection of economic plants. A fair amount of work still remains to be done before the Economic Garden can be started, but the immediate result has been a distinct improvement in the appearance of that part of the Garden Through the courtesy of the Hon'ble Mr. A A. Apcar, C.S.I., the avenue of Royal Palms between the Water-gate and Kyd's Monument was relaid with several tons of gravel-sand obtained from Kowloon. The improvement of the river bank, which is very unsightly in several places. has been taken in hand, and towards the end of the year arrangements were made for the supply of a quantity of stone-ballast to be deposited near the Superintendent's quarters, where the bank is particularly in need of repair. The scheme of improvement of the main nursery was appreciably advanced during the year, and it is hoped that the coming year will see it completed. The centre beds of the orchid-house were demolished and relaid with distinctly better effect on the general appearance of the house. The Garden roads have been kept in repair, but the advent of the motor-car with its dust-throwing propensities will render it necessary in the near future to adopt some more effective means of watering the roads than the present slow and primitive methods.

2. Economic.—In accordance with the intention mentioned in last year's report, the plot experiments with 'Sunn hemp' (Crotalaria juncea) were repeated, and this time with great success as far as development of the plants and appearance of the fibre were concerned. The fibre was sent to London for valuation, but up to the time of writing no report has been received. It is not proposed to continue this experiment longer or to initiate any similar one during the coming year. Circumstances have greatly altered since the days when the Calcutta Botanic Garden was the chief place in India for experimental economic work. Now that there are the imperial and the various local agricultural departments, each provided with an expert staff, land and laboratories for the investigation of economic problems, there does not appear to be the same necessity as formerly existed for the very restricted staff of the Calcutta Botanic Garden spending time—to the possible neglect of pure botanical research—on work which could be done now under much more satisfactory conditions elsewhere. But because there is now generally speaking no necessity for the Garden to undertake economic experiments, it is not to be implied that it is to cease to take interest in economic plants. A large field of usefulness still remains in the exchange of seeds and plants of economic importance between India and other countries, and such exchanges formed quite a considerable part of the year's work. To mention a few instances, consignments of Bambusa Tulda, one of the most useful bamboos grown, were sent to the United States Department of Agriculture and to German East Africa for experimental cultivation; sweet potatoes of the best varieties obtained through the Imperial Agricultural Department were sent to several foreign countries; cinchona seeds were sent to California, lemon grass to Kew Gynocardia odorata to the French Colonial Bureau, etc. Amongst the useful plants or seeds introduced for cultivation in the Garden or in other parts of India were Apocynum Venetum a fibre yielding plant—from the Botanic Garden of Tiflis; varieties of Sorghum from the Bureau of Agriculture of the Philippine Islands; Funtumia elastica, a rubber-yielding plant—from the Botanical Department of Trinidad, Canhamo brasiliensis, the so-called Brazilian linen-plant—through the Director-General of Commercial Intelligence. As usual seeds of timber and other useful trees were distributed very widely.

3. Herbarium.—The Curatorship of the Herbarium has been vacant throughout the year. As soon as the post became permanently vacant, proposals for its filling up were submitted to Government, but so far no officer has been appointed. A Herbarium without a Curator is like a set of tools without a workman to use them, and it is not surprising that botanical work in the Herbarium has been more or less at a standstill. During the year, however, over 12,000 specimens were added to the Herbarium, comprising amongst others about 1,500 collected by the Calcutta and Lloyd Botanic Garden collectors in Bengal, Assam, Burma and Sikkim; about 600 specimens from the Coimbatore district presented by Mr. C. E. C. Fischer, Deputy Conservator of Forests; over 2,000 from the Bureau of Science of the Philippine Islands; over 2,000 European plants from Mr. A. Meeboid of Heidenheim, Germany; over 800 from the University of Pennsylvania, U. S. A.; over 300 from Mr. J. C. White, C. I. E., of Gangtok, Sikhim; over 200 Indian plants from Mr. A. R. Tucker of the Imperial Revenue and Agricultural Department, and a valuable collection of N.-W. Frontier plants from Mr. James Marten of the Survey Department. The number of specimens distributed is only about 1,000, as owing to there being no Curator, this work has had to remain in abeyance.

Although botanical work in the Herbarium itself has been an impossibility, the collections have not lain entirely useless, for certain orders and genera of plants have been freely loaned for research work outside India to botanical institutions like those of Berlin and Buitenzorg.

4. Laboratory and Museum.—These still await the officer who will put them to use, and there is nothing to add to or qualify the last two annual reports regarding them.

5. Library.—About the usual number of accessions by purchase and exchange was registered. Most of the books apart from periodicals are strong individualists as regards colour and material of binding, but now in binding new and in rebinding old books some uniformity is being introduced

6. Publications.—Part II of Volume IX of the Annals of the Garden, entitled The Orchidaceæ of the North-Western Himalaya, by Mr. J. F. Duthie, B. A., F. L. S., formerly Director of the Botanical Department of Northern India, was issued after a very long delay in the Press. This monograph gives descriptions of all the orchids known to occur in the Western Himalaya, with plates of all the species not already figured. Volume XI, constituting a huge monograph of the genus Calamus of climbing palms by Signor Beccari of Florence, with superb plates, and Part II of Volume VI, being descriptions of Burmese algæ by Messrs. W. and G. S. West, have been in the Press for a long time, but are now practically all in type, so that their early appearance is anticipated.

Of the records of the Botanical Survey of India, No. 3 of Volume IV has been published, being the third and concluding part of Sir J. D. Hooker's Epitome of the British Indian species of Impatiens. Number 3 of Volume III of the same publication, embodying descriptions of new species of Sapindaceæ by Professor L. Radlkofer of Munich is in the Press and should issue very soon.

The Superintendent has contributed several botanical papers to various unofficial periodicals, and has written a sketch of the herbaceous vegetation of Burma for Sir George Scott's handbook to that country.

7. Interchange of seeds and plants.—Over a thousand packets of seeds from all parts of the world were received and 1,680 packets distributed. Over 45,000 plants were distributed and over 2,000 received. The seed-distribution list has of late been considerably increased with corresponding benefit to the Garden in the way of exchange.

8. Arboriculture.—In connection with the scheme for the development of arboriculture in Bengal, arrangements have been made for the Curator of the Garden to give practical instruction in the planting and care of trees to District Overseers, Sub-Overseers and Road Sarkars, who are to be sent to Sibpur in batches during August to October for that purpose.

9. Lloyd Botanic Garden.—The Curator reports that extensive damage was done to unprotected plants by severe hailstorms on three occasions. Alpine plants are gradually being established on the Indigenous Rockery. The Garden workshops were rebuilt during the year and a new glass propagating house and a seed-room erected in the Nursery. A second cloak-room and a 'shelter' were also built, and the boundary fencing was extended along the north of the Garden to prevent irregular entrance on that side. So far as labour was available, the gradients and alignments of some of the paths and the slope of some of the rougher banks were improved. The statistics supplied by the Curator show that the work of this Garden has increased markedly during the last few years.

10. Financial.—The allotments for contingencies for the Royal Botanic Garden, Calcutta, and the Lloyd Botanic Garden, Darjeeling, and the travelling allowance of the former were spent in full. There was a saving of Rs. 68-8 on the travelling allowance of the Lloyd Botanic Garden. In the Royal Botanic Garden account, owing to the Herbarium Curatorship being vacant throughout the year, the readjustment of the Superintendent's pay, the deputation of the Assistant Curator of the Garden and other minor causes, there was a saving of Rs. 11,556-13-10 under salaries. The revenue from the Royal Botanic Garden was Rs. 457-1, paid into the Calcutta Treasury. Owing to the fact that the Lloyd Botanic Garden has ceased to compete with the private nursery enterprise that has recently developed in Darjeeling, that Garden's revenue has dropped to almost nil. The total for the year was Rs. 19-2, paid into the Darjeeling Treasury.

General Summary.—Light rain fell generally in the Province except in South Bihar. The rainfall was moderate in Burdwan, Midnapore, Jessore, Khulna, Purnea, and Cooch Behar. More rain is wanted in parts of Bankura, Hooghly, the 24-Parganas, Nadia, Champaran and Bhagalpur. Sowings of the next season's crops are in progress. In Darbhanga the number of persons on gratuitous relief is 11,593, on test-works 2,415, and on famine-relief works 23,461. Cattle-disease is reported from nine districts. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. The price of common rice has risen in ten and fallen in three districts.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL AND IN EASTERN BENGAL AND ASSAM FOR THE MONTH OF APRIL 1907.

THE weather during the preceding month was dominated by depressions of the winter type entering India from the west, and at the end of the month the two Provinces experienced some rain under the influence of the last stages of one of these disturbances. At the beginning of the present month an important change commenced in the weather conditions prevailing in the two Provinces. Temperature, which had been low for some time, commenced to rise and became nearly normal, while the pressure distribution commenced to change from the winter to the summer type, an area of low pressure establishing itself in North-West India. No rain fell till the 4th of the month, when thunderstorms gave a few light falls in Eastern Bengal and Assam. During the next week a trough of low pressure extending from the Punjab to Orissa was a marked feature of the pressure distribution. It determined southerly winds at the head of the bay, which gave rise to daily rainfall in Eastern Bengal and Assam. Skies were moderately to densely clouded throughout the week, while temperature was cooler than usual, particularly in the southern districts. From the 11th to the 13th rain fell every day of the week, chiefly in Assam, and was most general on the 13th and 14th. A low-pressure area, which formed over Baluchistan and Sind and extended eastwards into the Central Provinces, gave rise to light precipitation in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and Bihar. It disappeared by the 18th. During the next week the winds appear to have been deflected more to the east than usual with the consequence that rainfall was confined chiefly to Assam. Skies were cloudy in the area of rainfall, but were nearly clear elsewhere. Temperature was in defect during the first part of the week, but at the close was normal or in slight to moderate excess. During the last week of the month scattered rain fell from the 26th to the 28th, increased on the 29th and became general on the 30th. Skies were clear or lightly clouded in the western districts and heavily clouded elsewhere. Temperature was slightly above normal at the commencement of the week; but owing to the extension eastwards of low-temperature conditions prevailing in the Central and United Provinces, temperature fell below normal, and very low values were recorded in Chota Nagpur and Orissa on the 28th and 29th.

Summary of temperature.—Mean temperature was in defect over the whole of the reporting area, the average mean temperature of the month in Chota Nagpur being 5½° below the normal mean of the month. The highest temperature recorded was 105°·6, and this was reported from Bankura. The lowest was 53°·4 reported from Dinajpur.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Provinces of Bengal and of Eastern Bengal and Assam for the month of April 1907 :—

METEOROLOGICAL DIVISION.	TEMPERATURE.

Summary of Rainfall.—The rainfall work of the Province has been placed in the hands of the Director of Agriculture, Bengal, and the usual data regarding the actual and normal rainfall during the month are published by that Officer. A short table, however, is attached to this report, giving the rainfall recorded during the month at the head-quarters of the various districts of the Province.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; t, thunder; <, lightning; K, thunderstorm; ⁄, strong wind; p, passing temporary showers.

No. 875T.G.—The 3rd June 1907.—The following is published for general information.

H. C. STREATFEILD,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 332, dated Simla, the 4th May 1907.

From—SIR HERBERT RISLEY, K.C.I.E., C S.I., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

I AM directed to address you on the subject of the principles to be observed and the line of action to be followed with the object of protecting higher education in India from the dangers with which it is threatened by the tendency of both teachers and pupils to associate themselves with political movements and to take a prominent part in organizing and carrying out overt acts of political agitation. This tendency is of comparatively recent growth, and the Government of India have hitherto refrained from adopting specific measures to counteract its effects in the belief that parents, teachers and the more sensible or less impressionable students could not fail to realise that the spirit of lawlessness and resistance to authority thus engendered among the young is bound in the long run to set back the advance of genuine education, to injure the material prospects of the students, and to subvert the traditional foundations of Indian family life. The Governor-General in Council entertains no doubt that the great majority of sensible Indian parents, whatever may be their political opinions, regard with the gravest apprehension the imminent danger that education will be interfered with and the efficiency of schools and colleges impaired by the minds of pupils and students being diverted from their proper work and by the relaxation of discipline which must inevitably result from their being allowed to take part in political agitation.

2. The question affects the entire field of higher education, but the principles to be applied and the procedure to be adopted will differ according as school-boys or college students, schoolmasters or professors of colleges have to be dealt with. The case of the pupils of high schools presents little difficulty. In the interests of the boys themselves it is clearly undesirable that they should be distracted from their work by attending political meetings or engaging in any form of political agitation. In the event of such misconduct being persisted in and encouraged or permitted by the masters or the managing authorities, the offending school can, after due warning, be dealt with—

(a) by the local Government, which has the power of withdrawing any grant-in-aid and of withholding the privilege of competing for scholarships and of receiving scholarship-holders;

(b) by the University, which can withdraw recognition from the school, the effect of which is to prevent it from sending up pupils as candidates for the Matriculation examination.

Action under the first head can be taken by the local Government of its own motion without reference to the University. Should this measure prove inadequate, and should it be thought necessary to have recourse to the more severe punishment of withdrawal of recognition or the threat thereof, the facts of the case should be reported to the University, which alone is legally competent to inflict the requisite penalty. In such cases, I am to request that, following the practice of the Government of India in conducting their own correspondence with the University, the communication may be addressed to the Registrar through the Rector of the Calcutta University.

3. The case of students of affiliated colleges stands on a somewhat different footing. They are no longer school-boys but undergraduates, and a certain proportion of them are Bachelors of Arts who may reasonably claim some wider liberty of action than is permitted to school-boys. In regard to them, therefore, the Government of India are not prepared to lay down as a general rule that mere attendance at political meetings, as distinguished from taking an active part in their proceedings, would necessarily call for the adoption of disciplinary measures against the college. Although, however, they admit that the degree of discipline which is essential for a school-boy may be inappropriate and even undesirable in the case of a student, still they must insist upon the principle that colleges exist for the purpose of education, and they cannot regard with indifference the conversion of such institutions into centres for the dissemination of political doctrines of whatever character. If therefore certain students of an affiliated college were to attend political meetings and there so conduct themselves as to bring undesirable notoriety upon their college, or to engage in political agitation in such a way as to interfere with the corporate life and educational work of the place, and still more if such propagandism assumed the form of picketing and open violence, it is obvious that the local Government concerned could no longer remain passive, but would be bound, in the interests of education, to take steps to procure the withdrawal from the college, at any rate for a period, of the privilege of affiliation to the University. In such a case it would probably be desirable in the first instance that a formal warning should be addressed to the Principal of the college by the Director of Public Instruction. If that warning were disregarded, the facts of the case would be reported by the local Government through the Rector to the Syndicate of the University. It would then rest with any member of the Syndicate to initiate by formal motion the procedure laid down in section 24 of the Universities Act.

4. The further question arises how far participation of schoolmasters or professors of colleges in political movements may be held to call for disciplinary action against the institution in which they are employed. As to this I am to say that the Government of India recognize that in this matter the masters of high English schools should not be treated as being on the same footing as their pupils. Although it is the firm intention of the Governor-General in Council to neglect no means of preventing schools and colleges from being turned into centres of political agitation, he does not wish unduly to circumscribe the liberty of individual teachers. A schoolmaster has a right to his own opinions as much as any one else, but he is subject to very special responsibilities, and it is recognized in every civilized country that these responsibilities limit the extent to which he is entitled to give expression to his individual views. If, therefore, the public utterances of a schoolmaster are of such a character as to endanger the orderly development of the boys under his charge by introducing into their immature minds doctrines subversive of their respect for authority and calculated to impair their usefulness as citizens and to hinder their advancement in after-life, his proceedings must be held to constitute a dereliction of duty and may properly be visited with disciplinary action. Still more will this be the case if he is found to have personally conducted his pupils to a political meeting or to have deliberately encouraged their attendance at such a meeting for the purpose of educating them in his own political views.

5. The principle here laid down extends also to college professors, but it cannot be applied so fully. A professor is dealing with more advanced and more responsible material than a schoolmaster, and it is everywhere recognized that he may claim a larger discretion in respect of the expression of opinion But he also has his special obligations. If he abuses his position by diverting the minds of his students to political agitation, if he encourges them to attend political meetings or personally conducts them to such meetings, or if, while avoiding open propagandism, he adopts a line of action which disturbs and disorganizes the life and work of the college at which he is employed, and if the governing body of the college fail to check such abuse, then it is clearly the duty of the University to interfere in the interest of the educational efficiency of which it is the constituted guardian. If the University were to refuse to control its affiliated colleges in this respect, it would fail to carry out the educational trust with which the law has invested it, and it would be the duty of the Government to intervene.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

CLASS FOR THE TRAINING OF MOTOR DRIVER MECHANICS.

Provisional Rules.

[N.B.—The class will for the present be limited to 25 Persons who wish to join the cass cannot be provided with quarters at the College.]

1. The course of instruction shall include—

(a) Keeping the car in order, and carrying out ordinary running repairs.
(b) Driving.

2. Admissions to the class shall be made by the Principal of the Civil Engineering College, to whom all applications for admission must be addressed in writing on a form which may be had on application at the Principal's office. No candidate shall be admitted to the class who has not attained the age of 16, and who is not possessed of such educational qualifications as shall, in the opinion of the Principal, be deemed to be adequate. In selecting for the class, the Principal shall ordinarily give preference to an applicant who is being sent for training by the actual owner of a motor car. Such an applicant would submit with his application for admission, in addition to the documents required under rule 4 below, a letter from the owner of the motor car.

3. Every candidate for admission to the class shall present himself at the Civil Engineering College to undergo a medical examination by the Medical Officer of the College. Good eyesight is an essential condition of admission to the class.

4. Applications must be accompanied by the following documents :—

(a) An authentic statement of age.
(b) A statement showing the name of the father of the applicant; also the applicant's habitual place of residence and his native district.
(c) A statement of character signed by some responsible person who is well acquainted with the applicant.
(d) A statement of educational qualifications, with the certificates of examinations, if any, which the applicant has passed.

5. Every applicant who is accepted for the class shall be required, before he joins, to deposit with the Principal a sum of Rs. 20. This sum will be held as security for good behaviour and to cover loss or damage.

6. Admissions to the class shall ordinarily be made in November, on the re-opening of the College after the long vacation. In the event of vacancies occurring at other times, they may be filled up at the discretion of the Principal, but admissions under these conditions shall be made during the first week of January or March only.

7. There shall be one annual vacation only. This vacation shall be of a month's duration, and shall be arranged so as to include the Puja holidays.

8. The full course of instruction shall extend over six to eight months and shall consist of—

(a) a preliminary course in the workshops extending over three to four months, and
(b) a course of actual work in connection with a motor car extending over a similar period.

Applicants who can show to the satisfaction of the Principal of the College that they have undergone an adequate course of workshop training may at his discretion be admitted direct to course (b). No one taking the full course of instruction shall be allowed to take up course (b) until he has worked at course (a) for about two months and satisfied the Principal that he has acquired the necessary proficiency in that course. It shall rest with the Principal to decide whether, in the event of failure to qualify in course (a), the pupil failing shall be required to leave the class altogether or whether he should be allowed another chance of passing. Similarly, if a pupil fails to qualify in course (b), it shall rest with the Principal to decide whether such a pupil shall be required to leave the class altogether or whether he should be allowed another chance of qualifying.

9. The fee for instruction shall be at the rate of Rs. 5 a month. The fee shall not be payable for the vacation prescribed in rule 7 above. The fee for each month shall be paid in advance. Any pupil who has not paid his fee for the current month before the 10th day of that month shall be regarded as a defaulter, and shall be liable to be called upon to cease attending the class altogether.

10. Pupils under training shall on every working day while the class is in session present themselves at the Civil Engineering College at 8 A.M. and remain on the College premises for such a number of hours as the Principal may from time to time prescribe as the working hours of the class. During these working hours no pupil shall leave the College premises without first obtaining permission to do so. Any pupil who is repeatedly absent from the work of the class shall be liable to be called upon to withdraw from the class altogether, whatever may have been the cause of his absence. Time spent on duty with a car away from the College shall count as attendance for the purpose of this rule.

11. A certificate shall be issued under the signature of the Principal to any pupil who qualifies to the satisfaction of that officer in courses (a) and (b), or in course (b) if admitted direct to that course. This certificate shall testify to the pupil's mechanical proficiency and knowledge of the particular make or makes of car upon which he has been trained. It shall contain the holder's age, physical measurements, identification marks, and thumb impression, together with a note as to his conduct during the period of training, whether satisfactory or otherwise. No certificate for partial training shall be issued. Pupils who are dismissed or who leave the class without completing the course to the satisfaction of the Principal shall receive no certificate whatever.

12. The Principal has full power to dismiss at any time, with or without notice, any pupil of the class who is guilty of misconduct or whose progress is unsatisfactory.

13. The possession of the certificate awarded under these rules shall not be considered as exempting the holder from undergoing any test or tests in driving which may be prescribed by any duly authorised body.

B. HEATON,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

Special arrangements have been made to open the class at once. Admissions will be made on June 1st. All applications should be sent to the Principal's office, without delay.

Patna Collectorate, the 18th May 1907.

W. B. THOMSON, Collector of Patna.

Advertisement of Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undermentioned plots of land, no longer required by Government, situated along the Toposi Extension, East Indian Railway, in the district of Burdwan, will be put up to sale at 12 noon on Tuesday, the 23rd July 1907, corresponding with the 7th Srabon 1314 B. S. at Asansol police-station.

The purchasers of the several plots of land will be subject to the following conditions:—

1st.—The purchasers will have no power to make any excavations on the land nearer than 15 feet from the railway boundary or to plough the land nearer than 3 feet from the same.

2nd.—If the amount of purchase-money does not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount must be paid down at once.

3rd.—If the amount of purchase-money exceed Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount must be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale shall be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the lot again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser, after issue of the advertisement, as in the case of original sale.

4th.—The plots of land will be sold revenue-free to the highest bidders.

5th.—The purchasers shall be put in possession on receipt by the Collector of the orders of the Board confirming the sale.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt: and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Calcutta, or

the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or
the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or
the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; g, dark gloomy; p, passing temporary showers; d, drizzling rain; t, thunder; K, thunderstorm; /, strong wind; <, lightning.

CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.

NOTICE.

THE following changes in the existing Regulations of the University, which have been adopted by the Senate and approved by the Government of India, are published for general information :—

In section 4 and section 5 of the F.A. and B.A. Regulations, respectively (pages 43 and 47-48, Calendar 1906), for the words "six calendar months" which occur in the tenth line of the sections, the words "one academical year" have been substituted; and for the words "those six months" which occur in the thirteenth line of the sections, have been substituted the words "that academical year."

The above changes will come into effect from the beginning of the ensuing session.

In accordance with sections 4 and 5 of the F.A. and B.A. Regulations as now amended, the unsuccessful candidates at the recent F.A and B.A. Examinations are required to join some affiliated Institution within three weeks from its opening after the summer vacation and to attend 66 per cent. of the lectures to be delivered during the full session in all the subjects in order to be eligible for admission to the examination in 1908.

CIVIL ENGINEERING COLLEGE, SIBPUR.

CLASS FOR THE TRAINING OF MOTOR DRIVER MECHANICS.

Provisional Rules.

[N.B.—The class will for the present be limited to 25. Persons who wish to join the case cannot be provided with quarters at the College.]

1. The course of instruction shall include—

(a) Keeping the car in order, and carrying out ordinary running repairs.
(b) Driving.

2. Admissions to the class shall be made by the Principal of the Civil Engineering College, to whom all applications for admission must be addressed in writing on a form which may be had on application at the Principal's office. No candidate shall be admitted to the class who has not attained the age of 16, and who is not possessed of such educational qualifications as shall, in the opinion of the Principal, be deemed to be adequate. In selecting for the class, the Principal shall ordinarily give preference to an applicant who is being sent for training by the actual owner of a motor car. Such an applicant would submit with his application for admission, in addition to the documents required under rule 4 below, a letter from the owner of the motor car.

3. Every candidate for admission to the class shall present himself at the Civil Engineering College to undergo a medical examination by the Medical Officer of the College. Good eyesight is an essential condition of admission to the class.

4. Applications must be accompanied by the following documents :—

(a) An authentic statement of age.
(b) A statement showing the name of the father of the applicant; also the applicant's habitual place of residence and his native district.
(c) A statement of character signed by some responsible person who is well acquainted with the applicant.
(d) A statement of educational qualifications, with the certificates of examinations, if any, which the applicant has passed.

5. Every applicant who is accepted for the class shall be required, before he joins, to deposit with the Principal a sum of Rs. 20. This sum will be held as security for good behaviour and to cover loss or damage.

6. Admissions to the class shall ordinarily be made in November, on the re-opening of the College after the long vacation. In the event of vacancies occurring at other times, they may be filled up at the discretion of the Principal, but admissions under these conditions shall be made during the first week of January or March only.

7. There shall be one annual vacation only. This vacation shall be of a month's duration, and shall be arranged so as to include the Puja holidays.

8. The full course of instruction shall extend over six to eight months and shall consist of—

(a) a preliminary course in the workshops extending over three to four months, and
(b) a course of actual work in connection with a motor car extending over a similar period.

Applicants who can show to the satisfaction of the Principal of the College that they have undergone an adequate course of workshop training may at his discretion be admitted direct to course (b). No one taking the full course of instruction shall be allowed to take up course (b) until he has worked at course (a) for about two months and satisfied the Principal that he has acquired the necessary proficiency in that course. It shall rest with the Principal to decide whether, in the event of failure to qualify in course (a), the pupil failing shall be required to leave the class altogether or whether he should be allowed another chance of passing. Similarly, if a pupil fails to qualify in course (b), it shall rest with the Principal to decide whether such a pupil shall be required to leave the class altogether or whether he should be allowed another chance of qualifying.

9. The fee for instruction shall be at the rate of Rs. 5 a month. The fee shall not be payable for the vacation prescribed in rule 7 above. The fee for each month shall be paid in advance. Any pupil who has not paid his fee for the current month before the 10th day of that month shall be regarded as a defaulter, and shall be liable to be called upon to cease attending the class altogether.

10. Pupils under training shall on every working day while the class is in session present themselves at the Civil Engineering College at 8 A.M. and remain on the College premises for such a number of hours as the Principal may from time to time prescribe as the working hours of the class. During these working hours no pupil shall leave the College premises without first obtaining permission to do so. Any pupil who is repeatedly absent from the work of the class shall be liable to be called upon to withdraw from the class altogether, whatever may have been the cause of his absence. Time spent on duty with a car away from the College shall count as attendance for the purpose of this rule.

11. A certificate shall be issued under the signature of the Principal to any pupil who qualifies to the satisfaction of that officer in courses (a) and (b), or in course (b) if admitted direct to that course. This certificate shall testify to the pupil's mechanical proficiency and knowledge of the particular make or makes of car upon which he has been trained. It shall contain the holder's age, physical measurements, identification marks, and thumb impression, together with a note as to his conduct during the period of training, whether satisfactory or otherwise. No certificate for partial training shall be issued. Pupils who are dismissed or who leave the class without completing the course to the satisfaction of the Principal shall receive no certificate whatever.

12. The Principal has full power to dismiss at any time, with or without notice, any pupil of the class who is guilty of misconduct or whose progress is unsatisfactory.

13. The possession of the certificate awarded under these rules shall not be considered as exempting the holder from undergoing any test or tests in driving which may be prescribed by any duly authorised body.

B. HEATON,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

Special arrangements have been made to open the class at once. Admissions will be made on June 1st. All applications should be sent to the Principal's office, without delay.

B. HEATON,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

RESOLUTION—By the Governmnet of India, Home Department.

CERTAIN circumstances attending the recent outbreaks of lawlessness in the Punjab and Eastern Bengal have forced upon the attention of the Government of India the deliberate efforts made by a number of newspapers, both English and Vernacular, to inflame the minds of the people, to encourage ill-will between classes, to promote active hostility to the Government, and to disturb the public tranquillity in many different ways. The Governor-General in Council has no desire whatever to restrict the legitimate liberty of the Press to criticise the action of the Government, and he would be most reluctant to curtail the freedom of the many well-conducted papers because of the misbehaviour of a few disloyal journals. But he is responsible for the maintenance of law and order among a vast and heterogeneous population, and he is unable to tolerate the publication of writings which tend to arouse the disorderly elements of society and to incite them to concerted action against the Government. On these grounds he has determined that the dissemination of sedition, and the promotion of ill-will between classes must be repressed by firm and sustained action under the penal law. Accordingly, in supersession of previous orders on the subject, His Excellency in Council empowers Local Governments to institute prosecutions in consultation with their legal advisers in all cases where the law has been wilfully infringed. He hopes that the warning now given may, in great measure, avert the necessity for numerous prosecutions, but if this hope should unhappily not be realised, he relies upon the local authorities to deal with the evil effectively.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be communicated to all Local Governments and Administrations for information and guidance.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Gazette of India for general information.

EXPLOSIVES.

No. 4555—4.

Simla, the 31st May 1907.

RULES TO REGULATE THE TRANSPORT AND IMPORTATION OF EXPLOSIVES.

Preamble.

IN supersession of the Notification of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 5528 (Public), dated the 11th October 1901, and of all amending notifications, and in exercise of the powers conferred by sections 5 and 7 of the Indian Explosives Act, 1884 (IV of 1884), the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules to regulate the transport and importation of explosives.

Extent of application.

These rules extend to the whole of British India, but the rules relating to the transport of explosives shall cease to apply to any port as defined in the Indian Ports Act, 1889 (X of 1889), for which special rules made by the Local Government are for the time being in force, in so far as they are expressly superseded by, or are inconsistent with, such special rules.

General exemptions.

Nothing in these rules shall apply to the packing, transport or importation of capped safety-cartridge cases, if otherwise empty, when packed, transported or imported in the same consignment with arms covered by a license granted under the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878).

PRELIMINARY.

Classification explosives.

1. (1) For the purposes of these rules, explosives shall be classified as follows, namely :—

Class	1	Gunpowder.
,,	2	Nitrate mixture.
,,	3	Nitro-compound.
,,	4	Chlorate mixture.
,,	5	Fulminate.
,,	6	Ammunition.
,,	7	Firework.

(2) When any explosive falls within more than one of the said classes, it shall be deemed to belong exclusively to the latest of such classes.

Definition of "gunpowder" (class 1).

2. The expression "gunpowder," as used in these rules, means exclusively gunpowder ordinarily so called.

Definition of "nitrate mixture" (class 2).

3. The expression "nitrate mixture," as used in these rules, means any preparation other than gunpowder, which is formed by the mechanical mixture of nitrate with any form of carbon or with any carbonaceous substance not possessed of explosive properties,

---

* Further exemptions are made by section 14 of the Indian Explosives Act, 1884, which runs as follows :—

Saving for manufacture, possession, use, sale, transport, or importation by Government.

"Nothing in this Act shall apply to the manufacture, possession, use, sale, transport or importation of any explosive—

(a) by order of the Government, or

(b) by any person employed under the Government in the execution of this Act, or as a keeper of a magazine, artizan, soldier, sailor, policeman or otherwise, or enrolled as a volunteer under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, in the course of his employment or duty as such." XX of 1869.

whether sulphur be or be not added to such preparation, and whether such preparation be or be not mechanically mixed with any other non-explosive substance.

Nitrate mixture includes, among other explosives,—

Westfallite.

Definition and subdivision of "nitro-compound" (class 3).

4. (1) The expression "nitro-compound," as used in these rules, means any chemical compound which is possessed of explosive properties or is capable of combining with metals to form an explosive compound, and is produced by the chemical action of nitric acid (whether mixed or not with sulphuric acid), or of a nitrate mixed with sulphuric acid upon any carbonaceous substance, whether such compound is mechanically mixed with other substances or not.

(2) Nitro-compound shall, for the purposes of these rules, be subdivided as follows namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising—

(i) such explosives as—

Amberite, No. 1, Ballistite, Blasting gelatine, Carbonite, Cordite,	Dynamite, Gelatine dynamite, Gelignite, Lithofracteur, Nitro-glycerine, and

Stonite, and

(ii) any chemical compound or mechanically mixed preparation which consists either wholly or partly, of nitro-glycerine or some other liquid nitro-compound; and

(b) Division 2, comprising—

(i) such explosives as—

Amberite, No. 2, Ammonite, Bellite, Coopal's powder, Cotton gunpowder, E. C. Powder, Guncotton ordinarily so called,	Nitrated guncotton, Picrates, Picric powder, Roburite, Sawdust and guncotton powder, Schultz's powder, and Tonite (or cotton powder), and

(ii) any nitro-compound, as hereinbefore defined, which is not comprised in Division 1.

Definition and subdivision of "chlorate mixture" (class 4).

5. (1) The expression "chlorate mixture", as used in these rules, means any explosive containing a chlorate.

(2) Chlorate mixture shall, for the purposes of these rules, be subdivided as follows, namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising—

(i) such explosives as—

Horsley's blasting powder, and Brain's blasting powder, and

(ii) any chlorate preparation, which consists partly of nitro-glycerine or of some other liquid nitro-compound, and

(b) Division 2, comprising—

(i) such explosives as—

Horsley's original blasting powder, Erhardt's powder, Reveley's powder,	Hochstadter's blasting charges, Reichen's blasting charges, Teutonite, and

Chlorated guncotton, and (ii) any chlorate-mixture, as hereinbefore defined, which is not comprised in Division 1.

Definition, and subdivision of "fulminate" (class 5)

6. (1) The expression "fulminate", as used in these rules, means any chemical compound or mechanical mixture, whether included in any of the foregoing definitions or not, which, from its great susceptibility to detonation, is suitable for employment in percussion-caps or any other appliance for developing detonation, or which, from its extreme sensibility to explosion and from its great instability (that is to say, readiness to undergo decomposition from very slight exciting causes), is especially dangerous.

(2) Fulminate shall, for the purposes of these rules, be subdivided as follows, namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising such compounds as the fulminates of silver and of mercury, and preparations of those substances such as are used in percussion-caps, and any preparation consisting of a mixture of a chlorate with phosphorus, or certain descriptions of compounds of phosphorus, with or without the addition of carbonaceous matter, and any preparation consisting of a mixture of a chlorate with sulphur, or with sulphuret, with or without carbonaceous matter; and

(b) Division 2, comprising such substances as the chloride and the iodide of nitrogen, fulminating gold and silver, diazobenzol, and the nitrate of diazobenzol.

Definition of "ammunition", "percussion-cap," "detonator," "safety fuze" and "safety cartridge," and subdivision of "ammunition" (class 6).

7. (1) The expression "ammunition", as used in these rules, means any explosive included in any of the foregoing definitions, when the same is enclosed in any case or contrivance, or is otherwise adapted or prepared, so as to form—

(a) a cartridge or charge for small arms, cannon or any other weapon, or for blasting or

(b) a safety or other fuze for blasting or for shells, or

(c) a tube for firing explosives, or

(d) a percussion-cap, a detonator, a fog-signal, a shell, a torpedo, a war-rocket, or any contrivance other than a firework.

(2) The expression "percussion-cap", as used in these rules, does not include a detonator.

(3) The expression "detonator", as used in these rules, means a capsule or case which is of such strength and construction, and contains fulminate in such quantity that the explosion of one capsule or case would communicate the explosion to other like capsules or cases.

(4) The expression "safety fuze," as used in these rules, means a fuze for blasting which burns and does not explode, and which does not contain its own means of ignition, and which is of such strength and construction, and contains an explosive in such quantity that the burning of such fuze would not communicate laterally with other like fuzes.

(5) The expression "safety cartridge," as used in these rules,—

(i) means a cartridge for small arms, the case of which can be extracted from the small arm after firing, and which is so closed as to prevent any explosion in one cartridge being communicated to other cartridges; and

(ii) includes a rifle-calibre machine-gun cartridge, if it is as described in clause (i) whether it is for use with a machine-gun having chambers identical with those of rifles or with a machine-gun having special chambers:

Provided that the diameter of the cartridge in either case (i) or case (ii) does not exceed one inch.

(6) Ammunition shall, for the purposes of these rules, be subdivided as follows, namely:

(a) Division 1, comprising exclusively—

Safety cartridges,
Safety fuzes for blasting,
Railway fog-signals, and Percussion-caps; and

(b) Division 2, comprising any ammunition, as hereinbefore defined, which does not contain its own means of ignition and is not included in Division 1, such as—

Cartridges for small arms, other than safety cartridges,
Cartridges and charges for cannon, shells, mines, blasting or other like purposes,
Shells and torpedoes containing any explosive,
Fuzes for blasting, other than safety fuzes,
Fuzes for shells,
Tubes for firing explosives, and War-rockets,

which do not contain their own means of ignition; and

(c) Division 3, comprising any ammunition as hereinbefore defined which contains its own means of ignition and is not included in Division 1, such as—

Detonators,
Cartridges for smallarms, which are not safety cartridges,
Fuzes for blasting, which are not safety fuzes, Fuzes for shells, and Tubes for firing explosives, containing their own means of ignition

Explanation.—The expression "ammunition containing its own means of ignition" means ammunition having an arrangement, whether attached to or forming part of the ammunition which is adapted to explode or fire the ammunition by friction or percussion.

Subdivision of "firework" (class 7).

8. Fireworks shall, for the purposes of these rules, be subdivided as follows, namely:

(1) Division 1, comprising firework compositions, that is to say,—

(a) any chemical compound or mechanically mixed preparation of an explosive of inflammable nature which is used for the purpose of making manufactured fireworks, and is not included in any of the foregoing definitions,

(b) any star, and

(c) (except as declared in the proviso to this rule) any coloured fire composition; and

(2) Division 2, comprising manufactured fireworks, that is to say, any explosive or class 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6 and any firework composition, when such explosive of composition is enclosed in any case or contrivance, or is otherwise manufactured so as to form a squib, cracker, toy cap or amorce, serpent, rocket (other than a war-rocket), maroon, lance, wheel, Chinese fire, Roman candle, or other article specially adapted for the production of pyrotechnic effects or pyrotechnic signals or sound signals:

Provided that a substantially constructed and hermetically closed metal case containing not more than one pound of coloured fire composition of such a nature as not to be liable to spontaneous ignition shall be deemed to be a "manufactured firework" and not a "firework composition".

TRANSPORT.

Packing of explosives for conveyance.

9. The following general rules shall be observed with respect to the packing of explosives for conveyance:—

(1) Unless the context otherwise requires,— the expression "outer package" means a box, barrel, case or cylinder, of wood, metal or other solid material, of such strength, construction and character that it will not be broken or accidentally opened, nor become defective or insecure whilst being conveyed, and will not allow any explosive to escape; the expression "inner package" means a substantial case, bag, canister or other receptacle, made and closed so as to prevent any explosive from escaping;

the expression "authorized explosive" means exclusively an explosive included in a List of Authorized Explosives prepared by the Chief Inspector of Explosives with the Government of India, and published annually in the Gazette of India, and in force for the time being;

the expression "propellant" means an authorized explosive of class 3 adapted and intended exclusively for use as a propelling charge in cannon or small arms; and the expression "special authority" means a written authority granted by the Chief Inspector of Explosives to which may be attached such conditions as may, in the opinion of the Chief Inspector of Explosives, be necessary to meet the special requirements of the case.

(2) The interior of every package shall be free from grit and otherwise clean.

(3) Save as hereinafter provided, there shall not be any iron or steel in the construction of any package unless the same is covered with suitable material so as effectually to prevent the exposure of such iron or steel.

(4) Every package when actually used for the packing of one explosive shall not be used for the packing of any other explosive or any other article or substance:

Provided that this rule shall not prevent the packing of inner packages containing a propellant in an outer package with inner packages containing gunpowder or another propellent

Provided also that this rule shall not prevent the packing of any article which is not of an inflammable or explosive nature, or liable to cause fire or explosion in the same package as an explosive of the 1st Division of the 6th (Ammunition) class

(5) Subject to the foregoing provisions, the following shall be the method of packing authorised explosives of various classes, respectively, and the maximum amounts which may be in any one package :—

Class.	Method of packing.	Amount in any one outer package.	Amount in any one inner package
Class 1	When the quantity in any one consignment does not exceed 5 lbs. in amount, a single outer package, otherwise. A double package, the inner and outer packages being as above defined.	100 lbs Provided that where gunpowder and propellant are packed together, the amount shall not exceed— 50 lbs	100 lbs. 25 lbs.
Class 2	As for class 1	50 lbs	50 lbs.
Class 3, Division 1, other than propellants.	As for class 1, provided that either the outer or inner package shall be thoroughly waterproof, and both shall be without metal in the construction thereof	50 lbs.	5 lbs.
Class 3, Division 1, propellants	As for class 1	50 lbs	50 lbs
Class 3, Division 2, other than Picric Acid and Wet Guncotton	As for class 1	50 lbs.	50 lbs.
Picric Acid	As for class 1	Unlimited ...	Unlimited.
Guncotton so wetted with water as to be absolutely uninflammable.	As for class 1, provided that the inner or outer package, or both of them, shall be of such a nature, and so closed as to prevent any material loss of moisture during conveyance	Unlimited ..	Unlimited
Class 4	As for class 1	50 lbs	50 lbs
Class 5	Packed in water. A treble package, the innermost package being a bag permeable to water, enclosed in a case containing sufficient water to ensure the explosive being kept constantly wet, and the outer package containing sufficient water constantly to surround the case Both the case and the outer package shall be of such construction as will not allow water to escape. If the explosive is of such character that it cannot be packed in a thoroughly wet condition, it shall be packed in accordance with condition set forth in a special authority	200 lbs	25 lbs.
Class 6, Division 1, other than Pin-fire cartridges for pistols	A single outer package Provided that the above general Rule (3) shall not apply to explosives of this division. Provided also that bulleted cartridges of a calibre exceeding 0·5 inch and belonging to this Division shall be packed in such a manner that the point of any bullet cannot come in contact with the cap of another cartridge.	Unlimited	.....
Pin-fire cartridges for pistols	(a) Not exceeding 50 in number in any one consignment —So packed in a single package that the bases lie alternately in opposite directions. The bases and pins shall be so fitted into perforations in millboard or other suitable material as to prevent the firing of any one of the said cartridges by an explosion in any other of the said cartridges.	50 in number	.....

Class.	Method of packing.	Amount in any one outer package.	Amount in any one inner package.
	(b) Exceeding 50 in number :—In an inner and outer package, the cartridges being packed in inner packages with millboard as above required.	2,500 in number	50 in number.
Class 6, Division 2 ...	Explosives made up into cartridges or charges for cannon, shells, torpedoes, mines, blasting or other like purposes shall be packed in such manner and in such quantity as is required for the same explosive when not so made up; provided that, where a double package is required, the enclosing case of such cartridges or charges may, if it satisfies the conditions required for an inner package, be held to be such inner package.	.....	.....
	Other ammunition of this Division :—A single outer package.	100 lbs. ...	.....
Class 6, Division 3, other than Detonators and Electric Detonators.	As for class 1	50 lbs. ...	2 lbs. or 10 in number, whichever be the greater.
	Provided that bulleted cartridges of a calibre exceeding 0·5 inch and belonging to this Division shall be packed in such a manner that the point of any bullet cannot come in contact with the cap of another cartridge.
Detonators	(a) Not exceeding 1,000 in any one consignment :—As for class 1, provided that the detonators and the spaces between the same and between the sides of the inner package and the said detonators shall all be filled, as far as practicable, with fine sawdust or other similar material; a layer of felt or other soft yielding material shall be placed between both ends of all the detonators and the interior of the inner package in which the same are placed, in such manner, and so secured, that both ends of the detonators will rest upon the said cotton wool or other material; every inner package, if of metal, to be lined throughout with paper or other soft material; and	1,000 in number	100 in number.
	(b) Exceeding 1,000 detonators :—
	The detonators shall be packed in inner packages, with sawdust and cotton wool as above described. Such inner packages shall be placed inside a substantial case of wood or metal, made and closed so as to prevent any of the inner packages escaping therefrom, and such case shall be placed inside an outer package in such manner and so secured as to leave a clear space of not less than three inches between the case and every part of the interior of the said outer package, notwithstanding that such clear space may, if preferred, be filled with sawdust, straw, or other similar material, or may contain a light framework or battens of wood to keep the case aforesaid in position in the outer package; and	10,000 in number	100 in number.
	(c) where the number of detonators exceeds 5,000, such outer package shall be provided with handles or other contrivance, by means of which it can be safely and conveniently carried.

Class.	Method of packing.	Amount in any one outer package.	Amount in any one inner package.
Electric Detonators ...	As for class 1, provided that where the number in any outer package exceeds 3,000, such outer package shall be provided with handles or other contrivance by means of which it can be safely and conveniently carried.	5,000 in number.	100 in number.
Class 7, Division 1 ...	Double package, the inner package being hermetically closed, and contained in an outer package as above defined.	20 lbs.	1 lb.
Class 7, Division 2 ...	Single outer package provided that the above general rule (3) shall not apply to explosives of this Division.	100 lbs.	.....

(6) Nothing in this rule shall be deemed to prohibit the use of an additional package, whether inner or outer, provided that such additional package shall not be of such character as shall have been prohibited in writing by the Chief Inspector of Explosives.

(7) An explosive which is not an authorised explosive shall be packed in such manner as may be directed by a special authority with reference to such explosive.

(8) On the outermost package there shall be affixed in conspicuous characters, by means of a brand or securely attached label or other mark, the word "Explosive," the name of the explosive, the number of the class and division to which it belongs, and the name of the manufacturer or sender.

In the case of explosives of classes 3 and 4, there shall be added the date of manufacture or issue from the factory, or such sign indicating such date as may be approved by the Chief Inspector of Explosives :

Provided, first, that in the case of cartridges or charges for cannon, shells, mines blasting or other like purpose, which do not contain their own means of ignition, the marking shall be as for the explosive when not so made up.

Provided, secondly, that in the case of explosives of class 6, Division 1 (Safety Fuzes excepted), there shall be added the words " Not liable to explode in bulk."

Provided, thirdly, that in the case of Pin-fire cartridges for pistols there shall be added the words " Pin-fire cartridges."

Provided, fourthly, that in the case of Safety Fuses or Gunpowder the word " Explosive " and the number of the class and division may be omitted ; and Provided, fifthly, that, where an outer package contains more than one explosive, the marking above required shall be affixed separately in respect of each explosive so contained.

(9) To meet special cases exemption may be granted by special authority from the observance of any one or more of the conditions imposed by this rule.

Penalty.

10. Whoever commits a breach of any of the foregoing rules relating to the packing of explosives for conveyance shall be punishable with fine which may extend to Rs. 1,000.

Mode of conveyance.

11. The following general rules shall be observed with respect to the conveyance of explosives :

I.—No explosive shall be conveyed from place to place unless packed in the manner provided for in the foregoing rules.

II —There shall not be conveyed in any carriage or vessel which is being used fo the conveyance of an explosive, any explosive of a different class and division, of whatsoever nature, which contains its own means of ignition, unless it is sufficiently separated therefrom to prevent any fire or explosion which may take place in one such explosive being communicated to another.

III.—Except in the case of small consignments carried by railway which may be unloaded at any time, explosives shall be loaded or unloaded only between sunrise and sunset. For the purposes of this rule no consignment of more than half a wagon-load booked to one station shall be deemed to be a small consignment.

IV.—Whilst the explosive is being loaded on or unloaded out of any carriage or vessel, no fire or artificial light, or any article which is liable to cause or communicate fire or explosion [such as charcoal, lucifer matches, articles for striking a light, petroleum to which the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), or any other Act for the time being in force regarding the importation, possession, and transport of petroleum, applies, or any spirit or oil or substance that gives forth an inflammable vapour at a temperature below 100° Fahrenheit] shall be, or shall be allowed to be, brought, had or used dangerously near to such carriage, ship, or boat, and no smoking shall be allowed in, on, or dangerously near to, the same :

Provided that when the use of a light for the purposes of such loading or unloading is unvoidable, a lamp of such construction, position, or character as not to cause any danger from fire or explosion may be used; and no person while handling any explosive (except an explosive of Division 1, Class 6, if packed in accordance with the packing rules) shall wear boots or shoes with iron or steel nails, heels or tips.

V.—In the loading or unloading of any explosive, the casks and packages containing the same shall be passed from hand to hand and not rolled upon the ground; they shall not be thrown or dropped down, but shall be carefully deposited and stowed.

VI.—The explosive shall not be conveyed except in the interior of a carriage so enclosed on all sides with wood or metal, or in the hold of a ship or boat having a close deck so closed as effectually to protect the explosive against accident by fire from without. If the explosive cannot be so secured, it shall be completely covered with painted cloth, tarpaulin, or other suitable material so as to effectually protect it against communication of fire.

VII.—There shall not be any iron or steel in the interior of the portion of the carriage or vessel with which the case containing the explosive is or may come in contact, unless the same is effectually covered with leather, wood, cloth, or other suitable material.

VIII.—In the stowing of the explosive, due precautions shall be taken by means of a partition or otherwise and by careful stowing to secure such explosive from being brought into contact with, or endangered by, any other article or substance conveyed in such carriage or vessel which is liable to cause fire or explosion; and if the explosive is dangerously affected by water, due precautions shall be taken to exclude water from coming into contact with such explosive.

IX.—The amount of the explosives conveyed in any one carriage or vessel at any one time shall not exceed 2,000 lbs unless the carriage be so enclosed on all sides with wood or metal, or the vessel have a close deck so closed as effectually to protect the explosive against accident by fire from without, in which case the amount of the explosives conveyed shall not exceed the following—*

	Tons.
In any one carriage on a railway	10
In any one other carriage	2
In any one vessel	20

NOTE.—This rule shall, in the case of dynamite conveyed by railway, be read subject to paragraph XII of Rule 13.

X.—Nothing in the foregoing rules (except Rule I) shall apply to any explosive of the 1st Division of the 6th (Ammunition) Class:

Provided that all due precautions are taken for the prevention of accidents.

Conveyance otherwise than by railway.

12. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the conveyance of explosives otherwise than by railway:

I.—No explosive shall be conveyed in a carriage or boat whilst carrying or plying for public passengers, unless the quantity is less than 5 lbs and notice has been given beforehand to the person in charge of such carriage or boat; and all due precautions are taken for the prevention of accidents by fire or explosion:

Provided that there shall not be conveyed in any such carriage or boat any explosive of the 5th (Fulminate) Class or any explosive of the 3rd Division of the 6th (Ammunition) Class or of the 1st Division of the 7th (Firework) Class, except detonators packed according to Rule 9 to the number of 200.

Provided that the amount of explosive of the 5th (Fulminate) Class in the detonators shall in no case exceed in the aggregate 3 oz (a certificate to this effect being given by the agent of the company by whom the detonators are tendered for transport).

Provided also that no other explosive is carried in the same compartment.

II.—With respect to the conveyance by carriage or vessel of explosives of the 5th (Fulminate) Class or of the 3rd Division of the 6th (Ammunition) Class, or of the 1st Division of the 7th (Firework) Class, or of larger quantities than 5 lbs. of any other explosive, the following regulations shall be observed:—

(1) The person in charge of the carriage or vessel shall not drive or conduct the same in a dangerous or reckless manner, and shall take all due precautions to avoid fire and explosion, and no person shall do any act or thing in relation to the explosive which tends to cause fire or explosion, and is not reasonably necessary for the conveyance of the explosive or for work immediately connected with such conveyance; and a person who is intoxicated shall not have charge of any carriage or vessel conveying explosive, and shall not be permitted to be in, or on, or attending the same.

(2) A person shall not forward to any warehouseman or carrier a consignment of explosive, unless he has given notice to such warehouseman or carrier beforehand, stating the name and quantity of the explosive proposed to be conveyed, and the name and address of the proposed consignee, and has had an intimation that the warehouseman or carrier is prepared to receive the consignment, and a warehouseman or carrier shall not make such an intimation nor receive such consignment, unless he is prepared to receive it, and forthwith to despatch the same, or to deposit it in a magazine or at a place at which a person is licensed to possess the same.

(f) The carriage or vessel conveying the explosive shall be in charge of, and constantly attended by, some competent person, or by a sufficient number of competent persons, and such persons shall not, if the amount of the explosive conveyed exceed 100 lbs., stop or delay for a longer time than may be reasonably necessary or stop unnecessarily at any place where such stopping would be attended with special public danger.

III.—No explosive belonging to class 1 (gunpowder class), class 2 (nitrate mixture class), class 3 (nitro-compound class), class 4 (chlorate mixture class) or class 5 (fulminate class), shall be carried, otherwise than by rail, accross any railway bridge over which reasonable facilities for the conveyance thereof by rail are afforded by the Railway Administration:

Provided that this prohibition shall not apply in respect of quantities of explosives of class 1 (gunpowder class) or class 3 (nitro-compound class) not exceeding 5 lbs in weight.

13. The following rules shall be observed with respect to the conveyance of explosives by public railways: Conveyance by public railways.

I.—No person shall send for carriage upon any railway any consignment of an explosive, unless he has given to the officer in charge of the railway station previous notice in writing which, at the option of the Railway Administration, may extend to 48 hours, of his intention to send such consignment, and stating the true name, description, quantity and mode of packing of the explosive proposed to be conveyed, and his own name and address, and also the name and address of the proposed consignee, and unless he has had an intimation in writing from an authorized officer of the railway that such consignment will be received.

II.—No explosive which a Railway Administration shall, by any notice or regulation for the time being in force, notify that they will not receive, shall be brought, sent, or forwarded to or upon any railway of the said Railway Administration.

III.—Consignments of explosives shall be sent to the forwarding station and shall be received by the railway servants only at such times, between sunrise and sunset, as the Railway Administration may appoint; and every package containing any explosive proposed to be conveyed on any railway shall immediately on arrival at the station be unloaded and placed in a safe place under the special direction of the officer in charge of the station.

All gunpowder under despatch or receipt by a Government arsenal, depot, or factory shall be loaded or unloaded in the railway vans by Government servants employed in such arsenal, depot or factory. In each van used by the railway for the transport of gunpowder the packages of gunpowder shall be secured in such a way as to prevent concussion when the train is in motion.

IV.—An explosive shall be removed by the consignee from the receiving station during the twelve hours of daylight after arrival: if this condition is not strictly complied with, the Railway Adminstration may return the consignment to the consignor at his risk and expense And such packages shall in the meanwhile be kept as far away from the station buildings as possible, in the wagon they were conveyed in, or, if unloaded, shall be completely covered with tarpaulins or other suitable material, and, if necessary, shall be protected by a police guard.

V.—The Railway Administration may refuse to receive any packages which they suspect to contain any explosive packed or sent in contravention of these regulations. And in case any package, which the Railway Administration suspect, shall be upon any railway, the Railway Administration may open, or require to be opened, such package to ascertain the fact, at the risk and expense of the consignor and may return the explosive contained in the package to the consignor at his risk and expense, keeping the packages pending such return in the manner prescribed in the preceding rule.

VI.—Subject to the exception provided for in clause (e), no explosive shall be conveyed by passenger train except of the kinds and in the manner hereinafter specified in this rule:

(a) Safety-cartridges and percussion-caps and safety-fuzes (for blasting), also fog-signals for railway use which may be conveyed in ordinary wagons or carriages.

(b) Explosives of the 3rd (nitro-compound) class which may be carried in the form of cartridges up to the limit of 5 lbs.:

Provided that no detonators are carried in the same compartment.

(c) Detonators packed according to Rule 9 may be carried to the number of 200:

Provided that in no case the amount of fulminate of mercury in the package or packages containing the detonators exceeds in the aggregate 3 oz. (a certificate to this effect being given by the company, firm, or person tendering the detonators for transport or by its or his agent):

Provided also that no other explosive is carried in the same compartment.

(d) Sporting gunpowder or non-safety cartridges packed in double cases as before provided, so long as the gunpowder is contained in one-pound tin canisters packed in a stout wooden case with an outer covering of tin or zinc completely spark-proof, or in metal-lined cases of a pattern approved by the Railway Administration. But no outer case shall contain more than 25 lbs. of gunpowder, and the total consignment of gunpowder or non-safety cartridges by one train shall not exceed 80 lbs.

(e) Explosives may be carried by mixed trains on any line on which goods trains are not running, subject to the conditions that they are loaded in properly-constructed powder-vans; that not more than one powder-van containing explosives is forwarded at any one time by a mixed train; that there are not less than three vehicles between the powder-van and either the engine or the passenger coaches; that the powder-van is close coupled to the adjoining vehicles; and that directly a powder-van containing explosives arrives at a section on which goods trains are running, it is detached from the mixed train.

VII.—Not more than five carriages containing explosives shall be loaded or unloaded at any railway station, or be conveyed by any one train at any one time; and the quantity of explosive to be contained in any one carriage shall not exceed two-thirds of the normal load, unless the carriages shall be specially built and approved by the Railway Board for the conveyance of explosives. But nothing in this clause shall be held to apply to separate consignments of safety-cartridges for small arms.

VIII.—There shall not be conveyed in the same carriage with any explosive any lucifer or other matches, fuzes, pipelights, acids, naphtha, paraffine, petroleum, to which the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 (VIII of 1899), or any other Act for the time being in force regarding the importation, possession, and transport of petroleum, applies or any other volatile spirit substance liable to give off an inflammable vapour or liable to spontaneous ignition, or to cause or communicate fire or explosion.

IX.—The consignor shall attach to the consignment note a certificate or (provided the original is produced for verification) copy of a certificate, signed by an officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, that the explosive if it is an explosive of class 3 or 4, is of the standard purity; and further, in the case of dynamite and all nitro-glycerine compounds, that there are no signs of exuded nitro glycerine or of liquefaction. The consignor shall also certify that the explosive has been packed in accordance with the packing rules in force in England or in British India.

X.—In the case of explosives under clauses 3 and 4, the outer packages shall be marked with the date of the manufacture of the explosives. The abovementioned certificate shall contain sufficient information to admit of all packages being easily recognized.

XI.—The certificate referred to in Rule 13 (IX) shall be valid for six months after date, if the examination has been made between the 15th October and 31st March, but any Railway Administration which accepts dynamite and other nitro-glycerine compounds for transport may demand a fresh certificate for these explosives, if presented for conveyance between 1st April and 15th October both inclusive.

XII.—Packages containing dynamite and other blasting explosives of the 3rd (nitro-compound) class, or explosives of the 4th (chlorate mixture), 5th (fulminate) classes or of the 1st division of the 7th (firework) class shall be stowed in one layer only and secured so as to prevent movement during transit, and the gross load in ony one wagon shall not exceed 3 tons:

Provided that, if the packages of explosive are in rectangular form and are properly secured so as to prevent movement during transit, they may be stowed in any number of layers not exceeding five, and the gross load in any one wagon shall not exceed 5 tons.

XIII.—No explosive of the 5th (fulminate) class or of the 3rd division of the 6th (ammunition) class, or of the (7th firework) class shall be carried in the same train with any explosive not of the class and division to which it belongs unless it be sufficiently separated therefrom to prevent any fire or explosion which may take place in one such explosive being communicated to another.

XIV.—Wagons used for the carriage of explosives shall be examined to see that they are spark-proof, and have been cleaned out before they are loaded. Hair, cloth, hides, or other suitable materials shall be spread on the floor of the wagon and between each layer of packages, except when the packages are covered with gunny or felt, or contain safety-cartridges for small arms packed in tin-lined service-pattern boxes.

XV.—Wagons containing explosives shall be loaded and unloaded on sidings distant as far as possible from the station buildings.

XVI.—Packages containing explosives other than those referred to in Rule 13 (XII) shall not be stored in more than three layers, one above the other. But if the packages are in rectangular form and of uniform size (provided they are double packages, and are so secured as to prevent movement during transit), they may be packed in five layers, one above the other. But in the case of safety cartridges, for small arms packed in tin-lined service pattern boxes, there is no restriction. Subject to the provisions of Rule 11 (III), the loading and unloading of explosives when once begun shall be diligently proceeded with until the same is completed.

XVII.—When the train is being marshalled, wagons loaded with explosives may be shunted by a locomotive, if they are separated from the engine by not less than three wagons containing no explosive nor easily inflammable substance. This precaution is not necessary with wagons specially constructed for the carriage of explosives. The speed of these movements shall be restricted to five miles an hour; they shall be superintended by a duly authorized officer, who shall be held responsible for the observance of these orders. Flying shunts are strictly prohibited.

XVIII.—Wagons containing explosives shall be placed at the end of the train away from the locomotive, and shall be close-coupled to one another as well as to the adjoining wagons, and shall be preceded and followed by three wagons not loaded with explosives or other traffic of an inflammable nature:

Provided as follows:

(a) On the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway, wagons containing explosives and adjoining wagons need not be close-coupled to one another; and

(b) On the Nilgiri Railway only one wagon need intervene between the locomotive and wagons containing explosives.

XIX.—If the wagons employed in the transport of explosives are provided with brakes other than iron brakes, the brakes thereon shall on no account be worked while the wagons are running with a train, nor shall brakes, other than iron brakes, on vehicle immediately adjoining such wagons, be worked while such wagons are so running.

XX.—Wagons shall in every case be locked when loaded with explosives.

XXI.—All operations connected with the transhipment of explosives at junction stations shall take place during daylight.

14. Whoever commits a breach of any of the foregoing rules relating to the mode of conveyance of explosives shall be punishable with a fine which may extend to Rs. 100. Penalty.

IMPORTATION.

15. Subject to the following provisos, an explosive shall not be imported by sea or land into British India, except under and in accordance with the conditions of a license to import the explosive: License when required for importation.

Provided that explosives may be imported by sea, previous to the grant of an importation license, in accordance with Rules I, II, III, and IV of this rule.

I.—Any explosive other than an explosive specified in Rule 18 may, previously to the grant of license to import, if it is included in a list published under clause (l) of Rule 9 and for the time being in force, and if it is certified to be of British manufacture or, if not of British manufacture, if it is imported from the United Kingdom and covered by the certificate granted by one of His Majesty's Inspectors of Explosives in England, be landed in accordance with such regulations as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf and be stored in a place set apart by the Local Government for this purpose, or in any private magazine declared by the Local Government to be suitable therefor.

II.—Any such explosive of British manufacture may also be transported by rail to any such private magazines previously to the grant of a license to import.

III.—The Governor-General in Council may extend to any such explosive not of British manufacture regarding which he is satisfied that it has been manufactured under adequate official supervision the privilege of landing granted by Rule I, but such explosive may not be transported by rail until an importation license has been granted.

IV. Before any explosive is landed under Rules I and III, the consignee shall give to the Chief Customs Officer of the port such undertaking, with or without security, as the said officer thinks sufficient, to obey, in the event of the explosive failing to satisfy the prescribed tests, such directions as to its disposal as the Local Government may see fit to prescribe.

If samples are taken, the procedure shall be that described in Rule 23.

Provided, also, that explosives of British manufacture may be imported by land, previous to the grant of an importation license, in accordance with Rules V and VI of this rule.

V.—Explosives (except those specified in Rule 18) included in a list published under Rule 9 (l), and certified to be of British manufacture, may, previously to the grant of a license, be imported and conveyed, under such conditions as the Local Government may prescribe, to a magazine appointed in this behalf by the Local Government.

VI.—Before an explosive is imported under Rule V, the consignee shall give to the Magistrate of the district in which the magazine appointed under Rule V is situate, or to the Commissioner of Police if such magazine is situate in a Presidency town or Rangoon, such notice of his intention to import the explosive as the Local Government may prescribe; and shall give such undertaking, with or without security, as the said District Magistrate or Commissioner of Police may require, that he will, in the event of the explosive failing to satisfy the prescribed tests, comply with such directions as to its disposal as the Local Government may issue.

If samples are taken, the procedure laid down in Rule 24 shall be followed.

Penalty.

16. Whoever imports an explosive in contravention of Rule 15 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to three thousand rupees.

Ports at which importation is lawful.

17. An explosive shall not be imported by sea except at one of the ports of Calcutta (including Moyapur and Diamond Harbour), Madras, Bombay, Rangoon, Calicut, Karachi, Aden and (in the case of crackers only) Negapatam and Moulmein. But a license to import an explosive by sea from Rangoon into the port of Akyab, Sandoway, Kyouk Phyoo, Tavoy, Mergui or Victoria Point as the case may be, may be granted by the Magistrate of the district in which such port is situated. The fee payable in respect of each such license shall be one rupee, and the license shall be in Form A in the schedule hereto annexed.

Grant of licenses for importation in certain cases

18. If the explosive is gunpowder or an explosive of the 1st division of the 6th (Ammunition) class or of the 7th (Firework) class, the license to import the same may be granted,—

(a) if the importation is by sea, by the Commissioner of Police of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon, or the District Magistrate of Calicut, Karachi, Aden, Negapatam or Moulmein as the case may be, and

(b) if the importation is by land, by the officer appointed to grant licenses under Rule 21.

Fees for licenses granted under Rule 18.

19. The fee payable in respect of each such license shall be Rs. 10; but if any explosive imported under a license into a British port is exported thence to another British port named in Rule 17, the necessary license for such re-import may be granted on payment of a fee of one rupee instead of Rs. 10.

Grant of licenses for importation by sea in cases not provided for by Rule 18.

20. Licenses for the importation by sea of any explosives other than those specified in Rule 18 shall be granted by the Local Government or by some officer specially authorized by the Local Government in this behalf.

Grant of licenses for importation by land and fees for such licenses.

21. Licenses for the importation of explosives into British India by land shall be granted by the Magistrate of the district to which the explosives are consigned, or, if the explosives are consigned to a Presidency town, or Rangoon, by the Commissioner of Police. The fee payable in respect of each such license shall be Rs. 10

Conditions for granting licenses under Rule 20.

22. No license shall be granted for the importation of any explosives of the description referred to in Rule 20 unless—

(a) it is an explosive authorized for manufacture in, or importation into, the United Kingdom for general sale,

(b) its importation is recommended by the Chief Inspector of Explosives with the Government of India, and

(c) if it is an explosive for which a test or examination has been prescribed by or under the orders of the Government of India, samples of it taken as herein after provided are certified by the Chemical Examiner or some other officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf to have passed the test or examination from time to time prescribed.

Testing of importations by sea in certain cases.

23. On the arrival in any port at which the importation of explosives is lawful of a ship having on board an explosive other than an explosive of the description referred to in Rule 18, such officer as the Chief Customs Officer authorizes in this behalf shall, as soon as may be, proceed on board and shall, if testing or examination is requisite under the last preceding rule, obtain samples of the explosive.

All explosives of which samples are taken for examination shall forthwith be deposited in a place or magazine set apart or notified under Rule 15-I, and shall not be distributed for use until the importer has received from the licensing authority notice that it may be so distributed.

The master of the ship shall give to the said officer, without charge, such samples as he may require. The said officer shall affix to each such sample the name of the ship and of the consignee and such other distinguishing marks as he may think necessary, and shall forward the same to the Chemical Examiner or officer, as aforesaid, for report.

The Chemical Examiner or officer as aforesaid, after testing the said samples, shall without delay forward to the licensing authority, through the Chief Customs Officer, a report under his signature certifying whether the explosive has satisfied the prescribed test.

Testing of importations by land in certain cases

24. When an explosive imported by land has been conveyed to, and deposited in, the magazine referred to in Rule 15-V, the person owning or being in charge of such magazine shall forthwith, if the testing or examination of the explosive is required by Rule 22, deliver free of charge to such officer or person as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf such samples as he may require. No explosive of which a sample has been so taken shall be removed to its destination or distributed for use until the importer or the person in charge of the magazine has received from the licensing authority a notice that it may be so removed or distributed.

The officer or person appointed as aforesaid shall affix to the sample received by him the name of the consignee and such other distinguishing marks as he may think necessary, and shall forward the sample for report to the Chemical Examiner or other officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf.

The Chemical Examiner or such other officer as aforesaid shall, after testing the sample, without delay forward to the licensing authority, through the officer or person from whom he received the sample, a report under his signature certifying whether the prescribed test has been satisfied.

Re-importation from one prescribed port into another.

25. Explosives, other than those referred to in Rule 18, which have already undergone the test prescribed by Rules 22 and 23 at the Ports of Calcutta (including Moyapur and Diamond Harbour), Madras, Bombay, Rangoon, Calicut, Karachi or Aden, may be re-imported by sea into any other of those ports under a license granted under Rule 20 without re-testing, but subject, in the case of such explosives as are mentioned in Rule 13, Clause IX, to the production of the certificate prescribed in that clause.

Such certificate shall be valid for six months after date, if the examination has been made between the 15th October and 31st March; but in the case of dynamite, a fresh certificate may be demanded if the consignment is imported between the 1st April and 15th October (both inclusive).

Duration of license granted under Rules 20 and 21.

26. The period for which a license to import an explosive, granted under Rules 20 and 21 shall continue in force, shall not exceed such period as may seem necessary to the authority granting the license.

Fees for licenses granted under Rule 20.

27. The fee payable on a license granted under Rule 20 shall be Rs. 10, but if any explosive imported under a license into a British port is exported thence to another British port named in Rule 17, the necessary license for such re-import may be granted on payment of a fee of one rupee instead of Rs. 10.

Form of license under Rules 18, 20 and 21.

28. Every license granted under Rules 18, 20 and 21 shall be in Form A in the Schedule hereto annexed, and shall be subject to the conditions therein prescribed, and also to such additional conditions with respect to the time and place of unloading, landing, delivery and conveyance of the explosive, and such other conditions as may in each case be thought by the licensing officer to be necessary for the public safety or in the interest of the State.

Penalty.

29. Whoever commits a breach of any condition, subject to which a license under Rules 18, 20 and 21 is granted, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to three thousand rupees.

Powers of inspection, search, seizure, etc.

30. (1) Any of the officers mentioned in clause (2) of this rule may, within the areas respectively specified in that clause, but subject to the provisions of the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878), and of any rules for the time being in force thereunder, in cases to which that Act applies—

(a) enter, inspect and examine any carriage or vessel in which an explosive is being transported or imported under a license granted under these rules or any prior rules made under the Indian Explosives Act, 1884 (IV of 1884), or in which he has reason to believe that an explosive has been or is being transported or imported in contravention of the said rules or Act, and may enter, inspect and examine any magazine or place in which explosives are stored under the provisions of rule 15;

(b) search for explosives in any such carriage, vessel, magazine or place,

(c) take samples of any explosives found therein, on payment of the value thereof if payment can be made at the time the samples are taken; and

(d) seize, detain, remove and, if necessary, destroy or otherwise render harmless any explosive found therein in respect of which he has reason to believe that any of the provisions of the said rules or Act have been contravened.

(2) The officers and areas referred to in clause (1) of this rule are.

Officers.	Areas.
The Chief Inspector and Inspectors of Explosives.	In all parts of British India.
All District Magistrates.	Within their respective districts.
All Magistrates subordinate to the District Magistrate.	Within the areas respectively subject to their jurisdiction.
The Commissioner of Police, and all Police-officers of rank not below that of Inspector, if specially deputed in this behalf by the Commissioner of Police.	In Presidency towns and Rangoon.
All Police officers of rank not below that of Inspector.	Within the respective areas over which their authority extends.

(3) Whenever the Chief Inspector or an Inspector of Explosives, or any Magistrate subordinate to the District Magistrate, or any Police officer seizes, detains or removes any explosive under this rule, he shall report the fact to the District Magistrate or (in a Presidency town or its suburbs or in Rangoon) the Commissioner of Police.

(4) Neither the Chief Inspector, nor an Inspector of Explosives, nor any Magistrate subordinate to the District Magistrate, nor any Police officer shall under these rules destroy or otherwise render harmless any explosive without the previous sanction of the District Magistrate or (in a Presidency town or its suburbs or in Rangoon) the Commissioner of Police unless the matter appears urgent and fraught with serious public danger.

(5) Whenever any officer, destroys any explosive or otherwise renders it harmless, he shall take and keep a sample thereof, and shall, if required, give a portion of the sample to the person owning the explosives or having the same under his control at the time of seizure; and, whenever any officer other than the District Magistrate or Commissioner of Police so deals with any explosive, he shall report the circumstances to the District Magistrate or (in a Presidency town or its suburbs or in Rangoon) the Commissioner of Police.

GENERAL.

Forfeiture of licenses.

31. Every license granted under these rules shall be liable to be forfeited on breach of any of the conditions subject to which it is granted.

Exemption from penalties of persons carrying on business of deceased or disabled licensee.

32. If a person licensed to import an explosive dies or becomes bankrupt or becomes mentally incapable or otherwise disabled, the person carrying on the business of such licensee shall not be liable to any penalty or forfeiture under the Indian Explosives Act, 1884 (IV of 1884), or the rules thereunder for acting under the license during such reasonable time as may be necessary to allow him to make an application to the authority granting the license for a new license in his own name during the currency of the unexpired portion of the original license. Such new license shall be granted on payment of one rupee.

Method of levying fees.

33. All fees chargeable for licenses under these rules shall ordinarily be levied by means of impressed stamps. An application for the grant or the renewal of a license shall bear the proper stamp: provided that, if it is refused, the value of the separate stamp (if any) which may have been already provided by the applicant for the desired license or renewed license, minus the deductions prescribed by section 54 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 (II of 1899), may be refunded to the applicant. An application should not be made on the stamped paper intended for the license or renewed license; but where this has been wrongly done, the value of the stamp may be refunded minus

(i) the value of the stamp which should have been affixed to the application, and (ii) the deductions prescribed as aforesaid.

Where the fees leviable under these rules have been made over to any local body, the fees shall be paid in such manner as that local authority may from time to time direct.

Grant of duplicate licenses.

34. When a license granted in accordance with these rules is lost, or accidentally destroyed, a duplicate may be granted to the licensee on payment of a fee of 8 annas.

Production of licenses.

35. Any person holding a license, or acting under a license granted in accordance with these rules shall be bound to produce the same when called upon to do so by any Magistrate, or by any Police officer in charge of a police-station, or by any Police officer of higher rank.

Control over officers.

36. All Magistrates or other authorities acting under these rules shall perform their duties subject to the control of their executive superiors and of the Local Government.

Power to extend effect of license

37. Any authority empowered to grant a license under the foregoing rules may, if he thinks fit, direct by an order written on the license that it shall have the effect of a like license under the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878).

Importation without license.

38. Any persons lawfully entitled under the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878), or the rules thereunder, to possess any explosive coming under the head of ammunition, as defined in that Act, may import without license under these rules any such explosive in such quantities as may be prescribed by that Act or the rules thereunder, or when no quantities are prescribed, in reasonable quantities for his own private use; but when an explosive is so imported, the Collector of Customs or any other officer empowered by the Local Government in this behalf by name or by virtue of his office may at any time detain such explosive until he receives the orders of the Local Government thereon.

CONDITIONS.

1. This license is given subject to the provisions of the Indian Explosives Act, 1884 (IV of 1884), and the rules thereunder. Certain general rules are quoted separately below.

2. This license shall become void after expiry of the period named thereon.

3. This license is valid for importation only; if the articles named herein are to be transported to any place outside the Presidency town / *town of, they must be protected by a transport license, to be issued in accordance with the rules under the Indian Arms Act, 1878 (XI of 1878), except in the case of explosives despatched to places or magazines set apart or notified under the proviso to Rule 15.

4. On the outside of each package there shall be affixed in conspicuous characters by means of a brand or securely attached label or mark the word "Explosive," followed by the name of the explosive or other description of the contents and the name and address of the owners or senders.

GENERAL RULES.

Forfeiture of license.

31. Every license granted under these rules shall be liable to be forfeited on breach of any of the conditions subject to which it is granted.

Exemption from penalties of persons carrying on business of deceased or disabled licensees.

32. If a person licensed to import an explosive dies or becomes bankrupt or becomes mentally incapable or otherwise disabled, the person carrying on the business of such licensee shall not be liable to any penalty or forfeiture under the Indian Explosives Act, 1884 (IV of 1884), or the rules thereunder for acting under the license during such reasonable time as may be necessary to allow him to make an application to the authority granting the license for a new license in his own name during the currency of the unexpired portion of the original license. Such new license shall be granted on the payment of one rupee.

*NOTE.—In the case of explosives imported into a town other than a Presidency town as defined in the General Clauses Act, 1897 (X of 1897), section 3, clause (41), the name of the town should be inserted.

Method of levying fees.

33. All fees chargeable for licenses under these rules shall ordinarily be levied by means of impressed stamps. An application for the grant or the renewal of a license shall bear the proper stamp: provided that, if it is refused, the value of the separate stamp (if any) which may have been already provided by the applicant for the desired license or renewed license, minus the deductions prescribed by section 54 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 (II of 1899), may be refunded to the applicant. An application should not be made on the stamped paper intended for the license or renewed license; but where this has been wrongly done, the value of the stamp may be refunded minus—

Where the fees leviable under these rules have been made over to any local body, the fees shall be paid in such manner as that local authority may from time to time direct.

Grant of duplicate licenses.

34. When a license granted in accordance with these rules is lost, or accidentally destroyed, a duplicate may be granted to the licensee on payment of a fee of 8 annas.

Production of licenses.

35. Any person holding a license, or acting under a license granted in accordance with these Rules, shall be bound to produce the same when called upon to do so by any Magistrate, or by any Police officer in charge of a Police-station, or by any Police officer of higher rank.

Rule for Testing Explosives.

With reference to Rule 22 of the Rules to regulate the transport and importation of explosives published with this Notification, and in supersession of the Notification of the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 5529 (Public), dated the 11th October 1901, the Governor General in Council is pleased to make the following rule on the subject of the tests which explosives should be required to pass before their importation is permitted.

RULE.

Class 1—Gunpowder class.—Gunpowder is not required to pass a test.

Class 2—Nitrate-mixture class.—Nitrate-mixture explosives are not ordinarily required to pass a test. The Local Government, however, or the authorised officer granting the import license under Rules 20 and 21 of the Rules to regulate the transport and importation of explosives published with this Notification may, in any particular case or class of cases, require that a sample of the explosive which is to be imported be sent first to the Chemical Examiner for an analysis of its constituent parts.

Class 3—Nitro-compound class.—It is for explosives of this class that testing is chiefly required in respect to the purity of their composition and their liability to liquefaction or exudation. The tests prescribed for nitro-compound explosives are contained in Schedule A attached to this rule.

Class 4—Chlorate-mixture class.—See Schedule A for remarks regarding the testing of this class.*

Class 5—Fulminate class.—No test has been laid down for explosives of the Fulminate class.*

Class 6—Ammunition class.—No test is required for explosives of the 1st Division of this class. If the substances of which explosives of the 2nd and 3rd Divisions are composed have to be tested under the preceding rules, they will be equally liable to be tested when enclosed in any case or contrivance and thus falling under the Ammunition class.

Class 7—Firework class.—Explosives of this class are not required to pass a test.

SCHEDULE A.

Heat Test as applied to Explosives of the Nitro-compound Class.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS.

Apparatus required.

1. A water bath consisting of a spherical glass or copper vessel [(a) Fig. 1] of about 8 inches diameter, and with an aperture of about 5 inches; the bath is filled with water to within a quarter of an inch of the edge. It has a loose cover of sheet copper about 6 inches in diameter (b), and rests on a tripod stand about 14 inches high (c), which is covered with coarse iron wire gauze (e), and is surrounded with a screen of thin sheet tin or copper (d). Within the latter is placed an Argand burner (f), with glass chimney. The cover (b) has four holes arranged as seen in Fig. II, No. 4 to receive the regulator, No. 3 the thermometer. Nos. 1 and 2 the test-tubes containing the guncotton or other materials to be tested. Around holes 1 and 2 on the under side of the cover are soldered three pieces of brass wire with points slightly converging (Fig. III.); these act as springs and allow the test-tubes to be easily placed in position and removed—

* Licenses are not at present given for the importation into British India of any explosives of these classes.

* 2. Scheibler's or Page's temperature regulator.

* 3. Two cells of Le Clanché's battery No. 1 } if Scheibler's regulator is used.

* 4. A few yards of insulated copper wire }

5. Test-tubes from 6½ to 6¾ inches long, and of such diameter that they will hold from 20 to 22 cubic centimetres of water when filled to a height of 5 inches.

6. India-rubber stoppers, fitting the test-tubes and carrying an arrangement for holding the test-paper, viz., a narrow glass tube passing through the centre of the stopper, drawn out so as to form a hook, or terminating in a platinum wire hook (Fig. IV).

7. A thermometer, with range not less than from 30° to 212° Fahrenheit.

8. A minute clock.

Materials required.

(a) Test-paper.—The test-paper is prepared as follows:—45 grains of white maize starch (cornflour), previously washed with cold water, are added to 8½ ounces of distilled water, the mixture is stirred, heated to boiling, and kept gently boiling for 10 minutes; 15 grains of pure potassium iodide (i.e., which has been re-crystallized from alcohol) are dissolved in 8½ ounces of distilled water. The two solutions are thoroughly mixed and allowed to get cold. Strips, or sheets, of best white English filter paper, weighing, air dry, from 4·1 to 4·6 grammes per 100 square inches previously washed with water and re-dried, are dipped into the solution thus prepared, weighing, air dry, about 6·5 grammes per 100 square inches, and allowed to remain in it for not less than 10 seconds; they are then allowed to drain and dry in a place free from laboratory fumes and dust. The upper and lower margins of the strips, or sheets, are cut off, and the paper is preserved in well-stoppered or cork bottles and in the dark.† The dimensions of the pieces of test-paper used are about $\frac{1}{16}$ inch by $\frac{2}{10}$ inch (10 mm. by 30 mm.).

* This is not absolutely required, as the temperature of the bath can be kept constant by proper attention to the heating flame.

† When a paper is freshly prepared, and as long as it remains in good condition, a drop of dilute acetic acid, put on the paper with a glass rod, produces no coloration. In process of time, however, the stronger the light to which the paper is exposed, the sooner a drop of acid produces a brown or bluish coloration (a single hour of direct sunlight produces a marked effect), and whenever this is the case the paper should be rejected. After preparation the paper should be kept in the dark for a month before being taken into use. After that, if carefully kept in the dark, it will remain good for six months or more, but should be tested from time to time as above.

(b) Standard tint paper.—A solution of caramel in water is made of such concentration that when diluted one hundred times (10 cc. made up to 1 litre) the tint of this diluted solution equals the tint produced by the Nessler test in 100 cc. water containing 0·000075 grm. of ammonia or 0·00023505 grm. of chloride of ammonium. With this caramel solution lines are drawn on strips of white filter paper* by means of a clean quill pen. When the marks thus produced are dry the paper is cut into pieces of the same size as the test-paper previously described, in such a way that each piece has a brown line across it near the middle of its length, and only such strips are preserved in which the brown line has a breadth varying from ½ mm. to 1 mm. ($\frac{1}{50}$ of an inch to $\frac{1}{25}$ of an inch).

I.—Testing Dynamite, Blasting Gelatine, and other Explosives of the First Division of the Nitro-compound class.

A. Dynamite, etc., etc.

Nitro-glycerine preparations, from which the nitro-glycerine can be extracted in the manner described below, must satisfy the following test

This test, however, though at present looked upon as the most important, as far as testing the purity of the nitro-glycerine is concerned, is in England only one of several which any given sample of nitro-glycerine preparation has to satisfy in order to establish its compliance with the definition in the Authorized List.

Apparatus required.

A funnel 2 inches across (d), a cylindrical measure divided into grains (e). (See sketch.)

Mode of operation.

About 300 to 400 grains of dynamite (b) finely divided are placed into the funnel which has previously been loosely plugged by some freshly-ignited asbestos (a).

The surface is smoothed by means of a flat-headed glass rod or stopper, and some clean washed and dried Kieselguhr (c) is spread over it to the depth of about ⅛ inch.

Water is next carefully dropped from a wash bottle upon this Kieselguhr, and when the first portion has been soaked up more is added; this is repeated until sufficient nitro-glycerine has been collected in the graduated measure (e) below.

If any water should have passed through with the nitro-glycerine, it should be removed with a piece of blotting paper, and the nitro-glycerine, if necessary, filtered through a dry paper filter.

Application of the Test.

The thermometer is fixed so as to be inserted through the lid of the water bath described under I into the water (which is to be steadily maintained at a temperature of 160° Fahr.†) to a depth of 2¾ inches. Fifty grains of nitro-glycerine to be tested are weighed into a test-tube in such a way as not to soil the sides of the tube. A test-paper

* This paper must be carefully washed with distilled water in the first instance to remove any traces of bleaching matter, and dried.

† For explosives supplied for His Majesty's Military and Naval Services the temperature is fixed by the War Office at 180°.

is fixed on the hook of the glass rod so that when inserted into the tube it will be in a vertical position. A sufficient amount of a mixture of half distilled water and half glycerine to moisten the upper half of the paper is now applied to the upper edge of the test-paper by means of a camel's hair pencil, the cork carrying the rod and paper is fixed into the test-tube and the position of the paper adjusted, so that its lower edge is about half-way down the tube; the latter is then inserted through one of the perforations of the cover to such a depth that the lower margin of the moistened part of the paper is about five-eighths of an inch above the surface of the cover. The test is complete when the faint brown line, which after a time makes its appearance at the line of boundary between the dry and moist part of the paper, equals in tint the brown line of the standard tint paper.

The nitro-glycerine under examination will not be considered to have satisfied the test unless the time necessary to produce the standard tint as above described is at least 15 minutes.

B.—Blasting Gelatine, Gelatine Dynamite, and Analogous Preparations.

Fifty (50) grains of blasting gelatine are to be intimately incorporated with one hundred (100) grains of French chalk. The mixture is to be gradually introduced into a test-tube of the dimensions prescribed above for the dynamite heat test, with the aid of gentle tapping upon the table, between the introduction of successive portions of the mixture into the tube, so that when the tube contains all the mixture it shall be filled to the extent of 1¾ inches (one inch and three quarters) of its height. The test-paper is then to be inserted and the heat is to be applied in the manner prescribed above for the dynamite heat test, and the sample tested is to withstand exposure to 160° Fahr. for a period of ten (10) minutes, before producing a discoloration of the test-papers corresponding in tint to the standard colour test which is employed for governing the results of the dynamite heat test.

(For Exudation and Liquefaction test for Blasting Gelatine, etc., etc, see Appendix.)

N.B.—Non-gelatinized nitro-glycerine preparations from which the nitro-glycerine cannot be expelled by water, are tested without any previous separation of the ingredients, the temperature being as above (160° Fahr.) and the time being seven (7) minutes.

C.—Cordite and Ballistite.

1. Apparatus required.

The apparatus necessary for the application of the heat test to cordite is identical with that described above for explosives of the nitro-compound class generally† with the addition of mill and a nest of sieves‡ similar to those used at Waltham Abbey for preparing the cordite for testing (see instructions below).

2. Preparation of the sample to be tested.

Pieces half an inch long are cut from one end of every stick selected for the test; in the case of the thicker cordites, each piece so cut is further subdivided into about four portions. These cut pieces are then passed once through the mill, the first portion of material which passes through being rejected on account of the possible presence of foreign matter from the mill. The ground material is put on the top sieve of the nest of sieves and sifted. The portion which has passed through the top sieve and been stopped by the second is taken for the test. If the mill is properly set, the greater portion of the ground material will be of the proper size.

If the volatile matter in the explosive exceed 0·5 per cent., the sifted material should be dried at a temperature not exceeding 140° Fahr. until the proportion does not exceed 0·5 per cent.

* This can be readily effected by carefully working the two materials together with a wooden pestle in a wooden mortar.

The French chalk should be of good commercial quality, and, after being carefully washed with distilled water and dried in a water oven, it should be exposed under a bell jar to moist air until it has taken up about 0·5 per cent of moisture It should then be bottled for use; and with ordinary care the limit of 0·5 per cent. can be maintained in keeping.

† In the Waltham Abbey apparatus the cover (Fig. II) has all the holes around the circumference instead of having one in the centre and three around the circumference

‡ A nest of two sieves with the holes drilled in sheet copper. The holes in the top sieve have a diameter = 14 B. W. G. those in the second = 21 B. W. G.

If too hard for the mill, it may be softened by exposure to the vapour of acetone, or reduced to the necessary degree of subdivision by means of a sharp moderately coarse rasp. Should it have become too soft in the acetone vapour for the mill, it should be cut up into small pieces which may be brought to any desired degree of hardness by simple exposure to air.

Explosives which consist partly of gelatinized collodion cotton and partly of ungelatinized guncotton are best reduced to powder by a rasp, or softened by exposure to mixed æther and alcohol vapour at a temperature of 90° to 100° Fahr

After each sample has been ground, the mill must be taken to pieces and carefully cleaned.

3. Application of the Test.

The thermometer is fixed so as to be inserted through the lid of the water bath described under 1, so as to be immersed in the water to a depth of 2¾ inches. The water is maintained at a constant temperature of 180° Fahr. When this temperature is reached 25 grains of the sifted cordite are put into one of the test-tubes, and collected at the bottom by gentle tapping. A test-paper is fixed on to the hook of the glass rod, so that when inserted into the tube it will be in a vertical position. A mixture of equal parts of distilled water and pure glycerine (Price's) is now applied to the upper edge of the test-paper by means of a camel's hair pencil, in sufficient amount to moisten the upper half; the stopper carrying the rod and paper is fixed into the test-tube and the position of the paper adjusted so that its lower edge is about half-way down the tube; the latter is then inserted through one of the perforations of the cover to the same depth as the thermometer. The lower margin of the moistened part of the paper should then be about five-eighths of an inch above the surface of the cover. The test is completed when the faint brown line, which after a time makes its appearance at the margin between the wet and dry portions of the test-papers, equal in depth of tint the brown line drawn on the standard tint paper.

4. The time which elapses between the insertion of the test-tube and the completion of the test must not be less than 15 minutes.

N.B.—In the case of ballistite the treatment is the same, except that when it is in a very finely granulated condition it need not be cut up.

II.—Testing Guncotton, Schultz's Gunpowder, E. C. Powder, and other explosives of the 2nd Division of the Nitro-compound class.

A.—Compressed Nitro-Cellulose, Tonite, etc., etc.

Sufficient material to serve for two or more tests is removed from the centre of the cartridge by gentle scraping, and, if necessary, further reduced by rubbing through a sieve with a clean hard brush.

The fine powder thus produced is spread out in a thin layer upon a paper tray 6 inches by 4½ inches, which is then placed outside a water oven, kept, as nearly as possible, at 120° Fahr.

The wire gauze shelves in the oven should be about 3 inches apart. The sample is allowed to remain at rest for 15 minutes in the oven, the door of which is left wide open

After the lapse of 15 minutes the tray is removed and exposed to the air of the room for two hours, the sample being at some point within that time rubbed upon the tray with a brush, in order to reduce it to a fine and uniform state of division.

Application of the Test.

The cover of the water bath is fitted with the gas regulator which is inserted through the centre hole (No. 4). The thermometer is fixed into hole No. 3. The water in the bath is then heated to 170° Fahr. and the regulator set to maintain that temperature. Twenty grains of the sample to be tested are weighed out, placed in the test-tube, and gently pressed down until the specimen occupies a space of not more than 1 $\frac{6}{10}$ inches in a test-tube of the dimensions specified. A test-paper is affixed to the hook of the glass rod or tube, and moistened by touching the upper edge with a drop of distilled water containing 50 per cent. of Price's glycerine. The quantity of liquid used must be only sufficient to moisten about half of the paper. The cork carrying the rod and test-paper is then fixed into the test-tube, and the latter inserted into a bath to a depth of 2½ inches measured from the cover, the regulator and thermometer being inserted to the same depth. The test-paper is to be kept near the top of the test-tube, but clear of the cork, until the tube has been immersed for about five minutes. A ring of moisture will about this time be deposited upon the sides of the test-tube a little above the cover of the bath; the glass rod must then be lowered until the lower margin of the moistened part of the paper is on a level with the bottom of the ring of moisture in the tube; the paper is now closely watched. The test is complete when the faint brown line which makes its appearance at the line of boundary between the dry and moist parts of the paper equals in tint the brown line of the standard tint-paper.

The interval of time between the first insertion of the tube containing the sample of guncotton in the water at 170° and the production of the standard tint constitutes the test, and this interval of time must be not less than 10 minutes, or the sample will not be considered to have satisfied the test.

B.—GELATINIZED AND SEMI-GELATINIZED NITRO-CELLULOSE PREPARATIONS.

Twenty-five grains introduced into the test-tube* of the dimensions prescribed for the dynamite heat test, then proceed as for Blasting Gelatine, etc., taking the temperature at 180° Fahr. and the time as 15 minutes.

C.—NITRO-CELLULOSE NOT INCLUDED IN A OR B, SCHULTZ'S POWDER, E. C. POWDER, ETC., ETC.

Sufficient of the sample, without further mechanical division, is dried in the oven as above, and then exposed for two hours to the air. The test as directed above for Compressed Nitro-Cellulose, etc., is then applied, the minimum duration of test being the same, viz., 10 minutes.

D.—PICRIC ACID.

(1) The material shall contain not more than 0·3 part of mineral or non-combustible matter in 100 parts by weight of the material dried at 160° Fahr.

(2) It should not contain more than a minute trace of lead.

(3) One hundred parts of the dry material shall not contain more than 0·3 part of total (free and combined) sulphuric acid, of which not more than 0·1 part shall be free sulphuric acid.

(4) Its melting point should be between 248° and 253° Fahr.

E.—AMMONITE, BELLITE, ROBURITE, AND EXPLOSIVES OF SIMILAR COMPOSITION.

These are required to stand the same heat test as Compressed Nitro-Cellulose.

III.—Testing Chlorate Mixtures.

The material must not be too sensitive† and must show no tendency to increase in sensitiveness on keeping.

The material must contain nothing liable to reduce the chlorate.

Chlorides calculated as Potassium Chloride must not exceed 0·25 per cent.

The material must contain no free acid or substance liable to produce free acid.

Explosives of this class containing nitro-compounds will be subject to the heat test as if they belonged to Class III.

APPENDIX.

Exudation and Liquefaction Test for Blasting Gelatine, Gelatine Dynamite and analogous Preparations.

TEST FOR LIQUEFACTION.

A cylinder of blasting gelatine is to be cut from the cartridge to be tested, the length of the cylinder to be about equal to its diameter and the ends being cut flat.

The cylinder is to be placed on end on a flat surface without any wrapper, and secured by a pin passing vertically through its centre.

In this condition the cylinder is to be exposed for one hundred and forty-four (144) consecutive hours (six days and nights) to a temperature ranging from 85° to 90° Fahr. (inclusive), and during such exposure the cylinder shall not diminish in height by more than one-fourth of its original height, and the upper cut surface shall retain its flatness and the sharpness of its edge.

NOTE.—If the blasting gelatine and the gelatine dynamite to be tested be not made up in a cylindrical form, the above test is to be applied with the necessary modifications.

TEST FOR LIABILITY TO EXUDATION.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt: and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Calcutta, or

the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or

the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or the Otrator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad.

Semaphore anchorage—Sunken wrecks of the "Norma" and "Jessie Darling."

No. 269 (second publication).—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 225, dated 18th May 1907, issued by this office, the President of the Marine Board, Port Adelaide, has given further notice (No. 2 of 1907) that the sunken wrecks of the Norma and Jessie Darling are lying in a position with the Light-house on Wonga Shoal bearing East, distant one and a half miles, and the structure of the Old Light-house with fixed light bearing N.E., distant three miles approximately.

Until the obstructions are removed, or further notice is given, the S.S. Argyle will be moored to mark the danger S.S.W. 600 ft. from the wreck, and will show the following signals:—

By day.—Three balls on a yard 20ft above the sea, two placed vertically at one end and one at the other, the single ball being on the side nearest the wreck.

By Night.—Three white lights similarly arranged, but not the ordinary riding light.

In addition to the wreck-marking vessel mentioned above, a large conical-shaped buoy painted green, with the word "WRECK" in white letters, from which is exhibited a green occulting light, will be moored close to the south side of the abovementioned wrecks.

During the time that the wreck-marking vessel is anchored near the wrecks the pilot on turn will, from sunset to sunrise, be stationed with the launch at the wreck-marking vessel, instead of at the Signal station, and will from there proceed to carry out his duties.

Both the marks mentioned should be given a wide berth by vessels navigating the vicinity.

GENERAL SUMMARY.—There was moderate rain in Murshidabad, Jessore, Darjeeling and Cooch Behar, light rain in Burdwan. Midnapore, Hooghly, Howrah, Khulna, the Sonthal Parganas, Balasore, Angul and Sambalpur, and practically no rain in Bihar. Preparation of lands for the next season's crops has not yet been completed. Sowing of jute is reported to be finished in Purnea. It is still going on in other jute-growing districts. Rain is wanted in most districts of the Burdwan Division and also in the 24-Parganas, Murshidabad, Saran, Champaran, Bhagalpur, the Sonthal Parganas and Balasore. In Darbhanga the number of persons on gratuitous relief is 11,403, on test-works 2,706, and on famine-relief works 21,726. Cattle-disease exists in eight districts. Fodder is reported to be insufficient in parts of Nadia and Manbhum. The water-supply is sufficient everywhere except in Jheria in the district of Manbhum. Cholera is prevalent in Palamau. The price of common rice has risen in nine and fallen in three districts and has remained stationary in the remaining twenty-two districts.

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; g, dark gloomy; t, thunder; ≤, lightning; K, thunderstorm; ⚡, strong wind; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers.

DECLARATION.

No. 1403J.D.—The 17th June 1907.—Whereas certain land was acquired by the Bengal Government, under the provisions of Act I of 1894 and Act XVIII of 1885, for a public purpose, viz., for the No. 2 assisted siding off the Bhaga branch of the East Indian Railway, the Bhaga branch taking off the Damuda branch at mile 176 3 furlongs and 200 feet, and whereas coal-mines are situate under the said land, and whereas the Lodna Colliery Company, Limited, have given notice to the Government of Bengal, in accordance with the provisions of Act XVIII of 1885, that the said Company intend to work the seam known as "C" seam, and whereas the mines have been inspected by the officer appointed by the Bengal Government for the purpose under section 5 (1) of Act XVIII of 1885, and whereas it appears to the Bengal Government that the working out of the coal of the mines underlying the said land is likely to cause damage to the surface of the said land and to the works constructed thereon, and whereas the said Lodna Colliery Company, Limited, have agreed not to work and get minerals underlying the land acquired for their siding, or underlying the land acquired for the branch or other lines with which the siding is connected or underlying the land of the branch or branches connecting the said siding with the main line, in such a manner as to injure or to endanger the safety of the undertaking or any part thereof, nor to claim any compensation for any restricted working:

Now, therefore, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal is pleased to declare, under section 5, sub-section (2), clause (b) of the abovementioned Act XVIII of 1885, that the working shall be carried on by the said Lodna Colliery Company, Limited, in the manner and subject to the restrictions below specified, viz —

The following restrictions apply only to the area bounded by lines drawn on each side of the centre line of the acquired land and not less than 50 feet from it—

(1) No gallery other than those specified in sub-paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (d) shall be driven under the acquired land in any place where the distance from the natural surface to the top of the gallery (if driven) would be less than 50 feet—

(a) The main gallery of No. 4 incline may be extended in its present direction under the acquired land.

(b) A gallery may be driven parallel to the main gallery of No. 4 incline, but not nearer to it than 80 feet, measuring from centre to centre. Other galleries may be driven parallel to these main galleries, but not nearer to either of them or to each other than 300 feet, measuring from centre to centre.

(c) None of the above-mentioned galleries shall be made more than 11 feet wide and 8 feet high.

(d) Cross-cut galleries may be driven between the parallel galleries, but shall not be nearer to each other than 120 feet, measuring from centre to centre, and shall not be made more than 8 feet high and 8 feet wide.

(2) In any place where the distance from the natural surface to the top of the gallery (if driven) would be more than 50 feet, galleries may be driven not more than 11 feet wide and 10 feet high, with centres not less than 40 feet apart, forming pillars not less than 29 feet square for the support of the acquired land.

(3) Manholes not exceeding 6 feet high, 3 feet wide and 4 feet deep may be made where required by any rule made under the Indian Mines Act, 1901, and that in all the above cases no further excavation shall be made in any of the galleries which already have been driven, the actual heights and widths of which have been carefully recorded on the plan marked L.A. M.A., No. 66, signed by the Chief Inspector of Mines.

The plan referred to may be seen in the office of the Chief Inspector of Mines in India by the parties concerned.

PATNA COLLEGE, BANKIPORE.

SESSION, 1907-1908.

THE Patna College will open on the 1st July 1907. Applications for admission should be made before this date, and as early as possible.

Applications will not, except under special circumstances, be received after the 22nd July.

Forms of application for admission may be obtained in the College office.

The office will be open daily during the vacation from 7 A.M. to 10 A.M., except on gazetted holidays.

C. RUSSELL,
Offg. Principal Patna College.

Form of Application for Admission.

I DESIRE to join the class of the Patna College, and to take up the following subjects (a)—

I desire to reside (b):—

(a) This space need only be filled in by 1st- and 3rd year students.

(b) Every student must reside either—

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt: and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Calcutta, or

the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or

the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or

the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad.

EASTERN ARCHIPELAGO—CELEBES, NORTH COAST.

Manado light—Character altered

No. 281 (first publication).—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 388, dated 12th October 1906, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 648 of 1907) that the character of Manado light, Celebes island, has been altered from a white fixed to a white group occulting light, showing groups of three eclipses every thirty seconds,

.—light, fifteen seconds; eclipse, three seconds; light, three seconds; eclipse, three seconds; light, three seconds, eclipse, three seconds. The light is of the 4th order.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts:—China Sea, No. 1263; Celebes sea, No. 2575; Eastern Archipelago, No. 942a; Molucca passage to Manila, No. 943; Manado road on sheet No. 930. Also, List of Lights, part VI, 1907, No. 559, Eastern Archipelago, Part I, 1902, page 425; Eastern Archipelago, Part II, 1904, page 393; and Supplement, 1906, page 21.

CHINA, EAST COAST—Fuchau, river Min.

Kimpai (Kinpai) pass—Regulations for.

No. 282 (first publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 665 of 1907) that vessels approaching Kimpai (Kinpai) river Min must keep a good look-out for other vessels in the vicinity, and steam vessels must give one prolonged blast with their whistle.

If two vessels going in opposite directions arrive at the pass at the same time, the vessel which has a foul tide must wait for the vessel with a fair tide to pass before attempting the passage.

Approximate position, lat. 26° 8′ N, long. 119° 85½′ E.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart:—River Min, with plan of Kinpai pass, No. 2400. Also, China Sea Directory, vol. III, 1904, page 273; and Supplement, 1907, page 61.

AUSTRALIA—Bloomfield river.

Lake's reef—Red buoy adrift.

No. 283 (first publication).—The Portmaster, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 5 of 1907) that the Red Buoy marking Lake's Reef off the Bloomfield River is away from position.

Langsar bay—Light established—Buoyage altered.

No. 262 (third publication).—With reference to notice to Mariners No. 444, dated 17th November 1906, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 596 of 1907) that a white flashing light every three seconds has been established on a white open iron framework support, 65 feet high, erected on Pulo Pasir Puti, Langsar bay, the duration of each flash being one second, the light being of the 4th order.

Approximate position, lat. 4° 32½′ N., long. 97° 59′ E.

Also, that the following alteration has been made in the buoyage of Langsar river entrance:—

(a) The white conical buoy No. 2, on the western side of the channel, has been replaced by a light-buoy, painted white and marked No. 2, exhibiting a white occulting light every twenty seconds, thus:—light, ten seconds; eclipse, ten seconds.

(b) The white conical buoy No. 3, on the western side of the channel, has been replaced by a light-buoy, painted white and marked No. 3, exhibiting a white fixed light.

(c) A light-buoy, painted black, exhibiting a white occulting light, every twenty seconds, thus:—light, ten seconds; eclipse, ten seconds, has been established off the southern coast of Pulo Telaga Tuju; it has been placed on the chart at a distance of 8½ cables N. 65° E. from the north point of Pulo Rawan.

Semaphore anchorage—Sunken wrecks of the "Norma" and "Jessie Darling."

No. 269 (third publication).—With reference to Notice to Mariners No. 225, dated 18th May 1907, issued by this office, the President of the Marine Board, Port Adelaide, has given further notice (No. 2 of 1907) that the sunken wrecks of the Norma and Jessie Darling are lying in a position with the Light-house on Wonga Shoal bearing East, distant one and a half miles, and the structure of the Old Light-house with fixed light bearing N.E., distant three miles approximately.

Until the obstructions are removed, or further notice is given, the S.S. Argyle will be moored to mark the danger S.S.W. 600 ft. from the wreck, and will show the following signals:—

By day.—Three balls on a yard 20ft above the sea, two placed vertically at one end and one at the other, the single ball being on the side nearest the wreck.

By Night.—Three white lights similarly arranged, but not the ordinary riding light.

In addition to the wreck-marking vessel mentioned above, a large conical-shaped buoy painted green, with the word "WRECK" in white letters, from which is exhibited a green occulting light, will be moored close to the south side of the abovementioned wrecks.

During the time that the wreck-marking vessel is anchored near the wrecks the pilot on turn will, from sunset to sunrise, be stationed with the launch at the wreck-marking vessel, instead of at the Signal station, and will from there proceed to carry out his duties.

Both the marks mentioned should be given a wide berth by vessels navigating the vicinity.

This affects Admiralty Charts Nos. 1752 and 2389 A & B.

The Resolution of this Government, No. 658, dated the 7th February 1905.

The Report of the Committee appointed by this Government to consider the replies received from Associations and persons consulted in regard to the Resolution last referred to.

The proceedings of the Committee appointed by this Government to consider the question of the revision of the syllabuses for rural schools.

Letter from the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, No. 86T., dated the 14th May 1906.

Letter from the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, No. 3981, dated the 2nd March 1907.

1. The question of a curriculum of studies suited to the needs and capacities of the children of agriculturists has for a considerable time been exercising the attention of both the Imperial and Local Governments. The Educational Conference held at Simla in September 1901 recommended the adoption of a simple and practical course of education for the children of the agricultural population whose studies would not proceed beyond the primary stage; and the Government of India in their letter No 468, dated the 6th November 1901, expressed it as their opinion that in all Provinces arrangements should be made to establish shorter and simpler courses for the children of agriculturists than are required for those who intend to use the primary stages of education as a preliminary only. The question of remodelling the lines on which vernacular education should be conducted engaged the attention of this Government during the years 1899 to 1901. The chief problem to be solved concerned the requirements of the agricultural population, but it was recognised that the educational question to be answered was not merely how to adapt education to the needs of the children of agriculturists, but how to fashion a scheme of education which would promote in the pupils the power of assimilating easily technical instruction of any kind. The result of these deliberations was the publication of Resolution No. 1, dated the 1st January 1901, which promulgated the syllabus of studies for Standards I to VI, which is still in force. It was stated that the syllabus referred to was based on the methods originally put forward by Froebel and generally known under the name of Kindergarten training, and that that system had been adapted to the circumstances and local conditions of the pupils of this Province. A separate syllabus was not prescribed for the children of agriculturists; but in the writing course forms of simple documents commonly used by cultivators were introduced as exercises.

2. The Government of India reverted to the subject of education in rural primary schools in their Resolution of the 11th March 1904, which reviewed the history and progress of education in India. They stated, in paragraph 21 of the Resolution, that the instruction of the masses in such subjects as would best fit them for their position in life involved some differentiation in the courses for rural schools, especially in connexion with the attempts which were being made to connect primary teaching with familiar objects. They further laid down that the aim of rural schools should be, not to impart definite agricultural teaching, but to give to the children a preliminary training which would make them intelligent cultivators, would train them to be observers, thinkers and experimenters in however humble a manner, and would protect them in their business transactions with the landlords to whom they pay rent and the grain-dealers to whom they dispose of their crops.

3. These remarks of the Government of India led the Lieutenant-Governor to refer the whole question of the education of children of agriculturists to a Committee of Government officers. This Committee found that the principal points in respect of which the rural schools of the Province were deficient were—

(a) that the courses of instruction were too long, too advanced and too diversified: and

(b) that the text-books prescribed were not written in simple language which the rural population could understand.

The Committee were of opinion that in purely agricultural tracts the existing lower primary schools should be converted into schools intended primarily for the sons of agriculturists with short courses of instruction specially suited to the needs of that class. It was not proposed that any change should be made in the instruction given in the lower classes of upper primary, middle and high schools or in lower primary schools in towns or in villages in which agriculturists did not predominate. The Committee recommended that the rural primary schools which they proposed to create should teach a course extending over four years and contain an infant class for children under seven years of age and three classes above it. The number of hours of instruction was to be reduced, but was not to be less than three. The Committee further suggested the lines on which the curriculum for the four classes proposed might proceed, and recommended that a Committee of duly qualified officers should be formed to prepare model text-books. It was proposed that the text-books should in the first place be prepared in English, and that, when Government had approved them, they should be translated into the local vernaculars.

4. These proposals were summarised in Resolution No. 658, dated the 7th February 1905, which was published for general information. Public criticism was invited and various official and non-official gentlemen and associations were consulted. All the material collected was then discussed by a Committee of officials and others interested in education. This Committee did not altogether agree with the proposals made by the previous Committee. What they proposed was that the lower primary course, slightly modified, should be divided into two sections—the one to consist mainly of the "three R's" and the teaching of simple facts relating to agriculture and village life, and the other to be directed to the study of such additional matters as the training of the senses, drawing, drill and manual exercises. The first section, it was proposed, should be so arranged as to provide for imparting the rudiments of sound education to all, including the children of agriculturists, while the other would be taken up by those who aspired to a higher education. The second section was in fact to be supplementary of the first and was intended to bring the curriculum of a rural school taking both sections up to the standard of an urban primary school. The subjects of the first section were to be taught in the morning, and those of the second or supplementary section in the evening, or vice versâ, as circumstances might dictate. No change was proposed in regard to the existing course of studies in the lower classes of upper primary, middle and high schools or in lower primary schools in urban areas. As to the preparation of text-books, this Committee rejected the proposal of the former Committee that the books should first be prepared in English and then translated into the vernaculars, and recommended that representative Committees should be appointed to prepare text-books in the vernaculars according to a syllabus, which was to be worked out by a Committee with wider educational experience. A Special Committee was accordingly appointed to draw up the syllabus of studies for rural primary schools.

5. This Special Committee, which consisted entirely of persons actually engaged in work connected with education, found themselves called upon to prepare a detailed syllabus on lines which did not appear to them to be altogether sound. They could not, for example, admit that a scheme of instruction, which was intended for the children of agriculturists, but which relegated the training of the senses to a supplementary curriculum from which such children would be for the most part excluded, could be regarded as anything but retrograde. They were also strongly of opinion that the defects referred to at the beginning of paragraph 3 above, which had been found in the courses of instruction followed at, and in the text-books used in, rural schools, existed equally in the case of urban schools. In short, the Committee felt strongly that the existing curriculum for the lower primary standards was not satisfactory for schools of any class. It seemed to them moreover that if a syllabus could be formulated which realised the principles on which the curriculum published with Resolution No. 1, dated the 1st January 1901, was based, such a syllabus would be in its essentials equally adapted to urban and rural areas. Keeping in mind the maxim of the Government of India that the aim of rural schools should be not to impart definite agricultural teaching, but to give to the children a preliminary training which would make them intelligent cultivators, and would train them to be observers, thinkers and experimenters in however humble a manner, they did not see how it could even be hoped that this would be obtained as the result of a syllabus which confined itself mainly to the "three R's." Nor could they admit that a syllabus in which "nature study," by which is meant the actual study of natural objects, did not find a prominent place, could be regarded as a serious attempt to realise the aim of rural schools as the Government of India had defined it. In the opinion of the Committee the syllabus of 1901 had failed, because it had allowed reading about objects to be substituted for the study of the objects themselves, and had ignored the fact that the faculty of observation is not developed by reading scientific treatises. It seemed to the Committee that the cultivation of the power of intelligent and accurate observation was, if possible, more important in the case of the cultivating classes than in that of any other section of the community; and it appeared to them that the teaching of simple facts connected with agriculture could not be considered as of much educational value, unless it was based on an attempt to teach the children to observe, compare and contrast the objects which surround them. The principles which underlie the development of a child's faculties are the same in the country as in the town: it is the application of these principles which varies with the environment.

6. As a result of these considerations the Special Committee drew up a syllabus of studies for infant classes and Standards I and II, designed to embody educational principles applicable to both rural and urban schools, and to indicate the methods by which those principles can be carried into effect. As a prelude to the syllabus an introduction is given, which is intended to illustrate the function which a school has to perform in relation to the larger life of the community in general and to emphasise the ethical aspect of all true education. Science primers have been abolished, and the basic principle of all nature study, viz., that children must be taken to the objects of nature and made to learn therefrom, has been insisted upon. The value to the future cultivator of studying plant life on these lines has been emphasised, and an extract from a Note on School Gardens recorded by Mr. F. G. Sly, when officiating as Inspector-General of Agriculture in India, has been appended to the syllabus in order to emphasise the conditions under which alone a school garden can be made of true educational value. Finally, provision has been made for the teaching of supplementary subjects. The syllabus thus drawn up was submitted for opinion to the gentlemen who constituted the Committee referred to at the beginning of paragraph 4 above. The opinions which these gentlemen recorded, which were generally favourable, were considered by the Special Committee, with the result that a few minor alterations have since been made in the syllabus.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor has considered very carefully the views expressed by the Special Committee and has decided to adopt the syllabuses which they have prepared, viz:—

(a) The syllabus of studies for the infant section and Standards I and II of boys' schools; and (b) the syllabus of studies for the infant section and Standards I and II of girls' schools.

The revised syllabuses will apply equally to urban and rural areas, but the supplementary subjects provided for in the syllabus for boys' schools will be optional in rural and compulsory in urban areas. The syllabus of studies for girls' schools differs slightly from that prescribed for boys' schools: a different course has been laid down for hygiene and domestic economy, and needlework has been included. In the case of all girls' schools the subjects which are supplementary in the syllabus for boys' schools form part of the obligatory course. The hours of instruction in rural areas must be left to be fixed locally; but the daily number of hours of instruction will not be less than three. The further question of the revision of the course of studies and text-books for Standards III to VI on similar lines has, under the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor, been considered by the Special Committee, and the proposals made by that Committee will shortly be submitted to Government.

8. The revised syllabus for lower primary schools will necessitate the preparation of revised text-books. The Committee referred to in the beginning of paragraph 4 above recommended, as already stated, that representative Committees should be appointed to prepare text-books in the vernaculars, and that the system hitherto followed of preparing the books first in English and then of translating them should be abandoned. The Special Committee, which was appointed to draw up the syllabus, advised, however, on several important grounds, that this procedure was feasible only in regard to literary readers, and that other books should be written in one language and then translated into the vernaculars, the translator being allowed scope sufficient to enable him to express himself in his own way in as simple language as possible. The Lieutenant-Governor has accepted this recommendation Committees will shortly be formed to prepare the text-books noted in the margin. The Junior Teachers' Manual will be divided into eight sections, each of which will be written by a separate committee. When complete, the manual will be translated into the various vernacular languages. The sections into which the Manual will be divided will be (1) the Kindergarten method of teaching, drawing and modelling; (2) the school-room and the arrangement of children; (3) hygiene; (4) the teaching of geography; (5) scientific subjects, including nature study; (6) the method of writing up attendance registers, keeping school accounts and issuing transfer certificates; (7) education in maktabs; and (8) the teaching of arithmetic. The members of these committees will be remunerated by the grant of honoraria for their work, and the results of their labour will become the property of Government. It is, however, to be clearly understood that the preparation of text-books at Government expense is not intended to discourage private enterprise. Any works submitted by private authors will be considered on their merits and accepted, provided that they fulfil the required conditions. The model text-books which will be prepared at the cost of Government will be open to inspection, so that private authors may have a chance of examining them before they begin to write their books. The latter books will not be received for consideration until the former have been published.

(1) Literary readers for the second year of the infant section and for Standards I and II in the vernaculars.
(2) An Arithmetic book for Standards I and II.
(3) A Junior Teachers' Manual.

9. It now remains to consider the date from which the new syllabuses will be brought into operation. It is expected that the model text-books will be ready by June 1908, and private authors will be given one year's time to prepare their books. It has been decided that the last lower primary examination to be held according to the existing syllabus will be held at the end of 1910, and that children beginning their studies in 1910 for the lower primary examination to be held at the end of 1911 will study during 1910 according to the revised syllabuses. No further lists of approved books for the infant section and Standards I and II will be issued until books written in accordance with the new syllabuses are ready. The first list of approved books written according to the new system will be issued in July 1909. The use of books written in accordance with the syllabus now in force will not be permitted after the 1st January 1911 in any schools maintained or aided by public funds or in schools which enjoy the privilege of competing for Government scholarships or of receiving Government scholarship-holders, unless they have been approved by Government as meeting the requirements of the revised syllabuses. Books prepared in accordance with the revised syllabuses will be prescribed for the lower primary examination to be held at the end of 1911.

10. The following books will be required according to the new syllabuses:—.

(1) A literary reader for the second year infant class, to contain about 32 pages. If suitable selections from standard writers cannot be procured, original composition may be resorted to. The reader should contain some illustrations, and it should be suitable both for Hindu and Muhammadan children. Price one anna.

(2) A literary reader for Standard I, to contain about 48 pages. Selections should be made from standard authors. The reader should contain some illustrations, and it should be suitable both for Hindu and Muhammadan children. Price one anna six pies

(3) A literary reader for Standard II, to contain about 64 pages. Selections should be made from standard authors. The reader should contain some illustrations, and it should be suitable both for Hindu and Muhammadan children. Price one anna six pies.

(4) An arithmetic book in two parts for Standards I and II. Price three annas.

The use of an alphabet book will not be made obligatory in any school; but, if any books of this class are tendered, they will be considered on their merits. The price of such books should not exceed one anna.

11. A drill book will not be required, because a book of this kind has already been prescribed by Government and is available in English and the vernaculars. No drawing book will be required.

12. Reference has been made, in paragraph 7 above, to the revision o the courses of studies and text-books for Standards III to VI. It is impossible to say at present when the revised syllabuses will be approved. It must be understood, however, that, though Government will for the present continue to consider books submitted in accordance with the present syllabuses for these standards, the approval of any such books in the future will not operate so as to bind Government to keep them on the approved list for any specified period, the intention of Government being to introduce the revised syllabuses as soon as practicable.

ORDER.—Ordered that this Resolution and the revised sy labuses for boys and girls' schools be published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. C. STREATFEILD,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Syllabus of Studies for the Infant Section and Standards I and II of Boys' Schools.

INTRODUCTION.

THE purpose of a school is to form and strengthen the character and to develop the intelligence of the children entrusted to it, and to make the best use of the school years available in assisting them to fit themselves for the work of life.

The formation of character must always be one of the main aims of education, and every part of school-life has some influence in this regard, whether for good or evil. It must, for example, be our constant endeavour to adapt the teaching of a school to the attainments of its pupils, and this not merely to secure due intellectual progress, but because children will acquire the bad habit of idleness both when the work demanded of them is too easy, and also when it is too hard. Moreover, the good moral training which a school should give cannot be left to chance; on this side no less than on the intellectual side the purpose of the teacher must be clearly conceived and intelligently carried out.

Something may be done through the expression and reading lessons. In these the children may be taken through the biographies of typical heroes or heroines, and these biographies should be treated in the main with a view to illustrating the action of real persons and the principles of conduct and qualities of character which promote the welfare of the individual and society.

The lives of great men and women, carefully selected from all stations in life, will furnish the most impressive examples of obedience, loyalty, courage, strenuous effort, serviceableness—indeed of all the qualities which make for good citizenship. The teacher should place in relief those actions of his heroes or heroines which exhibit their higher qualities, but should take care not to raise them too far above the level of common humanity by the omission of their faults or shortcomings. He should make the picture a life-like and instructive exhibition of character, and of the effect on the individual and on those around him, for good or evil, of the acts recorded.

A similar appeal can be made to the imagination of children by the use of music in well-chosen songs or of appropriate passages from the best literature of their mother-tongue.

Above all school-life must prevent children from forming bad habits, and this it can only do by training them in good habits and, if possible, in good conduct, by which is meant something wider than the mere cheerful observance of school regulations. In the matter of this moral training the most important factor will be the habitual conduct of the teacher in the school. If he is thorough, patient, kind but firm, and scrupulously fair, these traits will evoke similar traits in his pupils, and will give point and force to any moral instruction he may attempt. A teacher who is obviously slipshod and lazy discoursing to children about the value of industry and thoroughness is an absurdity which cannot but prove morally disintegrating to a child. Stories in readers designed to inculcate morals tend, if silly, as they frequently are, to make moral instruction ridiculous. Even if they are good they are of little value unless they are backed by personal example.

The every-day incidents of school-life will enable the teachers to impress upon the children the importance of punctuality, of good manners, of cleanliness and neatness, of cheerful obedience to duty, of consideration and respect for others, and of honour and truthfulness in word and act. Children will notice such details in the conduct of a teacher as punctuality, order, neatness and gentleness, and they will imitate what they see and hear. They are quick to observe; and if the teacher's conduct is in these respects defective, his example must almost certainly have a disastrous effect on the habits of the pupils. Thus the punctual and methodical performances of duties, even in matters of trivial routine, will impress upon the children better than any lesson the importance of orderliness, and the good habits of the teacher will be even more powerful than his express requirements in shaping his pupils for the proper conduct of life.

Syllabus of Studies for the Infant Section and Standards I and II of Boys' Schools.

INFANT CLASS.

FIRST YEAR.

Ages 5—7.

THE principal aim of any school in relation to infants should be to provide opportunities for the free development of their bodies and minds, and for the formation of habits of obedience and attention. The infants of the first-year class should be confined to the simplest lessons designed to develop in them the power to express their thoughts and feelings and to observe with some degree of accuracy. They should also be initiated into a rudimentary conception of colour, form and number, and should be taught to exercise their limbs and to sing simple songs.

Observation and Expression.—The lessons designed to develop the power of expression will generally, owing to a lack of staff, have to be combined with those designed to develop the power of accurate observation. These lessons should usually take the form of talks between the teacher and the children about familiar things. The subjects will vary with the surroundings and condition of the school; the essential point is that the themes selected should be well within the range of the children's comprehension and interest. Occasionally the children themselves should be asked to suggest a topic. When the chief aim of the lesson is the development of the power of expression, the subject may be a story of folklore, mythology or adventure, or even the outline biography of a striking character: when the chief aim is the development of observation the subject of the lesson should always be some concrete object. This object should always be placed before the children, and they should be given every opportunity of examining it. In these lessons the teacher should address himself to the children individually rather than to the class collectively, and his object should always be to make the children do most of the talking. Indeed throughout these lessons it is essential that the children should be trained and encouraged to talk individually. Collective answering or collective repetition of the words of the teacher by the class should never be allowed. These practices not only render these exercises valueless, but they are an actual hindrance to the development of genuine thought and free expression. Some children are shy, and therefore their natural curiosity, which should result in eager questioning, is repressed. These lessons, if properly conducted, will do much to remove this shyness, and to make children accustomed to speak out in class. It is undesirable to fetter or repress a child's liberty of speech more than is actually necessary. Unnecessary repression makes a child less communicative and less able to express his own thoughts, consequently less capable of clear thinking.

When an observation lesson is given on a natural object, such an object should always be treated as a living whole and in relation to its life. Even in the earliest lessons, the fact that each part of an animal or plant is what it is as contributing a necessary element to the life of the animal or plant should always be kept in view. Thus from the first the teacher should by questioning lead his pupils to analyse the several impressions which go to make up their total impression of the object, and then bring out the relation of each to the whole. After this process of analysis the separate aspects should be reconstructed to restore the unity of the impression of the object as a whole. Great stress should not be laid on the utility to man of the natural object which is being studied.

First year.—The observation lessons of the first year of the infant class should deal with such flowers, fruits, plants, beasts, birds, insects and fish of the district as are likely to have impressed themselves most vividly on the imagination of the children. These objects will vary in the different districts, and as regards plant-life, it is essential that each object should be taken in its season: a lesson on the cotton tree flower should, for example, be given while the cotton trees are in bloom. The same principle will apply to fish and in a minor degree to other animals. The following are given merely as illustrating the kind of objects which may be selected for these lessons :—

Flowers.—Cotton tree flower, jessamine, gold mohur, champak, convolvulus, bel flower, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Plants.—Rice, Indian-corn, cotton, mustard, pulses, jute, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Birds.—Crow, blue jay, maina, golden oriel, kingfisher, parrot, babui bird, bâk, snipe, duck, pigeon, bulbul, kite, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Insects.—Mosquito, dragonfly, butterfly, bee, ant, beetle or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Fish.—Hilsa, vetki, topshi, pabda, rohu, mirgel, katla, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

(a) Colour.—Children should be initiated into the appreciation of colour by being given objects, pieces of wool, flowers, coloured slips of wood or paper which represent the colours red, yellow, green and blue. The children should be made to group these objects under the various colours.

(b) Form.—The children should be taught to draw on a large scale such natural objects as are simple in shape. This work should be done with chalk on blackboards.

(c) Number.—Children should be initiated into the idea of number by means of objects, which must be given to the children for them to handle. What the objects are is immaterial, so long as they are small and easily handled, but it is easier to secure a child's active co-operation, if he is not always given the same kind of object. The children should first of all be given a small number of objects, not more than 20, and having learnt numeration so far, they should be made to understand the numbers 1—10, by making sets of each, dividing them into their component parts, etc. Thorough familiarity with these numbers should be aimed at, rather than rapidity of progress. When these numbers have been grasped, the number of objects given to the children may be increased, and the process of grouping and analysis continued. In this way the principles underlying the four simple rules of arithmetic should gradually be elucidated. The infants of the first-year class should be taught the principle of addition by being made to put together sets or groups of numbers which they have made. Thus from the first children can be taught to add rather than to count by units. The infants of this class should also be taught to construct multiplication tables up to 5 × 10. No table should be taught until it is constructed. Children should be gradually taught to write numbers from 1 to 50 in figures.

Reading and hand-writing.—The children in this class should be taught to recognize the simplest sounds of their vernacular language. This should be done by putting before them not isolated letters, but letters combined into short words. Words of two consonants should first of all be used. The order in which these sounds are taken is important, and experience has shown that it is best to begin by calling attention to the sounds that are produced by the visible organs of speech, i.e., the lips, and to proceed later to those produced by organs only partially visible or wholly invisible. Labial consonant sounds should therefore be taken first, then dental, then cerebral, then palatal, and finally guttural. It should be noticed moreover that such a sound as that of প (প) can be best observed at the end of a word, where it can be easily isolated and repeated after the word has been pronounced. The teacher should from the first put small words before the children, but until the simple sounds have been mastered he should use each word to illustrate especially one consonant sound. At a very early stage, for example, he would take the word তপ (তপ), but he would partially disregard the ত (ত) sound and make the children dwell on the প (প) sound in the manner described above. When a short word has been treated in the manner described, the children should be taught to copy it on a large scale either in chalk on blackboards or in trays of sand on which they can make impressions with their finger tips. Towards the end of the year palm-leaves may be used for this purpose. After the letters have been learned in the manner prescribed, the alphabet should be taught. An alphabet book may be used, but it is not to be considered in any way compulsory.

Nursery rhymes, action songs, free physical exercises.—The children should be taught to sing nursery rhymes and simple household songs. They should also, if possible, be taught action songs, dealing with the every-day activities of village life. These action songs should be connected with games, for in this way the limbs and lungs of the children can be freely exercised at the same time. Children should also be encouraged to play such games as hide-and-seek, etc. In the absence of action song games, these should form the principal medium of physical exercise. The youngest infants should not be made to do set drill.

INFANT CLASS.

SECOND YEAR.

Ages 6—8.

Observation and Expression.—The lessons designed to develop the power of expression should now aim definitely at training the children to reproduce their thoughts in logical sequence. The topics of the lessons may therefore be gradually expanded into greater detail, and the conversational form of the lesson gradually give way to a system of more continuous narration on the part of the teacher. Thus towards the middle of the year the class should be able to follow a simple story as it is narrated to them by the teacher. After the story has been told individual children should be asked to reproduce the gist of it in their own words. In the transition from conversation to continuous narration great care should be taken to ensure that the children are actively following the story. If the teacher finds that individual children are not able to reproduce the gist of the story in their own words, he may assume that they have not been actively following him and have recourse again to the more conversational method. Similarly the scope of the lessons designed to develop the power of accurate observation may be extended, and should aim at giving the children definite information about some of the most familiar natural objects with which they are daily surrounded. It must be remembered however that these lessons will fail of their main object if the information is simply told to the children without their being made to discover it for themselves. The course of lessons must be systematic, one lesson leading up to the next, and the later lessons constantly requiring some of the earlier lessons for their explanation. The object of each lesson should be the discovery of some new fact, but it is quite useless to give children various items of information about a number of disconnected natural objects. The study of plant life is recommended as capable of being systematically handled easily and economically; and as it is especially adapted to rural schools, it must on no account be neglected in them. The teacher should make an especial study of at least one branch of nature study. Technical terms shall be, as far as possible, avoided. These lessons should not always be given in the school building. The children should be taken out by the teacher and encouraged to collect specimens, etc.

Second year—In the second year of the infant class the lessons on natural objects should be continued, but some very elementary lessons on the most prominent physical phenomena should be included. The children should, for example, be made to observe the varying position of the sun at the various seasons of the year and how these different positions are accompanied by varying temperatures. It will not be possible in this class to explain many of the phenomena observed; but if the children are made to see for themselves, their observations can be made the basis of further instruction. The children can, for example, be made to see the gathering of the clouds during the rains; and thus though it may not be possible for them at this stage to understand the monsoon, they will in this way acquire material from which observations leading to a proper understanding of the monsoon can start. These lessons should centre round the seasons of the year and should be, as far as possible, brought into line with the lessons on plant-life. Thus a simple lesson on the rains might well lead to a lesson on the crops which ripen at that season, such as early rice or jute.

Object-lessons on common domestic objects may also be given both to the first and to the second year infant classes.

(a) Colour.—The children should be taught by the method indicated for the children of the first year to recognize orange, indigo and violet, and to distinguish the various colours one from the other.

(c) Number.—The children should be taught by means of concrete objects the principles underlying subtraction and division; they should also be made to construct the multiplication tables up to 10 × 10. They should then be made to work out by means of the objects given to them simple calculations and problems, involving the application of the four simple rules. When the children have learnt to write figures, they should be shown occasionally how to express on paper sums which they have already worked mentally or with the aid of objects. There should be no attempt during this year to make children work calculations on paper. The calculations and problems should therefore be confined to small numbers which do not require the use of pencil and paper.

Reading and Hand-writing.—When the children have mastered the simple sounds and learnt the combination of simple sounds into words, they should be taught to recognize the more complex sounds, such as those represented by compound consonants, and the combination of consonants and vowels other than ◌ (অ). These sounds should be taught by means of short words and not by letters taken by themselves. These words may be either written by the teacher on the blackboard or reading charts prepared on these principles may be used. The words put before the children should be copied by them on a large scale in one of the ways indicated in the syllabus of the Infant first-year class. A simple literary reader should be introduced into this class.

Nursery rhymes, action songs and games, physical exercises.—The infants of the second-year class should join with the infants of the first year in their nursery rhymes, action songs and games. Any child who is in the infant class, but is in the opinion of the teacher too old to profit by these childish amusements, should not be compelled to take part in them.

STANDARD I.

Age about 8 years.

Reading.—The main purpose of teaching to read is to enable the pupils to master printed or written matter for their own information. Silent reading should, therefore, be practised from the first, and the teacher will soon get the children into the way of this, if, to begin with, he gives them short pieces to read and after a short time goes round to the children individually and asks for an account in their own words of what has been read. Such pieces should be full of incident and interest. As regards reading aloud, clearness of utterance and fluency should always be kept in view, but it is also essential that the children should be taught to read intelligently. The teacher should make the gist of the piece clear before it is read, so that the general meaning may be mastered before it is read out in class. Without this the reading must be mechanical because it is unintelligent. It is advisable that the teacher should occasionally read out a passage to the class by way of illustration; but in this case also the class should go through the piece beforehand. The reading material put into the hands of the children is of the greatest importance. The Primer should contain nothing which is not written in good language and in words which will not be easily intelligible to all. The arrangement of each piece must be logical, and the language must be good in so far as each sentence must express clearly and straightforwardly the meaning which it is intended to convey. The Primer should contain stories which fall within the range of the children's comprehension and interest; descriptions of the various scenes and episodes of rural life should also be included. Provision should also be made in the Primer for acquainting the children with some of the more impressive stories of English and Indian history. The whole should be written in an easy narrative style. A passage having been prepared beforehand and the difficulties elucidated, the actual reading lesson should be as little as possible interrupted by the teacher, and all long disquisitions on points suggested by the subject-matter should be avoided. At the end of every reading lesson the children should be questioned on the subject-matter individually, and should be trained to give individually and in their own words an account of what has been read.

Arithmetic.—Notation up to 1,000. Tables up to 12×12 and the 16 times tables to be constructed and learnt. Calculations and problems involving the application of the four simple rules, the principles of which will have been learnt in the infant classes. These calculations and problems should be worked both mentally and with the aid of concrete objects. In the latter part of the year work should be done regularly on paper, but the problems and calculations set should not take the children into numbers above 1,000.

Hand-writing and spelling.—The teacher should write two or three words on the black board and the children should copy these on paper. The words copied should always be those which the children have recently seen at their reading lessons. Spelling being almost entirely a matter of the eye, the children should never be made to learn by rote long columns of words, and no spelling should be taught apart from the words contained in the writing and reading lessons. When the first difficulties of hand-writing have been mastered, children should be made to transcribe sentences from passages in the Primer which they have recently gone through in class.

Drawing and Modelling.—The drawing of natural objects with chalk on blackboards should be continued, as also the clay modelling. This work should be kept in close connection with the nature observation work, the objects selected for drawing or modelling being invariably those with which the children are dealing in their observation lessons. Habits of observation are better cultivated by the thorough examination of a few objects than by a less careful examination of many; therefore it is desirable that the children should be made to model the objects which they have been given to draw, and vice versâ.

Composition.—The composition in this class should be entirely oral, and should consist to a considerable extent of the reproduction by individual children in their own words of the subject-matter of the reading lessons. Another method which may with advantage be employed is to give the class a short piece of narrative to read through to themselves, and then to require individual children to give the gist of what has been read. It should be remembered, however, that the teaching of composition does not mean more than the training of children to express what is in their minds. What is taught is not really assimilated until it can be reproduced. Therefore the teaching of composition should form a part of every lesson given in the school. It is advisable to set apart a certain amount of time for these lessons, but the principles which ought to underlie them and the object at which they ought to aim should never be lost sight of in any lesson.

Nature observation lessons—

(a) A definite and systematic course of these lessons should be continued on the lines and principles laid down for the second year Infant class. The drawing and modelling work should be supplementary to and illustrative of these lessons.

(b) A class calendar should be kept in which the children's observations of all natural phenomena and plant life should be regularly recorded.

1. Natural Phenomena.—Continuation of the work begun in the second year of the Infant class. The observation of sunrise, dawn, sunset, day and night, shadow, the varying length of day and night.

2. Plant life.—Germination, the growing of beans, peas, mustard on damp flannel, the growth to be observed and sketched at every stage; the observation of the different parts of a plant, root, stem, leaf, blossom, fruit. In these relations such common plants, as the marigold or mustard, or climbing plants, such as peas or convolvulus, should be shown to the class.

In rural schools, lessons on the following should be included :—Cereals, pulses, oilseeds, vegetables, sugar, straw, jute, hemp, bamboos, timber and spices.

Hygiene.—The object of this teaching is to try and impress upon the children some simple rules of health. If this teaching is to be of any value whatever, it must proceed not merely by precept but by example. The first essential then is that the teacher himself should be a man of healthy and clean habits; the second that the school should be well ventilated and scrupulously clean; the teacher should also insist that every child who comes to school must be clean and tidy. The lessons should take the form of talks on the following or similar topics :—

(c) The necessity for pure water, fresh air, sunlight and ventilation, the danger of shutting up sleeping-rooms.

SUPPLEMENTARY SUBJECTS FOR STANDARD I.

(a) Elementary Drill.—Simple exercises. Special attention should be paid to exercises designed to counteract the effect of bad habits which may be contracted at school, such as sitting with the shoulders rounded and the chest contracted, etc.

(b) Hand and eye training, including drawing—

(1) Drawing in pencil natural objects, the drawing of which in chalk has formed part of the compulsory curriculum.

(2) Modelling in clay natural forms, such as fruit and leaves.

In addition to the above, mat-work, basket-weaving or paper-folding may be introduced, if considered desirable.

(c) Arithmetic—

More advanced work on the lines of the compulsory course.

(d) Nature Observation Lessons—Animal life.

See instructions (a) given under the head of "Nature observation lessons."

A class calendar should be kept in which the children's observations of animal life should be regularly recorded.

Continuation of the lessons on the same lines as those prescribed for the second year of the Infant class, the treatment of the subject being slightly more advanced; the distinction between herbivorous and carnivorous animals.

Animals should be observed and talked about in relation to their natural surroundings.

STANDARD II.

Age about 9 years.

Reading.—The reading lessons should be continued on the lines laid down for Standard I. The stories contained in the Primer for this class should be written in the same easy narrative style as that prescribed for Standard I, and equally in this as in the lower class should the language used be such as is generally intelligible to all. The stories should be slightly more detailed and complex than those written for Standard I. In the case of rural schools the Primer should also contain short and simple descriptions of the chief crops, fruits, etc., of the district, the conditions under which they thrive, their value, use, etc. These lessons should be closely connected with the nature observation lessons, the observation lesson on a mango, for example, being followed by a reading lesson on the same subject. Stories of the more important events of Indian and English history should be included in the Primer.

Arithmetic.—Notation above 1,000. The children should continue to work mentally with the aid of concrete objects, and on paper, problems and calculations involving the application of the four simple rules. They should also be taught the value of the various coins of the currency, and the weights and measures which are in use in villages. These should not be taught merely by rote. The children should be supplied with token coins, and they should be taught to work out reductions, etc., with these coins, before abstract reductions are attempted. When the children are able to make reductions in the concrete, sums which they have worked in this way may be expressed on the blackboard or on paper, and an easy transition thus made to abstract work. Similarly, with weights, an ordinary pair of scales (tol dari) should, where possible, be provided and the children not only shown their use, but made to work out for themselves at the scales reductions from seers to chitaks, etc. Similarly with land measurements, the children should be taken out of the school building and made to measure out for themselves bighas, cottahs and chitaks. The school building should be measured by the children under the guidance of the teacher, and the measurements recorded. Having thus mastered the meaning of weights and measures, they can, if their capacity and time permit, be made to work out abstract calculations. As regards land measure, the essential thing is that they should be able to measure land for themselves.

As regards "Subhankari," while it is recognized that various tables must be learnt by heart, their practical application should be insisted upon and the arithmetical principles underlying them should be explained.

The course to be followed will include the following:—Notation and numeration of kará, ganda, buri, pan, chouk, káthá and seer up to 100. Tables of money, weights, and measures in common use, and simple problems thereon. Sayiá, deriyá, aráyia.

Hand-writing and Spelling.—The children should be taught to write by being made to copy words and sentences written by the teacher on the blackboard. They should also be made to transcribe passages which they have recently read in the Primer. Passages from the Primer should also be written out by the children at the dictation of the teacher, this exercise being varied by the occasional repetition to the children or the reproduction in the teacher's words of a story either told or read to them for the purpose of a composition exercise. When the children have acquired some facility in writing, the teacher should show to the class various specimens of handwriting and draw attention to their peculiarities. If the teacher can in this way get the children over the initial difficulty of reading handwriting, he should occasionally give them letters, and in the case of rural primary schools easy specimens of kabuliyats, jamabandis, khasras, pattas, rent receipts, etc., to puzzle out in class and then read out individually. The difficulty involved in reading these documents can only be surmounted by practice and individual effort. A number of different manuscripts should therefore be distributed among the class, each child being given a different one. In connection with the handwriting work the rudiments of postal information should be imparted (vide Circular No. 85 of the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, dated the 16th June 1905).

Drawing and Modelling.—The drawing on blackboards and clay modelling should be continued on the lines laid down for Standard I, it being always kept in mind that this work is to be treated as supplementary to, and illustrative of, the nature observation work.

Nature Observation Work—

(a) A systematic course of lessons on the lines prescribed for the lower classes should be continued, care being taken that these lessons supplemented and illustrated by the drawing and modelling work should lead up to the descriptive reading lessons about crops, etc., mentioned in the reading syllabus for this standard. Thus—to take an example of a natural object, which enters very largely into the children's lives, a mango,—by an observation lesson on a mango the several impressions which go to make up a child's total impression of the object should be analysed and the relation of each to the whole brought out. By being made to model it in clay he learns really to know its shape, in his reading lesson he learns something about the conditions under which it grows, its uses and value, and, finally, the mango can be made a subject of composition, either oral or written. If written, the composition should be illustrated and the faculty for memory drawing thus brought into play.

(b) A class calendar should be kept in which the children's observations of all natural phenomena and plant life should be regularly recorded.

1. Natural Phenomena.—The observation of such phenomena as air, wind, evaporation, rain, the rainbow, dew, the action of water on land, etc.

2. Plant life.—Continuation of the work prescribed for Standard I. Observation of roots, stems and leaves with a view to their simple classification.

Plants should be observed and talked about in relation to their natural surroundings.

Composition.—The teaching of composition should be continued on the same lines and principles as are laid down for Standard I. The children should also occasionally be made to reproduce in writing what they have read or heard. As regards this, however, it must be remembered that the difficulties inseparable from writing hamper a child's freedom of expression, and that while it is important that these difficulties should be removed, it is essential that they should not be allowed to check a child's natural expansiveness, which should by this time have been developed into a certain power of expression. The easiest method of transition from oral to written composition is for the teacher to write on the blackboard at the children's dictation. This will enable him to explain the division of a passage into sentences. When the passage is written on the blackboard, the children should be made to transcribe it. Written composition however should be only an occasional exercise; oral composition must never be discontinued. Again while neatness should be insisted on, children should not be allowed to stop and rule lines, etc. Such practices are not only a waste of time, but they divert a child's attention and so hamper his power of expression. At these lessons excessive attention should not be paid to the formation of letters, etc.; for this also tends to diversion. The main object of these lessons is not the formation of hand-writing, but the development of the power of expression.

Poetry.—The Primer should contain pieces of simple but good poetry, and these should be learnt by heart by the children. Extreme care should be taken that no piece is included in the Primer which has not at least a strong claim to be considered poetry. It has been said "that learning by heart is valueless, unless in the process the memory is enriched with a store of beautiful thoughts, expressed in beautiful language, which will serve as a touchstone to the scholar's own method of expression and be a constant source of pleasure to him." When a piece of poetry has been selected for the class to learn by heart, it should always first of all be read aloud by the children individually. It should moreover always be learnt individually and never dictated to the class and then repeated in unison. Such a device is the merest mechanical drill and destroys any value recitation may have. It is not in the least necessary that all the children in the class should learn the same passages or the same amount of poetry. Capacities vary, and few, if any, poems make the same appeal to all children. It is desirable therefore that, as far as circumstances permit, the poetry taught to each child should be adapted to his capacities and tastes.

Geography.—The aim of teaching geography in these schools is to enable the children to observe for themselves the chief physical features of their actual surroundings. It will probably not be possible to take the children very far in this direction; something, however, will have been gained, if the children can be trained to an accurate apprehension of the spatial relation of the various divisions of their neighbourhood. It should be remembered that geography ought not to be regarded as an isolated part of the curriculum. It is impossible, for example, to give rational teaching about natural products without treating of the kind of places in which, for example, a particular plant, etc., grows. The children will, for instance, be told that rice will not grow in a place where there is not plenty of water attainable. From this fact the teacher would naturally pass to the reason why water lies in certain parts of the village and not in others. If he is giving an observation lesson it is not advisable for him to embark widely on side issues. The correct method is that one part of the curriculum should supplement the other. The aim of the school being to train children to observe intelligently what they see daily around them, the teacher cannot neglect altogether the most important physical features of the locality. A rational study of these, combined with instruction designed to make the children appreciate to some extent dimension and spatial relation, can be made up into a system of geographical teaching, which, though limited, is both educationally sound and capable of almost infinite development. As a method of teaching dimension and spatial relation, it is suggested that the children should first of all be taught to notice the variation in the shadow of the sun cast by the school building at different times of the day. In this way they will learn by actual observation the cardinal points, and will thus get a fixed standard by which to arrange objects in the school, the playground, and the immediate neighbourhood. They should then proceed to actual measurements—here the teaching can be brought into line with the arithmetic work,—and these measurements should first of all be done in a small area, and by a rough-and-ready method, such as stepping. Measurements by time should also, if possible, be practised, i.e., a child should be made to walk certain distances which he has already paced, and the teacher should tell him how long he took to cover each. The next step should be to measure larger areas outside the school. When the child has acquired some fairly accurate idea of distance, he must be taught to represent what he has measured. This is a difficult step. The first plan drawn must be the plan of a small space, such as the school-room, and an easy and fairly efficient method of transition is to make the child step the space of which he is going to draw a plan, record his steps and then tell him that the length of his thumb-joint is to represent one step. When he has mastered the idea of drawing by scale, he should, if possible, be shown a map of the neighbourhood or village, and gradually trained to draw plans of larger and more complicated areas, the goal being to be able to draw a large scale plan of the neighbourhood. For geography teaching the children should not be confined to the school buildings. It is essential that they should be taken out to walk distances and to see with their own eyes.

Hygiene.—These lessons should be continued on the same principles and lines as those prescribed for Standard I. The scope should be, if possible, slightly extended so as to include some information as to how simple complaints—wounds, snake-bites, burns, etc.,—should be treated, how a drowning person should be handled, and infection and contagion avoided, etc.

Supplementary subjects for Standard II.

(a) Elementary Drill.—More difficult exercises on the lines prescribed for Standard I.

(b) Hand and eye training, including drawing.—Drawing in pencil natural objects, the drawing of which has formed part of the compulsory curriculum; the drawing of natural objects from memory should occasionally be practised.

In addition to the above, mat-work, basket-weaving and paper-folding may be introduced, if considered desirable.

(c) Arithmetic.—Revision of the work prescribed in the compulsory course, calculations and problems in connection with the compound rules.

(d) Nature Observation Work—Animal Life.

See instructions (a) given under the head of "Nature observation work."

A class calendar should be kept in which children's observations of animal life should be regularly recorded.

Continuation of the work prescribed for Standard I, leading to a consideration of the principal types of animal life. Vertebrate animals should be taken before Invertebrate, and the following order of treatment is suggested :—

Vertebrates.—Mammals, amphibians and fish, birds and reptiles.

Invertebrates.—Snail, bee, spider, lobster, earthworm, etc.

NOTE ON SCHOOL GARDENS.

In connection with the study of plant life, the importance of which has been insisted upon in the syllabus, the provision of school gardens should be considered as most desirable, Where a garden is impossible, plants should be grown in boxes or pots. The attention of school managers, teachers and others is invited to the following extract from some remarks on school gardens made by Mr. F. G. Sly, Officiating Inspector-General of Agriculture in India:—

"The master must use real objects, in order to cultivate in the child the habits of observing and thinking. In this matter, school gardens are of primary importance. I recognize the difficulties that in some parts stand in the way of providing each rural school with a garden, but these might be overcome more often than they are. Where this is impossible, a very great deal can be accomplished by growing plants in boxes and pots. The right use of a school garden or school pots is not always enforced. I have seen school gardens in which the whole of the work was done by the school watchman and which served the sole purpose of growing a few English vegetables for presentation to an inspecting officer. The best school gardens visited by me serve the useful purposes of beautifying the school surroundings and of giving some manual training to the children, but even these objects are of secondary importance. The real object of a school garden should be to supply materials for object-lessons in which the pupils can study the growth of plants. It should be a garden where 'nature is studied in its relations to the child, from the child's standpoint, by the teacher with the children.' If there is not room for each child to grow his own patch, each class should jointly cultivate its own plot, not in order to produce the best results, but to observe and study plant growth. Under the guidance of the teacher, the child should observe the parts of a seed, the plant food in it, the process of germination and the conditions necessary for it. In each stage of the growth of the plant he should pull up a specimen and observe the roots, their uses and their growth; the stems, their uses and structure; the leaves, their uses and structure; the flowers, their parts and uses, and methods of fertilization; the fruits and seeds, their formation and uses, methods of disposal and the like. He should observe the soil and its composition, the effect of plant food and manures. The garden should be deliberately used to give object-lessons in failures as well as in successes in connection with soils, drainage, manures, weeds and the like. School gardens need by no means be expensive; a portion of the school compound can often be utilized, and the commonest seeds obtained free in the village are as useful as those purchased from a merchant. In any case, the cost of growing some plants in pots and boxes is infinitesimal. Plants collected from the roadside and cultivator's field can never take the place of a school garden. The child must do the things himself; he must sow his own seed and observe the growth of his own plants."

INTRODUCTION.

THE purpose of a school is to form and strengthen the character and to develop the intelligence of the children entrusted to it, and to make the best use of the school years available in assisting them to fit themselves for the work of life.

The formation of character must always be one of the main aims of education, and every part of school-life has some influence in this regard, whether for good or evil. It must, for example, be our constant endeavour to adapt the teaching of a school to the attainments of its pupils, and this not merely to secure due intellectual progress, but because children will acquire the bad habit of idleness both when the work demanded of them is too easy, and also when it is too hard. Moreover, the good moral training which a school should give cannot be left to chance; on this side no less than on the intellectual side the purpose of the teacher must be clearly conceived and intelligently carried out.

Something may be done through the expression and reading lessons. In these the children may be taken through the biographies of typical heroes or heroines, and these biographies should be treated in the main with a view to illustrating the actions of real persons and the principles of conduct and qualities of character which promote the welfare of the individual and society.

The lives of great men and women, carefully selected from all stations in life, will furnish the most impressive examples of obedience, loyalty, courage, strenuous effort, serviceableness—indeed of all the qualities which make for good citizenship. The teacher should place in relief those actions of her heroes or heroines which exhibit their higher qualities, but should take care not to raise them too far above the level of common humanity by the omission of their faults or shortcomings. She should make the picture a life-like and instructive exhibition of character, and of the effect on the individual and on those around him, for good or evil, of the acts recorded.

A similar appeal can be made to the imagination of children by the use of music in well-chosen songs, or of appropriate passages from the best literature of their mother-tongue.

Above all, school-life must prevent children from forming bad habits, and this it can only do by training them in good habits and, if possible, in good conduct, by which is meant something wider than the mere cheerful observance of school regulations. In the matter of this moral training the most important factor will be the habitual conduct of the teacher in the school. If she is thorough, patient, kind but firm, and scrupulously fair, these traits will evoke similar traits in her pupils and will give point and force to any moral instruction she may attempt. A teacher who is obviously slipshod and lazy discoursing to children about the value of industry and thoroughness is an absurdity which cannot but prove morally disintegrating to a child. Stories in readers designed to inculcate morals tend, if silly, as they frequently are, to make moral instruction ridiculous. Even if they are good, they are of little value unless they are backed by personal example.

The every-day incidents of school-life will enable the teacher to impress upon the children the importance of punctuality, of good manners, of cleanliness and neatness, of cheerful obedience to duty, of consideration and respect for others, and of honour and truthfulness in word and act. Children will notice such details in the conduct of a teacher as punctuality, order, neatness and gentleness, and they will imitate what they see and hear. They are quick to observe; and if the teacher's conduct is in these respects defective, her example must almost certainly have a disastrous effect on the habits of the pupils. Thus the punctual and methodical performances of duties, even in matters of trivial routine, will impress upon the children better than any lesson the importance of orderliness, and the good habits of the teacher will be even more powerful than her express requirements in shaping her pupils for the proper conduct of life.

Syllabus of Studies for the Infant Section and Standards I and II of Girls' Schools.

INFANT CLASS.

FIRST YEAR.

Ages 5—7.

THE principal aim of any school in relation to infants should be to provide opportunities for the free development of their bodies and minds, and for the formation of habits of obedience and attention. The infants of the first-year class should be confined to the simplest lessons designed to develop in them the power to express their thoughts and feelings and to observe with some degree of accuracy. They should also be initiated into a rudimentary conception of colour, form and number, and should be taught to exercise their limbs and to sing simple songs.

Observation and Expression.—The lessons designed to develop the power of expression will generally, owing to a lack of staff, have to be combined with those designed to develop the power of accurate observation. These lessons should usually take the form of talks between the teacher and the children about familiar things. The subjects will vary with the surroundings and conditions of the school ; the essential point is that the themes selected should be well within the range of the children's comprehension and interest. Occasionally the children themselves should be asked to suggest a topic. When the chief aim of the lesson is the development of the power of expression, the subject may be a story of folklore, mythology or adventure, or even the outline biography of a striking character : when the chief aim is the development of observation, the subject of the lesson should always be some concrete object. This object should aways be placed before the children, and they should be given every opportunity of examining it. In these lessons the teacher should address herself to the children individually rather than to the class collectively, and her object should always be to make the children do most of the talking. Indeed throughout these lessons it is essential that the children should be trained and encouraged to talk individually. Collective answering or collective repetition of the words of the teacher by the class should never be allowed. These practices not only render these exercises valueless, but they are an actual hindrance to the development of genuine thought and free expression. Some children are shy, and therefore their natural curiosity, which should result in eager questioning, is repressed. These lessons, if properly conducted, will do much to remove this shyness, and to make the children accustomed to speak out in class. It is undesirable to fetter or repress a child's liberty of speech more than is actually necessary. Unnecessary repression makes a child less communicative and less able to express his own thoughts, consequently less capable of clear thinking.

When an observation lesson is given on a natural object, the object should always be treated as a living whole and in relation to its life. Even in the earliest lessons, the fact that each part of an animal or plant is what it is as contributing a necessary element to the life of the animal or plant, should always be kept in view. Thus from the first the teacher should by questioning lead her pupils to analyse the several impressions which go to make up their total impression of the object, and then bring out the relation of each to the whole. After this process of analysis, the separate aspects should be reconstructed to restore the unity of the impression of the object as a whole. Great stress should not be laid on the utility to man of the natural object which is being studied.

First year.—The observation lessons of the first year of the infant class should deal with such flowers, fruits, plants, beasts, birds, insects and fish of the district as are likely to have impressed themselves most vividly on the imagination of the children. These objects will vary in the different districts, and as regards plant-life, it is essential that each object should be taken in its season : a lesson on the cotton tree flower should, for example, be given while the cotton trees are in bloom. The same principle will apply to fish, and in a minor degree to other animals. The following are given merely as illustrating the kind of objects which may be selected for these lessons :—

Flowers.—Cotton tree flower, jessamine, gold mohur, champak, convolvulus, bel flower, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Fruits.—Papaya, pomelo, litchi, mango, plums, custard apple, plantain, pineapple, jack fruit, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Plants.—Rice, Indian-corn, cotton, mustard, pulses, jute, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Animals.—Domestic animals, cow, goat, cat, dog, etc. ; Wild animals—tiger, monkey, elephant, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Birds.—Crow, blue jay, maina, golden oriel, kingfisher, parrot, babui bird, bâk, snipe, duck, pigeon, bulbul, kite, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Insects.—Mosquito, dragonfly, butterfly, bee, ant, beetle, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

Fish.—Hilsa, vetki, topshi, pabda, rohu, mirgel, katla, or any other type commonly found in the locality.

(a) Colour.—Children should be initiated into the appreciation of colour by being given objects, pieces of wool, flowers, coloured slips of wood or paper, which represent the colours red, yellow, green and blue. The children should be made to group these objects under the various colours.

(b) Form.—The children should be taught to draw on a large scale such natural objects as are simple in shape. This work should be done with chalk on blackboards.

(c) Number.—Children should be initiated into the idea of number by means of objects, which must be given to the children for them to handle. What the objects are is immaterial, so long as they are small and easily handled, but it is easier to secure a child's active co-operation, if the same kind of object is not always given. The children should first of all be given a small number of objects, not more than 20, and having learnt numeration so far, they should be made to understand the numbers 1—10, by making sets of each, dividing them into their component parts, etc. Thorough familiarity with these numbers should be aimed at, rather than rapidity of progress. When these numbers have been grasped, the number of objects given to the children may be increased and the process of grouping and analysis continued. In this way the principles underlying the four simple rules of arithmetic should gradually be elucidated. The infants of the first-year class should be taught the principle of addition by being made to put together sets or groups of numbers which they have made. Thus from the first children can be taught to add rather than to count by units. The infants of this class should also be taught to construct multiplication tables up to 5×10. No table should be taught until it is constructed. Children should be gradually taught to write numbers from 1 to 50 in figures.

Reading and hand-writing.—The children in this class should be taught to recognize the simplest sounds of their vernacular language. This should be done by putting before them, not isolated letters, but letters combined into short words. Words of two consonants should first of all be used. The order in which these sounds are taken is important, and experience has shown that it is best to begin by calling attention to the sounds that are produced by the visible organs of speech, i.e., the lips, and to proceed later to those produced by organs only partially visible or wholly invisible. Labial consonant sounds should therefore be taken first, then dental, then cerebral, then palatal, and finally guttural. It should be noticed moreover that such a sound as that of প্ (প্) can be best observed at the end of a word, where it can be easily isolated and repeated after the word has been pronounced. The teacher should from the first put small words before the children, but until the simple sounds have been mastered, she should use each word to illustrate especially one consonant sound. At a very early stage, for example, she would take the word তপ্ (তপ), but she would partially disregard the ত (ত) sound and make the children dwell on the প্ (প) sound in the manner described above. When a short word has been treated in the manner described, the children should be taught to copy it on a large scale either in chalk on blackboards or in trays of sand on which they can make impressions with their finger tips. Towards the end of the year palm-leaves may be used for this purpose. After the letters have been learned in the manner prescribed, the alphabet should be taught. An alphabet book may be used, but it is not to be considered in any way compulsory.

Nursery rhymes, action songs, free physical exercises.—The children should be taught to sing nursery rhymes and simple household songs. They should also, if possible, be taught action songs dealing with the every-day activities of village life. These action songs should be connected with games, for in this way the limbs and lungs of the children can be freely exercised at the same time. Children should also be encouraged to play such games as hide-and-seek, etc. In the absence of action song games these should form the principal medium of physical exercise. The youngest infants should not be made to do set drill.

Needle-work.—None.

INFANT CLASS.

SECOND YEAR.

Ages 6—8.

Observation and Expression.—The lessons designed to develop the power of expression should now aim definitely at training the children to reproduce their thoughts in logical sequence. The topics of the lessons may therefore be gradually expanded into greater detail, and the conversational form of the lessons gradually give way to a system of more continuous narration on the part of the teacher. Thus towards the middle of the year the class should be able to follow a simple story as it is narrated to them by the teacher. After the story has been told individual children should be asked to reproduce the gist of it in their own words. In the transition from conversation to continuous narration great care should be taken to ensure that the children are actively following the story. If the teacher finds that individual children are not able to reproduce the gist of the story in their own words, she may assume that they have not been actively following her and have recourse again to the more conversational method. Similarly the scope of the lessons designed to develop the power of accurate observation may be extended, and should aim at giving the children definite information about some of the most familiar natural objects with which they are daily surrounded. It must be remembered however that these lessons will fail of their main object if the information is simply told to the children without their being made to discover it for themselves. The course of lessons must be systematic, one lesson leading up to the next, and the later lessons constantly requiring some of the earlier lessons for their explanation. The object of each lesson should be the discovery of some new fact, but it is quite useless to give children various items of information about a number of disconnected natural objects. The study of plant life is recommended as capable of being systematically handled easily and economically; and as it is especially adapted to rural schools, it must on no account be neglected in them. The teacher should make an especial study of at least one branch of nature study. Technical terms shall be, as far as possible, avoided. These lessons should not always be given in the school building. The children should be taken out by the teacher and encouraged to collect specimens, etc.

Second year.—In the second year of the infant class the lessons on natural objects should be continued, but some very elementary lessons on the most prominent natural phenomena should be included. The children should, for example, be made to observe the varying position of the sun at the various seasons of the year and how these different positions are accompanied by varying temperatures. It will not be possible in this class to explain many of the phenomena observed; but if the children are made to see for themselves, their observations can be made the basis of further instruction. The children can, for example, be made to see the gathering of the clouds in the rains; and thus though it may not be possible for them at this stage to understand the monsoon, they will in this way acquire material from which observations leading to a proper understanding of the monsoon can start. These lessons should centre round the seasons of the year and should be, as far as possible, brought into line with the lessons on plant-life. Thus a simple lesson on the rains might well lead to a lesson on the crops which ripen at that season, such as early rice or jute.

Object-lessons on common domestic objects may also be given both to the first and to the second year infant classes.

(a) Colour.—The children should be taught, by the method indicated for the children of the first year, to recognize orange, indigo and violet, and to distinguish the various colours one from the other.

(b) Form.—The drawing of natural objects on blackboards should be continued. The children should also be taught to model in clay the natural objects put before them for the observation lessons.

(c) Number.—The children should be taught by means of concrete objects the principles underlying subtraction and division; they should also be made to construct the multiplication tables up to 10×10. They should then be made to work out, by means of the objects given to them, simple calculations and problems, involving the application of the four simple rules. When the children have learnt to write figures, they should be shown occasionally how to express on paper sums which they have already worked mentally or with the aid of objects. There should be no attempt during this year to make children work calculations on paper. The calculations and problems should, therefore, be confined to small numbers which do not require the use of pencil and paper.

Reading and Hand-writing.—When the children have mastered the simple sounds and learnt the combination of simple sounds into words, they should be taught to recognize the more complex sounds, such as those represented by compound consonants, and the combination of consonants and vowels other than ৃ (ৃ). These sounds should be taught by means of short words and not by letters taken by themselves. These words may be either written by the teacher on the blackboard, or reading charts prepared on these principles may be used. The words put before the children should be copied by them on a large scale in one of the ways indicated in the syllabus of the Infant first-year class. A simple literary reader should be introduced into this class.

Nursery rhymes, action songs and games, physical exercises.—The infants of the second-year class should join with the infants of the first-year in their nursery rhymes, action songs and games. Any child who is in the infant class, but is in the opinion of the teacher too old to profit by these childish amusements, should not be compelled to take part in them.

Needle-work.—Needle-drill and hemming.

STANDARD I.

Age about 8 years.

Reading.—The main purpose of teaching to read is to enable the pupils to master printed or written matter for their own information. Silent reading should, therefore, be practised from the first, and the teacher will soon get the children into the way of this, if, to begin with, she gives them short pieces to read and after a short time goes round to the children individually and asks for an account in their own words of what has been read. Such pieces should be full of incident and interest. As regards reading aloud, clearness of utterance and fluency should always be kept in view, but it is also essential that the children should be taught to read intelligently. The teacher should make the gist of the piece clear before it is read, so that the general meaning may be mastered before it is read out in class. Without this the reading must be mechanical because it is unintelligent. It is advisable that the teacher should occasionally read out a passage to the class by way of illustration; but in this case also the class should go through the piece beforehand. The reading material put into the hands of the children is of the greatest importance. The Primer should contain nothing which is not written in good language and in words which will not be easily intelligible to all. The arrangement of each piece must be logical, and the language must be good in so far as each sentence must express clearly and straightforwardly the meaning which it is intended to convey. The Primer should contain stories which fall within the range of the children's comprehension and interest; descriptions of the various scenes and episodes of rural life should also be included. Provision should also be made in the Primer for acquainting the children with some of the more impressive stories of English and Indian history. The whole should be written in an easy narrative style. A passage having been prepared beforehand and the difficulties elucidated, the actual reading lesson should be as little as possible interrupted by the teacher, and all long disquisitions on points suggested by the subject-matter should be avoided. At the end of every reading lesson the children should be questioned on the subject-matter individually, and should be trained to give individually and in their own words an account of what has been read.

Arithmetic.—Notation up to 1,000. Tables up to 12×12 and the 16 times table to be constructed and learnt. Calculations and problems involving the application of the four simple rules, the principles of which will have been learnt in the infant classes. These calculations and problems should be worked both mentally and with the aid of concrete objects. In the latter part of the year work should be done regularly on paper, but the problems and calculations set should not take the children into numbers above 1,000.

Hand-writing and spelling.—The teacher should write two or three words on the black-board and the children should copy these on paper. The words copied should always be those which the children have recently seen at their reading lessons. Spelling being almost entirely a matter of the eye, the children should never be made to learn by rote long columns of words, and no spelling should be taught apart from the words contained in the writing and reading lessons. When the first difficulties of hand-writing have been mastered, children should be made to transcribe sentences from the passages in the Primer which they have recently gone through in class.

Drawing and Modelling.—The drawing of natural objects with chalk on black boards should be continued, as also the clay modelling. This work should be kept in close connection with the nature observation work, the objects selected for drawing or modelling being invariably those with which the children are dealing in their observation lessons. Habits of observation are better cultivated by the thorough examination of a few objects than by a less careful examination of many; therefore it is desirable that the children should be made to model the objects which they have been given to draw, and vice versâ.

Composition.—The composition in this class should be entirely oral, and should consist to a considerable extent of the reproduction by individual children in their own words of the subject-matter of the reading lessons. Another method which may with advantage be employed is to give the class a short piece of narrative to read through to themselves, and then to require individual children to give the gist of what has been read. It should be remembered, however, that the teaching of composition does not mean more than the training of the children to express what is in their minds. What is taught is not really assimilated until it can be reproduced. Therefore the teaching of composition should form a part of every lesson given in the school. It is advisable to set apart a certain amount of time for these lessons, but the principles which ought to underlie them and the object at which they ought to aim should never be lost sight of in any lesson.

Nature observation lessons :—

(a) A definite and systematic course of these lessons should be continued on the lines and principles laid down for the second year Infant class. The drawing and modelling work should be supplementary to and illustrative of these lessons.

(b) A class calendar should be kept in which the children's observations of all natural phenomena and plant and animal life should be regularly recorded.

1. Natural Phenomena.—Continuation of the work begun in the second year of the Infant class. The observation of sunrise, dawn, sunset, day and night, shadow, the varying length of day and night.

2. Plant life.—Germination, the growing of beans, peas, mustard on damp flannel, the growth to be observed and sketched at every stage; the observation of the different parts of a plant, root, stem, leaf, blossom, fruit. In these relations such common plants, as the marigold or mustard, or climbing plants, such as peas or convolvulus, should be shown to the class.

In rural schools, lessons on the following should be included :—cereals, pulses, oilseeds, vegetables, sugar, straw, jute, hemp, bamboos, timber and spices.

Animal life.—Continuation of the lessons on the same lines as those prescribed for the second year of the Infant class, the treatment of the subject being slightly more advanced; the distinction between herbivorous and carnivorous animals.

Plants and animals should be observed and talked about in relation to their natural surroundings.

Elementary Drill.—Simple exercises. Special attention should be paid to exercises designed to counteract the effect of bad habits which may be contracted at school, such as sitting with the shoulders rounded and the chest contracted, etc. The subject is not compulsory, but should be taken whenever possible. The Ling system of drill is one that is recommended.

Hand and eye training, including drawing.—(1) Drawing in pencil natural objects, the drawing of which in chalk has been practised in connection with the nature observation lessons. (2) Modelling in clay natural forms, such as fruits and leaves.

In addition to the above mat-work, basket-weaving or paper-folding may be introduced, if considered desirable.

Hygiene and Domestic Economy.—Bathing, clothing, necessity for cleanliness. Simple laws of health, such as those relating to rest, exercise, sleep, etc.

Needle-work.—Top-sewing and back-stitching.

STANDARD II.

Age about 9 years.

Reading.—The reading lessons should be continued on the lines laid down for Standard I. The stories contained in the Primer for this class should be written in the same easy narrative style as that prescribed for Standard I, and equally in this as in the lower class should the language used be such as is generally intelligible to all. The stories should be slightly more detailed and complex than those written for Standard I. In the case of rural schools, the Primer should also contain short and simple descriptions of the chief crops, fruits, etc., of the district, the conditions under which they thrive, their value, use, etc. The lessons should be closely connected with the nature observation lessons, the observation lesson on a mango, for example being followed by a reading lesson on the same subject. Stories of the more important events of Indian and English history should be included in the Primer.

Arithmetic.—Notation above 1,000. The children should continue to work mentally with the aid of concrete objects, and on paper, problems and calculations involving the application of the four simple rules. They should also be taught the value of the various coins of the currency, and the weights and measures which are in use in villages. These should not be taught merely by rote. The children should be supplied with token coins, and they should be taught to work out reductions, etc., with these coins, before abstract reductions are attempted. When the children are able to make reductions in the concrete, sums which they have worked in this way may be expressed on the blackboard or on paper, and an easy transition thus made to abstract work. Similarly, with weights, an ordinary pair of scales (toï dari) should, where possible, be provided, and the children not only shown their use, but made to work out for themselves at the scales reductions from seers to chitaks, etc. The school building should be measured by the children under the guidance of the teacher, and the measurements recorded. Having thus mastered the meaning of weights and measures, they can, if their capacity and time permit, be made to work out abstract calculations.

As regards "Subhankari," while it is recognized that various tables must be learnt by heart, their practical application should be insisted upon and the arithmetical principles underlying them should be explained.

The course to be followed will include the following:—Notation and numeration of karâ, ganda, buri, pan, chouk, kâthâ, and seer up to 100. Tables of money, weight and measures in common use, and simple problems thereon. Sayiâ, deriyâ, arayia.

Hand-writing and spelling.—The children should be taught to write by being made to copy words and sentences written by the teacher on the blackboard. They should also be made to transcribe passages which they have recently read in the Primer. Passages from the Primer should also be written out by the children at the dictation of the teacher, this exercise being varied by the occasional repetition to the children or the reproduction in the teacher's words of a story either told or read to them for the purpose of a composition exercise. When the children have acquired some facility in writing, the teacher should show to the class various specimens of hand-writing and draw attention to their peculiarities. In connection with the hand-writing work, the rudiments of postal information should be imparted (vide Circular No. 85 of the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, dated the 16th June 1905).

Drawing and Modelling.— The drawing on blackboards and clay modelling should be continued on the lines laid down for Standard I, it being always kept in mind that this work is to be treated as supplementary to, and illustrative of, the nature observation work.

Nature Observation Work.—(a) A systematic course of lessons on the lines prescribed for the lower classes should be continued, care being taken that these lessons supplemented and illustrated by the drawing and modelling work should lead up to the descriptive reading lessons about crops, etc., mentioned in the reading syllabus for this standard. Thus—to take an example of a natural object, which enters very largely into the children's lives, a mango,—by an observation lesson on a mango the several impressions which go to make up a child's total impression of the object should be analysed and the relation of each to the whole brought out. By being made to model it in clay, she learns really to know its shape; in her reading lesson she learns something about the conditions under which it grows, its uses and value, and, finally, the mango can be made a subject of composition, either oral or written. If written, the composition should be illustrated and the faculty for memory drawing thus brought into play.

(b) A class calendar should be kept in which the children's observations, all natural phenomena and plant life should be regularly recorded.

1. Natural Phenomena.—The observation of such phenomena as air, wind, evaporation, rain, the rainbow, dew, the action of water on land, etc.

2. Plant life.—Continuation of the work described for Standard I. Observation of roots, stems and leaves, with a view to their simple classification.

3. Animal life.—Continuation of the work described for Standard I, leading to a consideration of the principal types of animal life. Vertebrate animals should be taken before invertebrate, and the following order of treatment is suggested:—

Vertebrates.—Mammals, amphibians and fish, birds and reptiles.

Invertebrates.—Snail, bee, spider, lobster, earthworm, etc.

Plants and animals should be observed and talked about in relation to their natural surroundings.

Composition.—The teaching of composition should be continued on the same lines and principles as are laid down for Standard I. The children should also occasionally be made to reproduce in writing what they have read or heard. As regards this, however, it must be remembered that the difficulties inseparable from writing hamper a child's freedom of expression and that while it is important that these difficulties should be removed, it is essential that they should not be allowed to check a child's natural expansiveness, which should by this time have been developed into a certain power of expression. The easiest method of transition from oral to written composition is for the teacher to write on the black-board at the children's dictation. This will enable her to explain the division of a passage into sentences. When the passage is written on the black-board, the children should be made to transcribe it. Written composition, however, should be only an occasional exercise; oral composition must never be discontinued.

Again while neatness should be insisted on, children should not be allowed to stop and rule lines, etc. Such practices are not only a waste of time, but they divert a child's attention and so hamper her power of expression. At those lessons excessive attention should not be paid to the formation of letters, etc.; for this also tends to diversion. The main object of these lessons is not the formation of handwriting, but the development of the power of expression.

Poetry.—The Primer should contain pieces of simple but good poetry, and these should be learnt by heart by the children. Extreme care should be taken that no piece is included in the Primer which has not at least a strong claim to be considered poetry. It has been said "that learning by heart is valueless, unless in the process the memory is enriched with a store of beautiful thoughts, expressed in beautiful language, which will serve as a touchstone to the scholar's own methods of expression and be a constant source of pleasure to him." When a piece of poetry has been selected for the class to learn by heart, it should always first of all be read aloud by the children individually. It should moreover always be learnt individually and never dictated to the class and then repeated in unison. Such a device is the merest mechanical drill and destroys any value recitation may have. It is not in the least necessary that all the children in the class should learn the same passages or the same amount of poetry. Capacities vary, and few, if any poems, make the same appeal to all children. It is desirable therefore that, as far as circumstances permit, the poetry taught to each child should be adapted to her capacities and tastes.

Geography.—The aim of teaching geography in these schools is to enable the children to observe for themselves the chief physical features of their actual surroundings. It will probably not be possible to take the children very far in this direction; something, however, will have been gained, if the children can be trained to an accurate apprehension of the spatial relation of the various divisions of their neighbourhood. It should be remembered that geography ought not to be regarded as an isolated part of the curriculum. It is impossible, for example, to give rational teaching about natural products without treating of the kind of places in which, for example, a particular plant, etc., grows. The children will, for instance, be told that rice will not grow in a place where there is not plenty of water attainable. From this fact the teacher would naturally pass to the reason why water lies in certain parts of the village and not in others. If she is giving an observation lesson it is not advisable for her to embark widely on side issues. The correct method is that one part of the curriculum should supplement the other. The aim of the school being to train children to observe intelligently what they see daily around them, the teacher cannot neglect altogether the most important physical features of the locality. A rational study of these combined with instruction designed to make the children appreciate to some extent dimension and spatial relation can be made up into a system of geographical teaching, which, though limited, is both educationally sound and capable of almost infinite development. As a method of teaching dimension and spatial relation, it is suggested that the children should first of all be taught to notice the variation in the shadow of the sun cast by the school building at different times of the day. In this way they will learn by actual observation the cardinal points, and will thus get a fixed standard by which to arrange objects in the school, the playground and the immediate neighbourhood. They should then proceed to actual measurements—here the teaching can be brought into line with the arithmetic work,—and these measurements should first of all be done in a small area, and by a rough-and-ready method, such as stepping. Measurements by time should also, if possible, be practised, i.e., a child should be made to walk certain distances which she has already paced, and the teacher should tell her how long she took to cover each. The next step should be to measure larger areas outside the school. When the child has acquired some fairly accurate idea of distance, she must be taught to represent what she has measured. This is a difficult step. The first plan drawn must be the plan of a small space, such as the school-room, and an easy and fairly efficient method of transition is to make the child step the space of which she is going to draw a plan, record her steps and then tell her that the length of her thumb-joint is to represent one step. When she has mastered the idea of drawing by scale, she should, if possible, be shown a map of the neighbourhood or village, and gradually trained to draw plans of larger and more complicated areas, the goal, being to be able to draw a large scale plan of the neighbourhood. For geography teaching, the children should not be confined to the school buildings; it is essential that they should, whenever possible, be taken out to walk distances, and to see with their own eyes.

Elementary Drill.—More difficult exercises on the lines prescribed for Standard I. The subject is not compulsory, but should be taken whenever possible.

Hand and eye training, including drawing.— Drawing in pencil the natural objects, studied in connection with the nature observation lessons; the drawing of natural objects from memory should occasionally be practised.

In addition to the above, mat-work, basket-weaving and paper-folding may be introduced, if considered desirable.

Hygiene and Domestic Economy.—The whole method of keeping clean the hut or house and its sourroundings.

Food.—Cleanliness to be observed. Cleaning of utensils. Supply of good water for cooking food. How to ascertain when fish, vegetables, etc., are fresh. The cooking of rice and the advantage of eating it warm.

Sleep.—Regular hours of sleep. Disadvantage of excessive sleep in the daytime. Use of mosquito curtains. Airing and sunning of bedding and blankets.

Needle-work.—Running, felling and patchwork.

NOTE ON SCHOOL GARDENS.

In connection with the study of plant life, the importance of which has been insisted upon in the syllabus, the provision of school gardens should be considered as most desirable. Where a garden is impossible, plants should be grown in boxes or pots. The attention of school managers, teachers and others is invited to the following extract from some remarks on school gardens made by Mr. F. G. Sly, Officiating Inspector-General of Agriculture in India:—

"The master must use real objects, in order to cultivate in the child the habits of observing and thinking. In this matter, school gardens are of primary importance. I recognize the difficulties that in some parts stand in the way of providing each rural school with a garden, but these might be overcome more often than they are. Where this is impossible, a very great deal can be accomplished by growing plants in boxes and pots. The right use of a school garden or school pots is not always enforced. I have seen school gardens in which the whole of the work was done by the school watchman, and which served the sole purpose of growing a few English vegetables for presentation to an inspecting officer. The best school gardens visited by me served the useful purposes of beautifying the school surroundings and of giving some manual training to the children, but even these objects are of secondary importance. The real object of a school garden should be to supply materials for object-lessons in which the pupils can study the growth of plants. It should be a garden where 'nature is studied in its relations to the child, from the child's standpoint, by the teacher with the children.' If there is not room for each child to grow his own patch, each class should jointly cultivate its own plot, not in order to produce the best results, but to observe and study plant growth. Under the guidance of the teacher, the child should observe the parts of a seed, the plant food in it, the process of germination and the conditions necessary for it. In each stage of the growth of the plant he should pull up a specimen and observe the roots, their uses and their growth; the stems, their uses and structure; the leaves, their uses and structure; the flowers, their parts and uses, and methods of fertilization; the fruits and seeds; their formation and uses, methods of disposal and the like. He should observe the soil and its composition, the effect of plant food and manures. The gardens should be deliberately used to give object-lessons in failures as well as in successes in connection with soils, drainage, manures, weeds and the like. School gardens need by no means be expensive; a portion of the school compound can often be utilized, and the commonest seeds obtained free in the village are as useful as those purchased from a merchant. In any case, the cost of growing some plants in pots and boxes is infinitesimal. Plants collected from the roadside and cultivator's field can never take the place of a school garden. The child must do the things himself; he must sow his own seed and observe the growth of his own plants."

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON EMIGRATION FROM THE PORT OF CALCUTTA TO BRITISH AND FOREIGN COLONIES FOR THE YEAR 1906.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EMIGRATION.

Darjeeling, the 12th June 1907.

RESOLUTION—No. 1055T—G.

READ—

The Annual Report on Emigration from the Port of Calcutta to British and Foreign Colonies for the year 1906.

No important administrative measures were adopted by this Government during the year under review. An addition was made to Rules 6 and 7 of the Rules framed under Act XXI of 1883, empowering Subdivisional Magistrates to grant certificates of character and identity to recruiters, and Rule 133 was amended in order to provide that unmarried women should be so located as to separate them from the quarters of the single men and the crew on board emigrant vessels. The Government of Fiji passed two ordinances amending the law relating to Indian immigrants. The most important of these lays down that in future the right of an immigrant to a free return passage to India shall be forfeited, unless it is exercised within two years from the date when it accrues. Several minor alterations were also made in the laws relating to Indian immigrants in Natal and Mauritius.

2. Seven emigration agencies were at work during the year, six representing the British Colonies and one the Dutch Colony of Surinam. There was a general increase in the demand and supply of labour for the Colonies, the total number of labourers requisitioned and despatched during the year amounting to 14,276 and 13,362 as against 8,157 and 8,933 respectively in 1905. In all 23,336 emigrants or 8,040 more than in the previous year were registered in 1906. This increase is attributed to the continuance of scarcity and the consequent rise in the prices of food-grains in the recruiting districts. As in previous years recruitment was most vigorous in the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, from which 74·99 per cent. of the emigrants came: the districts of Fyzabad, Basti and Cawnpore furnished the largest numbers.

3. Of the 23,575 emigrants admitted into the sub-depôts 2,862 were rejected by the medical officers in the recruiting districts as unfit to emigrate. Twenty thousand two hundred and thirty-three emigrants arrived at Calcutta and were accommodated in the depôts at Garden Reach. This number was reduced by rejections, releases and other causes to 14,827, of whom only 14,035 were sent to the Colonies during the year, the remainder (792) being left for subsequent despatch. The figures show an increase over those for 1904 and 1905, when 7,451 and 12,651 persons respectively were admitted into the depôts and 7,135 and 9,322 embarked for the Colonies. The largest number (3,866) of emigrants was received by Natal and the smallest (619) by Mauritius.

4. Though the sanitary arrangements of the depôts were satisfactory, the amount of sickness and mortality was higher than in 1905; and this is ascribed by the Protector of Emigrants to the general unhealthiness of the year. The number of deaths caused by cerebro-spinal meningitis is a matter for grave consideration. A report on this subject was submitted by the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, to the Sanitary Commissioner to the Government of India in March last.

5. During the year under review 5,718 immigrants returned from the Colonies with savings amounting to Rs. 9,12,277-0-6, the average for each immigrant being Rs. 159-8-8 as compared with Rs. 171-13-4 a head in the preceding years. On the other hand, as many as 2,413 emigrants or 18·73 per cent. of the total number of returned emigrants came back with no savings at all. As in previous years, the immigrants in Natal sent the largest remittances by money orders, the total amount so sent being over 14 lakhs.

6. The accounts of the Emigration Fund show that the year closed with a balance of Rs. 14,688-11-3. This surplus is chiefly due to the increase of receipts on account of the larger number of emigrants embarked during the year.

7. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to Dr. Banks for his careful administration and report. This officer held the office of the Protector of Emigrants throughout the year, with the exception of 40 days when he was on leave.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. C. STREATFEILD,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

GENERAL SUMMARY.—Rain was fairly general in the Province, the fall being light in most districts. In Cooch Behar and Darjeeling the rainfall was heavy, while in Midnapore, the 24-Parganas, Darbhanga, Purnea, Cuttack and Balasore, it was moderate. More rain is wanted in Burdwan. Hooghly, Murshidabad, Champaran, Muzaffarpur, Bhagalpur, the Sonthal Parganas and Ranchi. Sugarcane is doing well, but it is reported to have been injuriously affected for want of rain in parts of Burdwan. In Darbhanga the number of persons on gratuitous relief is 11,208, on test-works 2,675, and on relief-works 20,684. Cattle-disease is reported from eight districts. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. In parts of Ranchi, fodder is reported to be scarce. The price of common rice has risen in three and fallen in five districts.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL DURING THE MONTH OF MAY 1907.

During the month of May the rainfall was in general defect throughout the whole Province. In South-West Bengal, the fall was slightly in excess of the normal in the district of Howrah. In Bihar it was normal in Bhagalpur and slightly above the average in the Sonthal Parganas. In Orissa and Chota Nagpur it was in great defect. The deficiency was well marked in the districts of Birbhum and Bankura in South-West Bengal, in the districts of Patna, Gaya, Saran, Champaran and Muzaffarpur in Bihar, in the districts of Angul and Puri in Orissa, and in the districts of Hazaribagh, Ranchi, Manbhum and Singbhum in Chota Nagpur. All the above districts recorded less than 50 per cent. of the normal. On an average South-West Bengal received 4·08 inches, Bihar 1·59 inches, Orissa 2·23 inches and Chota Nagpur 0·73 inch. The departure from the normal was (—1·30 inches) in South-West Bengal, (—0·82 inch) in Bihar, (—1·92 inches) in Orissa, and (—1·55 inches) in Chota Nagpur.

The following table gives full data for comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of May for all districts of the Province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-reporting stations in each district.

The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall, as determined from the observations of past years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the actual rainfall of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage. The fourth column gives the same information as the third in a slightly different form, stating as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied in excess or defect from the normal:—

The mean pressure, temperature, etc., are deduced from the traces of the Kundsen's Barograph and from eye observations.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground. The rainfall reported on any day is for 24 hours preceding 8 A.M. of that day.

o, overcast; t, thunder; <, lightning; K, thunderstorm; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers.

Notification.—No. 8R.—The following agreement, executed under the provisions of section 41 of Act I of 1894 between the Secretary of State and the Nilgiri Granite and Stone Company, Limited, for the acquisition of land required for the Balasore-Nilgiri Tramway, is published for general information :—

W. A. INGLIS,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Memorandum of Agreement made this eleventh day of June 1907 BETWEEN THE NILGIRI GRANITE AND STONE COMPANY LIMITED a Company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act 1882 and having its registered office at No. 1 Lall Bazar Street in the town of Calcutta (hereinafter called the Company) of the one part and THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL (hereinafter called the Secretary of State) of the other part.

Whereas upon the application of the Company the Government of Bengal has consented to take up or acquire on behalf of the Company under the provisions of Act No. 1 of 1894 of the Governor-General of India in Council for the purpose of the construction of a tramway from Balasore Railway Station, Orissa to Nilgiri in the Nilgiri Estate the piece or parcel of land containing 36 acres 66 dhoors or thereabouts situate in the villages of Sovarampur, Angargaria, Samalpur, Sarswatipur, Bampuda, Sutai, Barghai, Barchikhunta, Jagallal-patna, Somnathpur, Khoprapada, Paharpur, Armala, Barhuan, and Bimbiria Parganas Sunhat, Armala and Mukhura Zilla Balasore and more particularly described in, the five plans hereto annexed it having been shewn to the satisfaction of the said Government of Bengal that the proposed acquisition for the purpose aforesaid is likely to prove useful to the public.

And whereas the said Government of Bengal has required the Company under the provisions of section 41 of the above mentioned Act to enter into the agreement with the Secretary of State hereinafter contained NOW THESE PRESENTS WITNESS that it is hereby agreed and declared as follows :—

1. The Company shall pay to the said Government of Bengal before the hereinbefore described piece or parcel of land is transferred to the Company the cost of the same and also all costs of the acquisition inclusive of all payments and allowances in respect thereof payable under the provisions of the said Act.

2. Upon such payment by the Company the Secretary of State shall execute and do all such acts deeds matters and things as may be necessary or proper for effectually vesting the said piece or parcel of land in the Company.

3. The said piece or parcel of land shall be held by the Company solely for the purposes of such a tramway as is hereinbefore mentioned and for no other purpose whatsoever.

4. The said tramway shall be completed and fully equipped in all respects ready for use within two years from the date when the said piece or parcel of land shall have been transferred to the Company.

5. If at any time after the said tramway shall have been completed as aforesaid the Company shall cease to work the same for a period of two consecutive years then and in such case Government shall be at liberty to take possession of the said piece or parcel of land and on taking such possession shall be at liberty either to sell or otherwise deal with the same or any part or parts thereof as they may think proper and any sum or sums received by Government on any such sale or dealing as aforesaid shall after deducting all expenses incurred by them in connection with any such sale or other dealing be paid to the Company.

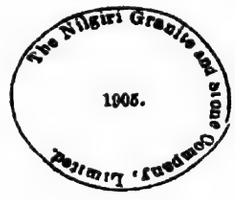
6. The Public shall have no right and the company will not permit them to use the said tramway unless or until the same shall be made subject to the provisions of the Indian Railways Act or any statutory modification or re-enactment thereof for the time being in force and unless or until the Company shall obtain the necessary powers to carry passengers and goods other than their servants and their own property.

In witness whereof the Nilgiri Granite and Stone Company Limited has hereunto caused its common seal to be affixed and the Secretary of State for India in Council hath hereunto set his hand and seal the day and year first written.

The common seal of the abovenamed Nilgiri Granite and Stone Company Limited was hereto affixed in the presence of



N. N. BLOMEFIELD,
Solicitor, Calcutta.

THE INDIAN LAW REPORTS.

Published in FOUR SERIES, viz.

CALCUTTA MADRAS, BOMBAY AND ALLAHABAD.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Gove nor General in Council, are printed in monthly Parts, which are issued, as soon as possible after the first of each month, at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

The Reports comprise four Series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court.

The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt: and the Madras, Bombay and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, respectively.

Persons desiring to subscribe for or purchase the Reports should apply to—the Officer in charge, Bengal Secretariat Book Depôt, Calcutta, or

the Superintendent, Government Press, Madras, or
the Superintendent, Government Central Press, Bombay, or the Curator of Government Books, United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, Allahabad.

PART IV.

Bills of the Bengal Council.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

No. 1127., dated the 25th June, 1907.—In exercise of the power conferred by rule 34 of the Rules for the Conduct of the Legislative Business of the Bengal Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to order the publication of the following Bill, which it is proposed to introduce in the said Council, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons :—

to amend the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866, in the manner hereinafter appearing, Ben. Act IV of 1866. Ben. Act II of 1866.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title

1. This Act may be called the Calcutta and Suburban Police (Amendment) Act, 1907.

Amendment of section 43 of Ben. Act IV of 1866

2. For section 43 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, the following shall be substituted, namely:— Ben. Act IV of 1866.

"43. (1) When the Commissioner of Police receives information,

Power to order discontinuance of use of house as brothel, disorderly house or place of assignation.

(a) that any house in the vicinity of any educational institution or of any boarding-house, hostel or mess used or occupied by students, or of any place of public worship or recreation is used as a brothel or disorderly house, or [Cf. Ben. Act III of 1906, s. 2]

(b) that any house is used as aforesaid to the annoyance of respectable inhabitants of the vicinity, or

(c) that any house, room or place is used for the purpose of carrying on the business of a common prostitute, or

(d) that any house, room or place is used as a common place of assignation, he may issue notice to the owner (if in occupation), lessor, lessee, tenant, manager or occupier of the house, room or place to appear before him either in person or by agent on a date to be fixed in such notice, and to show cause why, on the grounds to be stated in the notice, an order should not be passed for the discontinuance of such use of the house, room or place.

(2) If on the date fixed or on any subsequent date to which the hearing may be adjourned, the Commissioner of Police is satisfied, after making such inquiry as he deems fit, that the house, room or place is used as described in clause (a), clause (b), clause (c) or clause (d) of sub-section (1), as the case may be, he may by written order direct such owner, lessor, lessee, tenant, manager or occupier, within a period to be stated in such order, not less than ten days from the date thereof, to discontinue such use.

(3) For the purposes of an inquiry under sub-section (2), the Commissioner of Police may depute the Deputy Commissioner of Police to make a local investigation, and may take into consideration his report thereon.

(4) The decision of the Commissioner of Police that a house, room or place is used in any manner, or for any purpose, described in clauses (a), (b), (c) or (d) of sub-section (1) shall be final, and the legality or propriety thereof shall not be questioned in any trial or judicial proceeding in any Court.

Power to order woman to cease to reside in house or street for purpose of prostitution.

"43A. (1) When the Commissioner of Police receives information of the nature described in clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 43, he may issue notice to any woman who resides in, or frequents the house, room or place, and thereafter hold an inquiry in the manner prescribed in the said section. [Cf. Bom. Act IV of 1906, s. 28.]

(2) If, after such inquiry, the Commissioner of Police is satisfied that such woman resides in or frequents the house, room or place for the purpose of prostitution, he may, by written order, direct her, within a period to be stated in such order, not less than ten days from the date thereof, to cease to reside in or frequent such house, room or place for such purpose, and may direct her not to reside in or frequent for such purpose any street specified in the order.

Penalty for breach of order.

"43B. (1) If any person against whom an order has been passed by the Commissioner of Police under sub-section (2) of section 43, or under section 43A, fails to comply with such order within the period stated therein, or at any time thereafter commits a breach of such order, he shall, unless he is able to prove to the satisfaction of the Magistrate that the order should have been passed against some person other than himself, be punished, on summary conviction before a Magistrate, with imprisonment which may extend to three months, or with a fine which may extend to twenty-five rupees for every day after the expiration of the said period during which the breach continues. [Cf. Ben. Act III of 1906, s. 2 (2).]

(2) The decision of a Magistrate on the question whether the order of the Commissioner of Police should have been passed against some person other than the accused shall be final; and the legality or propriety thereof shall not be questioned in any trial or judicial proceeding in any Court.

Power of owner or lessor to determine lease or tenancy

"43C. Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the owner or lessor of any house, room or place, against the lessee, tenant or occupier of which an order has been passed under section 43, shall be entitled forthwith to determine such lease, tenancy or occupation,

"43D. (1) The Commissioner of Police may, upon complaint made to him in writing by any person, by written order direct the discontinuance in any place of music or singing, the beating of drums or tomtoms, and the blowing or sounding of horns or other noisy instruments, if he is satisfied that the same is a nuisance and ought to be summarily stopped either on account of the dangerous illness of, or because it seriously interferes with the reasonable occupation of, any person resident or lawfully engaged in the neighbourhood: [Cf. Bom. Act IV of 1902, s. 23(f).]

Power to order discontinuance of music in certain cases.

Provided that in any case where the discontinuance of music, or other sounds as aforesaid, is so ordered, it shall be lawful for a Magistrate, upon the complaint of any person aggrieved, and if satisfied that the order complained of is unreasonable under the circumstances, to alter or reverse such order as he deems fit, and the Commissioner of Police shall give effect to any such alteration or reversal:

Provided also that nothing in this section shall apply to music or other sounds as aforesaid in any place of public worship, or on the occasion of any religious observance.

(2) Any person who contravenes an order of the Commissioner of Police passed under sub-section (1), shall be punished with a fine which may extend to one hundred rupees."

Amendment of sections 46 and 80 of Ben. Act IV of 1866.

3. In section 46 and in section 80 of the said Act, for the word "Inspector," the word "Sub-Inspector" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 51 of Ben. Act IV of 1866.

4. In section 51 of the said Act—

(a) the words "not exceeding one-fourth" shall be omitted, and

(b) for the words "an informer" the words "any person who has contributed in any way to the conviction" shall be substituted. [Cf. Bur Act I of 1899, s. 16.]

Amendment of section 62 of Ben Act IV of 1866, and of section 39 of Ben. Act II of 1866

5. In section 62 of the said Act, and in section 39 of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866, after the words "such procession may pass," the following words shall be inserted, namely:— Ben Act II of 1866.

"and forbidding the carrying of any sword, spear, gun or other offensive weapon by members of such assemblies and processions;"

Amendment of clause (13) of section 66 of Ben. Act IV of 1866, and of clause (13) of section 40 of Ben. Act II of 1866.

6. In clause (13) of section 66 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and in clause (13) of section 40 of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866, for the words "or fence" in both places in which they occur, the words "fence, post, pole or other erection" shall be substituted. Ben Act IV of 1866. Ben Act II of 1866.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE main object of this Bill is so to amend the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, as to give the Commissioner of Police wider powers to close brothels and disorderly houses, to enable him effectively to deal with the evil caused by the use of empty houses as places of assignation, and thus to afford protection to the student community in particular and the public in general.

2. Other amendments which it is proposed to make in the above-mentioned Act, as well as in the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866, are explained in the subjoined "Notes on Clauses."

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 2, new section 43.—The provisions of section 43 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, present difficulties in the way of closing such houses as are aimed at in the Bill. After the issue of a summons the Commissioner of Police is obliged to hold a regular judicial inquiry, often protracted by lengthy cross-examination of witnesses and arguments of Counsel. His order is liable to be questioned, resulting in a repetition of the proceedings before a Magistrate. It is proposed that the Commissioner of Police should be empowered to hold a summary inquiry, and that his finding that a house is used in the way complained of should be final. Under the proposed new section 43, the person against whom a notice is issued will have full opportunity of stating his case before the Commissioner.

New section 43 A.—The object of this new section is to give the Commissioner of Police power to clear streets of undesirable inhabitants.

New section 43 B.—The question who is the owner, occupier or other person responsible for the use of a house may present difficulty. In view of the summary nature of the Commissioner's proceedings, it seems desirable to allow any person summoned before a Magistrate for a breach of an order to show that the order should not have been made against himself, the burden of proof being placed on him, and the finality of the Magistrate's order being secured by not allowing it to be questioned before any other Court.

New section 43 C.—It is intended by this new section to provide for the case of owners ignorant of the use to which the lessee or tenant has put the house, and to enable them to protect themselves.

New section 43 D.—This proposed new section follows section 28 (f) of the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902, providing a summary procedure for stopping noisy music and drum-beating which causes annoyance to neighbouring residents. It is not intended to interfere with music proceeding from places of worship, or on occasions of religious observances.

Clause 3.—The wording of sections 46 and 80 of the Calcutta Police Act contemplates the exercise of powers by officers in charge of police-stations, who have hitherto been styled Inspectors. The change proposed in this clause is due to the fact that the officers in charge are now, under the new system, styled Sub-Inspectors.

Clause 4.—The reward which may be given in gambling cases is, under the existing law, so small, that there is little or no inducement for informers to come forward. The proposed amendment is based on section 16 of the Burma Gambling Act, 1899.

Clause 5.—It is doubtful whether under the existing law the Commissioner of Police is entitled to prevent persons marching in procession carrying offensive weapons, unless some overt illegal act is committed which would cause such a procession to become an illegal procession. It is essential on the grounds of public security that the Commissioner should be so entitled.

Clause 6.—Though section 66 of the Calcutta Police Act, 1866, and section 40 of the Calcutta Suburban Police Act, 1866, provide penalties for defacing buildings, walls or fences, there is no provision for the protection from disfigurement of telegraph, tramway and other posts which in many cases are elaborately painted and decorated. Such a provision seems necessary.

No. 271 (third publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 607 of 1907, that two breakers, about one cable apart, are reported to have been seen in a position situated about half a mile S. 45° E. from Observation rock in the approach to Pallada roadstead They have been placed on the chart in this position and marked P.D.

(Variation 5° Westerly in 1907.)

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Charts :—Cape Durock to Linden point, No. 1816 ; Plan of Pallada roadstead on chart No. 1271 : Also, Sailing Directions for Japan, Korea, &c., 1904, page 146.

KOREA WEST COAST—Chemulpho approach.

Lights reliable during winter.

No. 272 (third publication).—With reference to Notices to Mariners Nos. 130 and 155, dated 14th April and 14th May 1904, respectively, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 608 of 1907) that, in consequence of the improvement made in the unwatched lights on White rocks, North Watcher, Yo dol mi, and So Wolmi, in the approach to Chemulpho, they may be considered as reliable as any other unwatched lights even in cold weather.

Approximate position, So Wolmi, lat. 37° 27¾′ N, long. 126° 35¾′ E.

NEW ZEALAND—North island, west coast.

Hokianga river—Channel altered.

No. 273 (third publication).—The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 609 of 1907) that owing to a long duration of easterly winds, the main channel into Hokianga river has shifted to the northward, rendering the leading lights useless for the present. Inward-bound vessels should therefore pay strict attention to the signals made by semaphore.

Approximate position, lat. 35° 32′ S., long. 173° 23′ E.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart—Hokianga river, No. 1091a ; Also, New Zealand Pilot, 1901, page 235.

GENERAL SUMMARY.—Rain was general throughout the Province, the fall being very heavy in South Bihar, in the Bhagalpur and Presidency Divisions and in Birbhum, Howrah, Saran, Puri, Palamau and Manbhum. The rain although heavy in many districts is reported to have benefited the standing crops and to have been generally good for agricultural operations. Damage has been done by heavy floods to marua and other crops in parts of Gaya and by storms to jute in Jessore. Sugarcane is doing well. Weeding of jute has commenced. In Darbhanga the number of persons on gratuitous relief is 11,380, on test-works 870 and on famine relief-works 5,507. Cattle-disease is reported from five districts. Fodder and water are sufficient. The price of common rice has risen in twelve districts and fallen in one. Reports have not been received from Hooghly, Murshidabad, Sambalpur, Hazaribagh and Ranchi.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL AND IN EASTERN BENGAL AND ASSAM FOR THE MONTH OF MAY 1907.

At the end of the preceding month rain had been fairly general over North-East India. Rain then decreased on the 1st and 2nd of the month, but became nearly general again in Eastern Bengal and Assam on the 3rd and 4th. Weather then improved, and no rain fell up to the 9th, except in Assam, where rain continued to fall locally. Cloud decreased with the rainfall, and from the 5th to the 9th was reported only from Assam. Temperature was approximately normal. During the next week weather was dry in Bihar, Chota Nagpur and Orissa; rainfall, however, was fairly general in the remainder of the area under report on the 11th and 14th, and occurred daily in Assam. Skies were clear in the west of the division and cloudy in the east, and temperature was generally normal or in excess. During the week ending May 23rd, rain fell over the whole division, chiefly in the eastern half, and was most widespread on the 19th. Skies were clear or only lightly clouded in Chota Nagpur and Bihar and lightly to moderately clouded elsewhere, while temperature was nearly normal except on the 19th and 20th, when it was lower than usual in the western districts. During the remainder of the month rain fell every day in Eastern Bengal and Assam, and on most days in Orissa, while occasional rain occurred in the remainder of the division. Skies were thickly clouded in the eastern half of the division, and were generally clear or only lightly clouded in the west. Temperature was approximately normal except on the 25th and 26th, when weather was cooler than usual in the western and central districts.

The weather in the Bay was marked by two cyclonic disturbances, the first being a storm of considerable intensity. On the 3rd of the month the 8 A.M. observations indicated a tendency towards the establishment of a cyclonic circulation round the Andaman sea. Special observations called for at 18 hours on the same day, showed that very heavy rain was falling all along the Tenasserim coast. Winds at that time were generally light and the direction at Rangoon was southerly. During the next few hours a storm of considerable severity but very small extent appears to have developed rapidly or possibly passed into the Andaman sea from outside the reporting area, and indicated its existence by a rapid fall of pressure at Moulmein. It crossed the coast during the next 24 hours, giving torrential rain to and inflicting considerable damage on that station. A remarkable feature of the storm was the weakness of the winds at Diamond Island and Rangoon during its existence in the Andaman sea, the rapid fall of the barometer at Moulmein and a moderate northerly wind at that station being the only indications of disturbed weather, a few hours before it crossed the coast. The second disturbance was of moderate severity and like its predecessor it formed probably in front of a temporary advance of the monsoon current. It passed from the north-west of the Andamans over Diamond Island about midnight of the 15th. It broke up rapidly after it crossed the coast, and appears to have been felt to a small extent only at Bassein, near which station its centre must have passed.

Summary of temperature.—Mean temperature was about 2° in defect over Chota Nagpur and Orissa, but not far from normal over the rest of the reporting area. The highest temperature recorded was 110·6, and this was reported from Bankura and Daltonganj. The lowest was 61·2 reported from Gaya.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Provinces of Bengal and of Eastern Bengal and Assam for the month of May 1907:—

Meteorological Division.	Temperature.
	Highest observed during month.	Lowest observed during month.	Average for month.			Average mean of month above or below normal mean of month.
			Of highest of each day.	Of lowest of each day.	Of mean for each day.
Bengal	110·6	68·2	97·2	76·9	87·1	− 0·3
Eastern Bengal, North	104·3	61·4	91·4	72·7	82·1	0
Eastern Bengal, South	97·8	68·0	90·4	75·2	82·8	+ 0·1
Bihar	109·5	61·2	99·4	75·1	87·2	− 0·7
Orissa	110·0	68·6	96·7	78·3	87·5	− 1·3
Chota Nagpur*	110·6	62·5	100·7	75·0	88·0	− 2·0
Assam	97·1	63·0	87·0	71·5	79·3	− 0·2

* Purulia not included.

Summary of rainfall.—The rainfall work of the Province has been placed in the hands of the Director of Agriculture, Bengal, and the usual data regarding the actual and normal rainfall during the month are published by that officer. A short table, however, is attached to this report, giving the rainfall recorded during the month at the head-quarters of the various districts of the Province.

Rainfall was in general defect over the whole reporting area, Burdwan, Gaya and a few stations in Eastern Bengal alone recording an excess.
